DARLAN ASSASSINATED

22,000 SCHOOL EMPLOYES GET 5½% PAY HIKE

14,500 Teachers' '32 Cut Restored.

James B. McCahey.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced last night that the salaries of all 22,000 board employés would be increased by 5½ per cent next year. McCahey made this disclosure after examining proofs of the tentative 1943 budget, which will be received by the board Monday. The increase will affect 14,500 teachers.

McCahey explained that the raise, which will amount to $2,538,000, is the last step in restoring the full basic salaries, which have not been paid employés since 1931. Employés were forced to take a cut of 23⅓ per cent of their basic pay in 1932, but thru economies effected by the present school administration the restoration has been accomplished little by little, he said.

All Employés to Benefit.

Engineers, janitors, clerks, and all other workers will share the raise with the teachers. Elementary teachers, who are entitled to $250 a month after nine years of service, and high school teachers, whose basic salary is $380 a month after 10 years, will be paid the full salary for the first time in 11 years.

McCahey said the restoration would be possible despite reductions of approximately 3⅓ million dollars in tax levies for school purposes. He pointed out that the board saved two million dollars in school operations in 1941 and four million dollars in 1942.

Money was saved this year by not replacing all the workers who were drafted or who left their positions for other jobs, he explained. In addition, no new regular assignments of teachers were made because of dwindling enrollment. The board plans next year to cut the free text book fund by $250,000 and slash the building fund $3,250,000, he said.

Standards to Be Maintained.

McCahey added that the restoration of pay, the economies, and the smaller tax levies would not lower the standard of opportunity and service in the schools.

"During the last year, additional expense was entailed by operating the schools for civilian defense programs and selective service registrations, and by tying the schools more closely to the preinduction training program," he added. "These programs will be continued and extended during the current school year, altho they will require additional expense."

McCahey quoted C. J. Kleinfelder, assistant United States commissioner of education, who on Oct. 21 said "the entire Chicago school system has gone all-out in giving the students essential training, and under Philip L. McNamee, assistant superintendent in charge of vocational education, they have done a fine job."

County Schools Meet Problem.

The annual report of Noble J. Puffer, superintendent of Cook county schools, disclosed yesterday that shift of workers' families to defense areas was causing problems in 14 districts, despite a slight decrease in the county's total school enrollment. In the overpopulated districts the school day has had to be shortened for each pupil so that all enrolled could be accommodated thru staggered attendance, he said.

Puffer explained that not a single portable building or addition to an existing structure has been approved for Cook county under the Lanham act, which provides for erection of portable buildings to house overflow enrollments in defense areas.

GIVES RARE GEMS TO MRS. HOPKINS

Beaverbrook Dispatches Emeralds to Bride.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Mrs. Louise Macy Hopkins, wife of Harry Hopkins, special assistant to President Roosevelt in charge of lend-lease operations, received as a bridal gift a parure of emeralds from her husband's British counterpart, William M. Aitken, who holds the title of Baron Beaverbrook and is on the receiving end of lend-lease, it was learned today.

[The ensemble of jewelry known as the parure was the characteristic jewelry of the 18th century. It includes earrings and brooch, necklace or clasp, and ring, and sometimes shoulder brooches or buckles, all to match. In some parures only one kind of gems is used. In others several sorts of precious stones are used.]

An intimate friend of the bridal couple, who live at the White House, used the term "parure" advisedly, insisting that "ensemble" was not the word to describe a gift of gems which are more costly than diamonds. The friend, who was permitted to view the gift, said it consists of a necklace, ear drops, a bracelet, and a brooch.

Intermediary Not Revealed.

Hopkins, who is the No. 1 intimate of the President, and Mrs. Macy, New York divorcée and fashion designer, were married last Aug. 1, in the first White House wedding in 24 years.

Beaverbrook was not a guest at the wedding—he was busy in London in connection with his end of the lease-lend billions but he sent his gift. It could not be learned how the gift was sent, but it was assumed that because of its cost, it was carried by some trusted intermediary in place.

Beaverbrook and Hopkins met when the one time social worker, who became head of the works progress administration and later secretary of commerce, undertook a confidential mission to London for the President.

Continual Acquaintance.

Beaverbrook was then minister of supply. He quit that office amid criticism and then was made lend-lease coördinator.

As minister of supply, Beaverbrook continued his acquaintance with Hopkins when he came to this county along with Winston Churchill shortly after Pearl Harbor. Hopkins made a second trip to London.

The lavish gift is the second of the Hopkins wedding presents to make news during the month. On Dec. 16 Mrs. Hopkins and her husband collected as a wedding present from Bernard Baruch, wealthy industrialist and New Deal adviser, a sumptuous dinner dance party that cost $3,000.

Christmas Greetings from Men at the Front

The Tribune today publishes Christmas greetings from hundreds of soldiers, sailors, and marines in the western Pacific, England, and Africa to their friends and relatives thruout Chicagoland. The greetings were transmitted to Chicago by Tribune correspondents on the war fronts and in many cases carry a personal message. On pages 4 and 5.

GONE 5½ YEARS, PVT. GREATHOUSE IS IN GUARDHOUSE

Camp Campbell, Ky., Dec. 24 (AP).—Pvt. John Greathouse reported back to the army today after an absence of five and one half years, unable to stand the pressure of his conscience, which has bothered him more than ever since the war began. But he didn't report to the recruiting officer—he reported to the guardhouse.

Greathouse, a native Kentuckian, deserted from the 11th cavalry at Fort MacArthur, Cal., in 1937, but gave himself up to military police here, telling them he "couldn't stand it any longer," Lt. R. H. Weston reported. "Only the thought of being separated from my wife and two young sons has held me back this long," he said.

Since his desertion Greathouse has been around the world, become married and the father of two sons, registered for the draft and worked as a civilian at three military centers. Now he is back in the army—and, tho he is in the guardhouse, he said he feels better than he has since 1937.

Nine on Yawl Cheat 10 Gales and 2 Hurricanes in 21 Days

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—Nine coast guardsmen, their uniforms wrinkled and shrunk from long immersion in salt water, and their faces bearded, told the story today of their 21 day battle against mountainous seas in a dismasted yawl that had once been a racing yacht, yet had the sturdiness to outlive two hurricanes and 10 gales in the wintry north Atlantic.

They had been rescued earlier in the day after an epic search in which more than a score of planes of the United States army and navy and the royal Canadian air force and almost as many surface vessels of the United States navy and coast guard and the British and Canadian navies had fought against storms, fog and bad visibility to try to help them.

Twice they were sighted and then lost again in the bitter weather off the Atlantic coast. Once a British destroyer took them in tow, only to have the hawser part in storm and darkness. Again a Flying Fortress dropped provisions by parachute, but the raging waves tore the wrappings apart.

Cover 3,100 Miles.

Navigating almost entirely by dead reckoning, they covered a distance estimated by the navy at 3,100 miles and were only 25 miles off the North Carolina coast when they were spotted by a navy blimp that hovered over them for two days, dropping food and cans of fresh water and guiding cutters to their [illegible]istance.

By order of Vice Adm. Adolphus A. Andrews, the nine bruised and battered men were flown here in a navy plane so they might spend Christmas with their families.

They had almost completed what they had expected would be a five day tour of duty when a heavy storm struck them between Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket Shoals. They hove-to, trying to ride out the blow, when on the second day, which was Dec. 3, the little craft was struck by what Curtis Arnall, chief boatswain's mate, described as a tidal wave.

Tons of sea water engulfed the craft as she was tilted on her beam's ends by the shock.

Flying Stove Breaks Rib.

Edward A. Jabson and Theodore Carlson, seamen, who were on deck at the time, grabbed life lines and held on until the slender yacht righted herself. Arnall, who was in the chartroom, was floated bodily thru the cabin and into the galley. The others were tossed about the cabin like so many bowling balls. A pot-bellied stove flew from its base and came down with a thud on Seaman James T. Watson, breaking one of his ribs.

When the men recovered enough to take stock of the situation, they found the hold was a third full of water. So much salt water had seeped into the gasoline tanks thru the air vents that the yawl's auxiliary motor was useless. Salt water had also penetrated the radio batteries, which rapidly grew weaker and died.

The seamen chopped the wreckage of the mizzenmast loose and for three days ran before the storm with bare poles.

The British destroyer sighted the yawl about 200 miles off Cape Cod. The seas were so rough her commander decided it was impossible to take the men off the yawl, but he threw them a line and started towing them toward Halifax.

Hit Second Hurricane.

Arnold Windsor and Tovio Koskinen, seamen, were trying to rig a chafing gear to keep the hawser from rubbing against the bow, when a huge wave caught Koskinen and swept him across the deck. Seconds later another wave swept him back and Windsor grabbed him.

A week after the first storm a second hurricane drove them southeast for three days. The yawl was 350 miles east of Nags Head, N. C., when on Dec. 17 she was sighted by a Flying Fortress. The plane dropped supplies by parachute that landed fifty yards to windward. It was a long, hard battle to work to a position where they could pick up the package, and the disappointment on finding that only the wrappings were left was great.

They thought that rescue was bound to come soon, but the next day another storm, with waves fifty feet high, closed down on them. For six more days they fought slowly westward against the Gulf stream, and then a coast guard cutter momentarily glimpsed them. It lost sight of them again in a rain squall, but a few hours later one of several blimps that had been sent to the area came overhead.

From an altitude of 100 feet the blimp dropped supplies of food and water to the tired, hungry men, who had lost anywhere from 15 to 30 pounds apiece during their ordeal.

WARNS BLACK MARKET IS TRYING TO PEDDLE 208 STOLEN 'A' BOOKS

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area director of the office of price administration, said yesterday that gasoline black market operators are attempting to peddle several hundred ration books stolen Dec. 1 from a northwest side rationing board.

Mulcahy said the coupons—208 "A" books and 87 transport coupons—were taken by thieves who broke down the door of the rationing board office at 1352 North avenue.

He urged the public to coöperate with police by reporting any offer of the stolen coupons. The rationing director added that theft or other losses of ration coupons has been unexpectedly small, despite the inadequate control machinery with which the OPA is armed.

JAPS' MAIN BUNA LINES SMASHED

Foe Driven Back to Last Beach Citadel.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 25 [Friday]—(AP).—Allied troops have overrun the main Japanese defensive positions in the Buna area of New Guinea, a communique said today. At the same time it was announced that the allies' aerial arm had sunk a Japanese destroyer, a 5,000 ton transport, and a cargo vessel.

The land drive was said to have penetrated to "the last line" of Jap defenses in the Buna area.

Seize Most of Air Field.

Attacking from both flanks, Australian and American infantry, backed by tanks, artillery, and mortars, yesterday smashed thru the enemy's outer defenses around the Buna government station. At nightfall the allies controled nearly all the main air field at Buna and had the Japs pinned down to a coastal strip about a mile long and between 500 and 600 yards deep.

The communique warned, however, that this confined space was a "citadel of resistance." It described the action in these words:

"In a double envelopment our troops overran the enemy's main defensive positions and drove him back into the last line of defense in this sector. It centers on Giropa point and extends approximately a mile in length along the coast, with a width of between 500 and 600 yards. It is a prepared and fortified citadel of resistance. We now control practically all of the Buna main airdrome."

Heavy Air Attacks on Japs.

In heavy attacks on Japanese shipping north of New Guinea Liberator bombers sank a Japanese cargo vessel off Arawe, on southern New Britain Island, and destroyed the 5,000 ton transport near Gasmata, while medium bombers sank the destroyer off New Guinea near Salamaua.

The Liberators fought off 15 Zero fighters which tried to screen the transport. One Zero was shot down.

Over Kavieng, New Ireland, one B-24 bomber shot down two Japanese fighters and damaged two others.

Other allied bombers started fires near Failoro, Timor; destroyed a seaplane in the Aroe Islands; bombed a tanker in the Admiralty Islands, and attacked the enemy air field at Cape Gloucester, New Britain.

Congress Will Open Jan. 6; to Hear Message Next Day

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed today a resolution fixing January 6 as the meeting day for the first session of the 78th congress. He has arranged to deliver his annual message to congress the following day, January 7.

KILLER SEIZED IN ALGIERS OFFICE OF FRENCH ADMIRAL

FORECAST END OF FEUD OVER POST IN AFRICA

LONDON, Dec. 25 [Friday]—(AP).—The assassination of Adm. Jean Darlan may have settled in one stroke the most difficult diplomatic problem which has confronted the allies since the beginning of the war.

The death of the former collaborationist wrote a bloody new chapter in unfortunate France's participation in the present war, which has reached one sensational climax after another.

Elimination of Darlan from the North African political scene came at a moment when allied leaders in London and Algiers were reliably reported to be exerting all efforts to obtain unity of all French forces in opposition to the axis.

Opposed by Fighting French.

It was reported only yesterday that the Fighting French, who had bitterly opposed Darlan, were sending a commission to North Africa to investigate the situation with a view to uniting with other French patriots, tho preferably not under the leadership of Darlan.

Presumably with the death of Darlan, the British, American, and Fighting French leaders all would attempt to find a man upon whom every faction of Free France could agree.

It was considered possible in London that Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, who has been serving as military commander under Darlan and who, because of his record of opposition to the Germans, is also acceptable to the Fighting French, might become a potential candidate for Darlan's position as high commissioner of North Africa and possibly the leader of the Fighting French the world over.

Appointed by Petain.

However, the death of Darlan might create a touchy situation for Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in North Africa, inasmuch as the admiral was believed to be highly popular with French authorities there who might not so readily accept another appointee as high commissioner.

Darlan himself said he took control of North Africa in the name of Marshal Petain and it is not probable that any other French leader would be able to claim the marshal's sanction with any degree of credibility.

Evidence of Darlan's hold on the administration of North Africa was given by the very fact that Eisenhower found it expedient to accept him as chief of the civil administration despite the extraordinary objections raised thruout the allied governments.

Regarded as Quisling.

No other political or diplomatic move made by the allied leadership in this war has stirred up such bitterness of feeling as Darlan's assumption of power in North Africa.

Many legislators, political leaders, and the press and public in both Britain and the United States were quick to denounce Eisenhower's acceptance of the man they regarded as a Quisling to be head of the government of the first territory of primary importance to be conquered by the allied forces in this war.

Those who opposed acceptance of Darlan contended such action raised the fundamental question of the honesty of intention of the allied governments and asked whether the Quislings in other countries would be installed as heads of governments as soon as they were reconquered from the axis.

Aided Allied Forces.

The response of the allied governments to these arguments was, in the words of President Roosevelt, that Darlan's appointment was "only a temporary expedient justified solely by the stress of battle," fully justified in the saving of time and lives which Darlan's quick pacification of the population of North Africa would mean to the military forces.

Defenders of Darlan said that in one stroke he brought to the allied cause a vast territory, including the valuable ports of Dakar, Oran, and Algiers, and a large volume of shipping and other resources which the Fighting French tried in vain to obtain for more than two years.

2 Bullets Hit Chief; Report Giraud Takes Over.

LONDON, Dec. 25 (Friday)—(AP).—Adm. Jean Darlan, former vice premier of the Vichy government who swung over to the allies when they landed in North Africa in November, was assassinated in his offices yesterday afternoon by a 20 year old Frenchman, it was reported from Algiers early today.

Allied headquarters in North Africa announced his killing and said that the slayer was captured.

The admiral, who was 61 years old, was said to have been struck by two of five shots fired at him.

Giraud Takes Over.

The Algiers radio announced later today that "maintenance of order" in French North Africa had been "taken over" by Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, following the assassination of Darlan.

Giraud has been acting as commander of the French armed forces in North Africa since the allies arrived there and has been fighting side by side with them against the Germans.

He made a spectacular escape from occupied France in a British submarine just before the allies entered North Africa, and immediately on his arrival in North Africa issued an appeal to all French nationals to rally to the allied cause.

[Darlan's assassination was followed by immediate speculation in some quarters that Giraud might take his place as French high commissioner in north and west Africa. There has been no official comment from any allied sources, however, on this possibility.]

Dies on Way to Hospital.

French authorities in Algiers issued the following communique, which was broadcast by the allied controlled Algiers radio:

"Adm. Darlan, high commissioner for French Africa, was assassinated this (Thursday) afternoon soon after 3 o'clock at the offices of the high commissariat. He died on the way to the hospital.

"The assassin was arrested on the spot.

"Complete order reigns in Algiers notwithstanding the general indignation of the population.

Assassin Is Questioned.

"The assassin was immediately interrogated but his name is as yet unknown. It is not known whether the assassin was of German or Italian origin. The nationality of the assassin is unknown."

However, it was reported here that a broadcast from Algiers identified the assassin as a 20 year old Frenchman. Reuter's news agency quoted another broadcast as saying that the assassin had been waiting in a room opposite Darlan's study and that the bullets struck Darlan in the mouth and lungs.

Account of Shooting.

The British radio broadcast this account from its correspondent in Algiers:

making his way to his office in the [White] summer palace, overlooking the Bay of Algiers, which was his headquarters but not his home.

"He arrived by car, accompanied by his officer of ordnance. To reach his office he had to pass along a corridor, from which one door led to his own room. In the waiting room was a young man, said to be about 20 years old, who had called earlier in the day to see the admiral. He had tried to get an interview with Darlan but later he returned.

Aid Wounded in Neck.

"As soon as the young man saw the admiral, he fired several shots at him from a revolver. The first shot wounded Darlan in the mouth. The second pierced a lung. He fell down in the entrance to his office.

"The young man jumped over his body into the room. The commandant . . . tried to catch him but the man fired two more shots, wounding the commandant in the neck.

"Other officers arrived and took the assassin prisoner. His name has not yet been discovered."

Urged "Union at Once."

Darlan only yesterday issued a statement to the French press in North Africa appealing for the "union—at once" of all Frenchmen fighting against the axis and declared it did not matter whether they rallied behind him or some one else.

"Union—at once—of all fighting Frenchmen is absolutely necessary," Darlan said. "Any person who harms the war effort will be pitilessly eliminated. We must win the war.

"Effects of the past are disappearing. Yesterday we were forced to wait. Today we are fighting again. No one can be our enemy who is fighting against Germany."

Aided Allied Invasion.

Darlan was in Algiers when American troops landed in North Africa, and within a few days he and Lt. Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower reached an agreement on coöperation which brought an end to French resistance in the vast French African territories.

He had declared that he had no personal motive in lining up with the allies in a sudden reversal of his position as a man high in the councils of the Vichy government. Instead he maintained he would retire when the fighting was ended.

[Gen. Jean Marie Bergeret, former secretary of aviation and now member of the imperial council which is governing North Africa, announced that Darlan's death "demands that we unite all French forces for the only fight that counts today, the liberation of France. All attempts at dividing the population will be crushed."]

LIFE SKETCH OF DARLAN

Adm. Jean François Darlan was a person of vagrant mood who knew an opportunity when he saw one, a review of his checkered career reveals.

Swinging in pendulum fashion from one sympathy to another, he emerged as a former co-apostle of vengeance against Britain to become a collaborationist with the allies in the North African campaign.

During the World war this volatile naval leader, who was known to his own countrymen as "a brain" and "a force," fought with the allies. But after the fall of France in 1940, he came out of the cabals of Vichy cloaked in the raiment of a German protagonist and wearing once more his old colors as a bitter anglophobe.

Why He Disliked Britain.

His latest jump to the American-British side on Nov. 8 exposed another facet in the chameleon like conduct of this mercurial person whose antipathy toward England has been ascribed to a number of varying causes.

One account bases his near hatred for Britain on the fact that his great-grandfather was killed when Nelson routed Napoleon's fleet at the battle of Trafalgar in 1805. Another dates his enmity from the time he accused England of drawing France into a war for which she was not prepared in 1939 and then reneging on her obligations to send adequate military assistance to France when needed.

He also is said to have been deeply piqued by what he regarded as British failure to give him proper credit for aiding in the evacuation of the English army at Dunkirk. And following France's fall in June, 1940, his anger was fanned to new heights by the British attack on French warships at Oran, Algeria, on July 3, 1940, Britain's blockade of defeated France, and air attacks on her occupied ports.

Named No. 2 Man by Petain.

As the foremost military man of France, Darlan on Feb. 9, 1941, was named by Marshal Henri Petain, chief of state, to become the No. 2 man of the French government. He retained his post as "admiral of France," to which he had been appointed the previous June, and also became vice premier and foreign minister.

Thus, in another of the somersault moves that marked his life, he succeeded Pierre Laval as the second man in the Vichy régime two months following Laval's ouster from power. He also became heir apparent to the 86 year old Petain and chief of France's armed forces.

Darlan began his naval career in 1899 at the French naval academy, where he was known as the "Brass Drummer" because he waved his arms wildly when he talked.

Known as Gunnery Expert.

He spent most of his naval life at teaching posts ashore or in political positions and achieved distinction as a naval gunnery expert.

Shortly after Darlan rejected German demands for the French fleet, Laval came back to power as vice premier and Darlan gave up all of his many offices except that of commander of the armed forces and Petain's successor designate.

On Nov. 8 came the allied invasion of North Africa and Darlan's mysterious capture at Algiers. His presence there has never been fully explained save that he may have gone to visit his only son, Alan, a French naval officer, who was mysteriously poisoned recently in Tunis.

On Nov. 10 Marshal Petain revealed that Darlan was being "kept in Africa." Because of Darlan's "absence," the aged marshal said he had taken over the post of commander in chief.

Darlan's subsequent shift to the allied cause was even more abrupt than his previous deflection in the opposite direction, which was mirrored in a speech he made on June 10, 1940, when he told the French people their nation "must cleave to Germany or perish."

Ordered Fighting to Halt.

Following his capture in North Africa, on Nov. 11, he ordered the French forces to cease all resistance to the allies in Algeria and Morocco. In giving such an order he claimed he was carrying out a mandate of Marshal Petain. His aged chief, he stated, was virtually a German prisoner and unable to act according to his own wishes.

On Nov. 13 Darlan took over full responsibility for all French affairs in North Africa and on Dec. 1 assumed the title of chief of state for that territory.

On Nov. 17 President Roosevelt announced that the allies' acceptance of Darlan was only a temporary expedient. Political sniping was aimed at Darlan from various sources, including the De Gaullist fighting French, who have been closely coöperating with the British in London and the Reds in Moscow. However, Darlan held firm in his coöperation with the American and British forces.

Ten days later, on Nov. 27, he was deprived of even his French nationality by decree of the Laval government. Thus in the very last month of his life the multifaceted naval leader, politician, and opportunist became an outstanding figure in the world's news.

He ended his days urging unity of all French forces fighting the axis and was the originator of peace gestures toward the De Gaulle faction. He denied that his conduct was motivated by personal ambitions and so he perished a paradox and enigma on the international scene.

DEERFIELD FLYER ONE OF 5 AWARDED NAVY MEDALS FOR HEROISM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The navy announced today decoration of five officers by President Roosevelt for heroism in action. Among them was Lt. William F. Christie, 26 years old, of Deerfield, Ill., who was awarded the navy cross for heroism in the Coral sea and a gold star in lieu of a second navy cross for heroism in the battle of Midway. Christie was a member of a dive bombing squadron attacking the Japanese in the Coral sea, and piloted a scouting ship in the battle of Midway during which he bombed a Japanese vessel.

Capt. Frank J. Lowry, 54 years old, of Cresco, Ia., was decorated for extraordinary heroism as commanding officer of a cruiser in the Coral sea battle.

The others were: Capt. James Fife Jr., 45, New York City; Commander William N. Updegraff, 45, Portland, Ore., and Lt. [j. g.] John M. Clarke, 23, Long Beach, Cal.

DARLAN SLAYING COWARDLY ACT, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Admiral Is Praised for Aiding Allies.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 [Special].—President Roosevelt tonight denounced the assassination of Adm. Jean Darlan in Algiers as "murder in the first degree."

While the United States agreement with Adm. Darlan, entered into as a "temporary" military expedient to save lives and time in the conquest of French North Africa, has been subject to considerable criticism, the President said that he was certain that all leaders of the allied governments would agree with him that the murder of Adm. Darlan was "cowardly."

Text of Statement.

The text of the Presidential statement released by telephone from the White House tonight was as follows:

"The cowardly assassination of Adm. Darlan is murder in the first degree. All leaders of all united nations will agree with that statement. Nazism and Fascism and military despotism hold otherwise. I hope that speedy justice will overtake the murderer or murderers of Adm. Darlan."

Adm. Darlan's death vastly complicated American political arrangements in the French colonies of Africa because it was with him that Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower arranged for the cessation of opposition by Algerian and Moroccan French forces and later brought about adherence of Dakar to the allies' cause.

Problem for Eisenhower.

The death of Darlan immediately poses the question with whom will our forces in North Africa now deal. Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the allied commander in chief, has a free hand to make any temporary political arrangements he may wish in the conduct of the campaign against the axis in Africa, and it is presumed that any new arrangement which the admiral's death will necessitate will be left entirely in the hands of Gen. Eisenhower.

It was said here that the death of Darlan will "complicate" allied political efforts in North Africa, which have received considerable criticism, both from liberal groups here who considered Darlan a Fascist, and from the Fighting French of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, who have felt that their rights as representatives of the only element fighting against the axis were ignored and violated when Gen. Eisenhower made his arrangement, which President Roosevelt described as "temporary," with Darlan.

Deal Saved American Lives.

Gen. Eisenhower made his deal with Darlan in order to save American lives when our forces made their landings on the north and west African coast. It had been originally planned to deal with Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, who was spirited out of France on a British submarine commanded by an American naval captain, and brought to North Africa, but it developed that Gen. Giraud was not able to wield the necessary force, and Gen. Eisenhower made his arrangement with Darlan resulting in the immediate cessation of defensive activities by French forces in Africa.

This was attested to by Secretary of State Cordell Hull who told representatives of the Fighting French that there was no future political significance in the arrangement with Darlan, thus further confirming the statement of President Roosevelt that the arrangement was a temporary one.

Any one of many factors might have inspired the shooting of Darlan, who in addition to proving a collaborator under Marshal Petain with the Nazis had participated in the enforcement of racial decrees and other axis inspired measures in North Africa.

There was no official comment from the state department following the news of the admiral's death. In its silence the department was following its announced position that any political arrangements are primarily a military concern.

PETAIN BROADCASTS TO FRENCH A NOTE OF HOPE FOR FUTURE

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Marshal Petain broadcast to Frenchmen tonight a message of "hope for the future" and told them he had kept his 1940 promise to "remain among you."

Petain's message was addressed to "Frenchmen, to my legionnaires, to our soldiers who are without arms, to our sailors who are without ships, to our workers who are working abroad—to all." The marshal declared that he had attempted to do all in his power to lay the foundations of peace.

"My personal sense of honor bids me to remain at my post at this time of danger without the army, without the fleet and in the midst of an unhappy people," he said.

Henderson Closes Two Gas Stations for Bootlegging

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today put two filling station operators out of business for the duration because "both dealers repeatedly sold gasoline without requiring coupons of their customers." One was in Buffalo, N. Y., the other in Adams, Mass. These were two of six cases acted upon by Henderson under a new program to curb bootlegging of gasoline.

FIGHTERS BRING BEST GIFT HOME: THEMSELVES

Christmas will be happier today for several Chicago area families who have fighting men home from distant battlefronts.

Edward G. Jacobson, 41 year old chief petty officer and a naval veteran of the last war, is spending the holidays with his wife and three sons at their home at 934 Sunset boulevard, Deerfield.

Floyd Eugene Richards, 24, a navy chief petty officer, arrived on leave from convoy duty to spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Peters at 2712 Gilboa avenue, Zion. Richards has a silver star awarded for heroism.

Charles Eugene Monroe, 5600 Drexel boulevard, 19 year old veteran of five major Pacific battles, is spending a holiday leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Monroe. A navy aviation radio man, young Monroe is credited with shooting down two Japanese planes during battles of the Marshall-Gilbert, Marcus, Wake, Midway, and Solomon Islands.

GERMAN LOSES PLEA TO REGAIN HIS CITIZENSHIP

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan refused yesterday to vacate a decree revoking the citizenship of Albert W. Krause, 46 years old, a German born technician who became a naturalized citizen in 1929. In revoking Krause's citizenship last September, Judge Sullivan ruled that Krause was guilty of disloyal and seditious statements. Attorney Joseph T. Harrington, counsel for Krause, said he would appeal the court's ruling. Harrington charged the district attorney's office with conspiracy and with concealing certain facts in the case. This was denied by Austin Hall, assistant United States attorney.

BOLIVIA'S TIN MINE STRIKE ENDS; LEFTIST LEADERS AWAIT TRIAL

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 24 (AP).—The strike which had paralyzed production at the great Catavi tin mine ended tonight with a government announcement that all miners had returned to work. The government will consider the wage increase demands over which more than 18,000 workers quit their war vital jobs.

Meanwhile a group of leaders of the Izquierda Revolucionaria [leftist revolutionary] party, charged with fomenting the strike in a plot to overthrow the government of President Enrique Penaranda, were confined in various places in the interior, awaiting trial.

Officials were studying the question of creating concentration camps for fifth columnists and other elements operating against democratic order in the country. The cabinet ordered deportation of Dr. Hans Kempski, German physician, on charges of espionage. It was expected he would be placed on the Brazilian frontier.

STALIN WILLING TO CO-OPERATE, SAYS SIKORSKI

New Orleans, La., Dec. 24 (AP).—Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, prime minister of Poland, said today that Premier Josef Stalin of the soviet union recently had again expressed his hope for soviet-Polish coöperation.

In a recent message from Stalin, Sikorski reported, the soviet leader "confirmed once more our conversation of a year ago at the Kremlin expressing the hope that there will be a friendly and neighborly coöperation between the soviet union and Poland during the war and after the war."

Sikorski was here en route to Mexico. He is an official guest of the White House while in the United States.

2 DIE, 30 HURT AS BUS PLUNGES DOWN A RAVINE

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 24 (AP).—A bus carrying graveyard shift workers to the Glenn L. Martin company careened into an icy ravine tonight, bringing death to two and injury to 30.

Dead are Thelma Fish, 45 year old mother, and Irwin R. Shanefelter, 44, the bus driver. The injured were rushed to Union Memorial hospital and placed in an emergency receiving hall in the auditorium of the nurses' home.

Shortly before midnight doctors said three were in critical condition; six others were seriously injured, and five were released after treatment.

Wesley Dodd, one of the injured, said the plunge "felt as tho we had gone into a hole in the road."

Witnesses at the scene said it was a "miracle" that spilled gasoline was not ignited by a live wire exposed when the skidding bus hit a power pole.

The 20 foot ravine led down to Herring Run creek.

A CAPITAL PRESS PARLEY IS WHERE THEY HIDE NEWS

Burocrats Dodge Questions of Reporters.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—They huff and they puff down here. And tomorrow—if they're still on the job or have a better one—they hold a press conference.

But they don't tell the reporters anything. There is more pomp and ceremony than news. The burocrats say, "This is off the record," or "I wish you'd withdraw that question."

Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes has press conferences. Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. has them. So do Food Czar Claude Wickard and Man Power Czar Paul McNutt. Leon Henderson, the retiring price administrator, has them. It's the fashion.

Pointed Questions Dodged.

A considerable slice of Washington news is attributed to the press conference. Yet little of it comes from the conference itself. Press conference news, if any, is contained in a prepared statement of facts that an astute reporter already knows, a statement which the unawed call a handout, that a secretary hands to each reporter at the door. Pointed questions by the newspapermen adroitly are turned aside—or ducked.

Then it's up to the reporters who want the news to get out and dig. They do, as the gentlemen who try to suppress the facts on the ground they are war secrets know only too well.

Fifty to 100 reporters attend most press conferences. They don't walk right in, tho. They wait at the outer door until the august personage decides to admit them.

Ickes Sits Like Sphinx.

Ickes sits like an all-knowing sphinx before a panel of Kelly green when he receives reporters in his marble columned conference room with its rose drapes.

He can stop a question by saying: "I've answered that one."

Some one wonders whether a landlord required to change his heating system from oil to coal would run into one of Henderson's price ceilings if he tried to raise the rent to cover the cost.

"He probably would," is the Ickes pronouncement. "You can't move in any direction without bumping into somebody."

An Ickes Answer.

What if the landlord can't afford to convert to coal? Ickes has an Ickes answer for that one:

"He can tell it to Jesse Jones."

The reporters know how to shut the petroleum coördinator off when the conference becomes tiresome, and they do not hesitate to do it.

"Thank you, Mr. Secretary!" calls the one who gets the nudge. That's the signal. "Thank you, Mr. Secretary!" comes the chorus, and the reporters scurry off back to work.

What Henderson Will Do!

Henderson comes out swinging. He'll take a punch at congress, landlords, or those who disagree with him. He'll throw in a few swear words. He'll show you who's boss. Ask him why congress doesn't like him, and he'll tell you his story: It's the congressmen's fault. That is, they think he's impolite, and an arch of his eyebrows tells how impossible it is for a czar of the blunt Henderson tradition to become diplomatic.

Paunchy Mr. Henderson won't, if he can avoid it, "go off the record"—pledge the reporters to secrecy and then answer some of their questions. Going off the record isn't popular with the newsmen.

Morgenthau Toasts Shins.

Secretary Morgenthau toasts his shins before an open fireplace when he holds a press conference. He smokes cigarets and glances up at the pictures of former secretaries of the treasury who look down upon him and George Washington's account book, lying open in a glass case.

Eight billion dollars? It rolls off his tongue as easily as 80 cents. A reporter thinks the treasury has neglected to account for an extra billion. Morgenthau demonstrates he has added correctly.

Know what's become of all the gold coins the government called into the treasury? Morgentau does. He melted 'em into gold bricks. That's the law. But you could have kept four as collector's items.

Tip from the secretary: If you have a 1933 20 dollar gold piece, hang on to it. It's worth a lot. He doesn't remember just how much.

McNutt Looks at McNutt.

McNutt is assured of two beaming faces at his press conferences. Manpower Czar Paul McNutt smiles down upon him from a tremendous oil portrait, and another Manpower Czar Paul McNutt approves—his statue—as he sits there fulfilling the promise of all the diplomas hanging behind him.

The man power czar splits his infinitives but call reporters by their right names. He goes off the record occasionally, but he has some stock question stoppers: "Let's hold that one." "Will you withdraw the question?" and, "You know the answer."

Asked about pending legislation, he replies: "Any one who assumes the rôle of a prophet these days is a fool."

The man power czar has a smile that matches his portrait's, even tho many hold the opinion that his appointment to his post is a one way ticket to political oblivion.

Wickard gives reporters an opportunity to study his glass jars before they troop in to find him between the American flag and the blue and white banner of his department of agriculture. In the jars are mustard greens, onions, carrots, potatoes, cabbage, milk, snap beans and pork—all dried.

Wickard rocks in his swivel chair. He wants to make one point clear: He told farmers the country didn't need a food administrator, and he wishes people wouldn't call him a food czar.

Whatever he is, he thinks he has a tough job. Who's going to define food? Take cotton. It makes shirts. But it makes cottonseed oil, too. You eat that in the food your wife has cooked.

It's Still More Complicated.

The problem is more complicated yet. Cottonseed meal goes into fertilizer and stock feed. How's cotton going to be classified?

Wickard denies he's going to stop the growing of watermelons. He explains;

"All we said was, we won't furnish fertilizer, labor, or transportation for growing watermelons. You may grow them in your porch box, if you can."

Soldiers and a Sailor Get Bonds at Treasury Center

TREASURY CENTER

The scene yesterday at the Commonwealth Edison company treasury center, 72 West Adams street, where spectators bought war stamps to fill books which were converted into war bonds and given to army and navy men. James T. Mangan is calling out the numbers which Miss Darlene Trenary is drawing from a hat held by D. D. McKiernan. The soldiers and a lone sailor who held the lucky numbers were given the bonds.

ALCATRAZ PRISONER LOSES FREEDOM PLEA, BUT CAN TRY AGAIN

Altho he refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus freeing Sam Bongiorno, 46 years old, now serving a 22 year sentence in Alcatraz federal penitentiary, Federal District Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday directed that an appeal be filed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco in the district where Bongiorno is confined. He commented from the bench that keeping the defendant in prison while two of his associates had been freed on a legal technicality by the San Francisco court "seemed unfair."

Bongiorno was one of seven men convicted of the $15,000 robbery of the St. Charles [Ill.] National bank on Jan. 31, 1936. He sought his release on the grounds that he had been sentenced by Judge Sullivan to varying terms on each of the five counts in the indictment altho all charged the same offense.

His companions, recently freed in San Francisco when the same legal technicality was raised, are John Sullivan, 46, and Philip Dimenza, 47, both Chicagoans. Bongiorno is a brother of John Bongiorno, now in Joliet penitentiary, who is seeking his freedom from a 199 year sentence imposed for the murder of a policeman in 1933. A hearing on his case will be held in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes on Monday.

COLD WEATHER WINS EAST RIGHT TO BUY OIL EARLY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Because of continued cold weather in the east, Price Administrator Leon Henderson today advanced to December 28 the date on which eastern fuel oil users generally may use their third period ration coupons. Normally, the oil thus provided could not have been obtained until early in January.

The new order followed similar action for the 13 middle western states where fuel oil also is rationed, permitting earlier use of third period coupons. Today's action supplanted an arrangement made recently by which some eastern oil users could, in an emergency, trade part of their third period coupons for immediate rations.

The value of oil coupons in the east, was left unchanged at ten gallons each for the type normally used to heat homes and 100 gallons each for those heating apartment houses and office buildings. The 13 middle western states recently received a 10 per cent increase in the value of these coupons.

FAMILIAR PENNY GIVES WAY SOON TO ONE OF ZINC

New Coin Will Save Vital Metal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—The copper penny, which has been jingling in and out of the nation's piggy banks since 1857, goes out of production Jan. 1, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced today. A new steel and zinc penny, expected to go into circulation in about a month, will replace it.

The new 1 cent piece shall be of the same size and design as the Lincoln penny, which has been minted since 1909. Stamped from a sheet of steel thinly coated with zinc, it is a wartime coin designed to conserve strategic metals.

Blue-Gray in Color.

The test coins run off by the mint indicate that the new penny will tarnish quickly. Blue-gray in appearance when new and lacking much of the luster of the copper coin, treasury officials indicated that the familiar phrase, "as shiny as a new penny," may soon become just a memory.

Copper pennies of the present size were first minted in 1857 and were known as the "flying eagles." In 1859 production of the famous "Indian head" penny was started. While many persons have mistakenly considered them a rarity and worth collecting, treasury officials said there are still some 2 billion in circulation. The recent drive to "empty the piggy banks" to get more of the 1 cent coins in circulation to relieve a penny shortage has brought large numbers of the "Indian heads" back into the cash registers, they reported.

Minting to Be Slow.

Minting of the new coin is expected to be somewhat slow until some production wrinkles can be ironed out. New machinery will be necessary for stamping the coins from the new metals. It also will be necessary to have the zinc coating done outside the mint. The officials said the copper penny was minted at the rate of 160 million coins a month when output was at the peak.

Treasury spokesmen said a new 3 cent piece, coinage of which was authorized in the same bill that provided for the production of the steel and zinc penny, probably will be minted in about six months, or after the problems expected to be encountered in the production of the new penny have been solved.

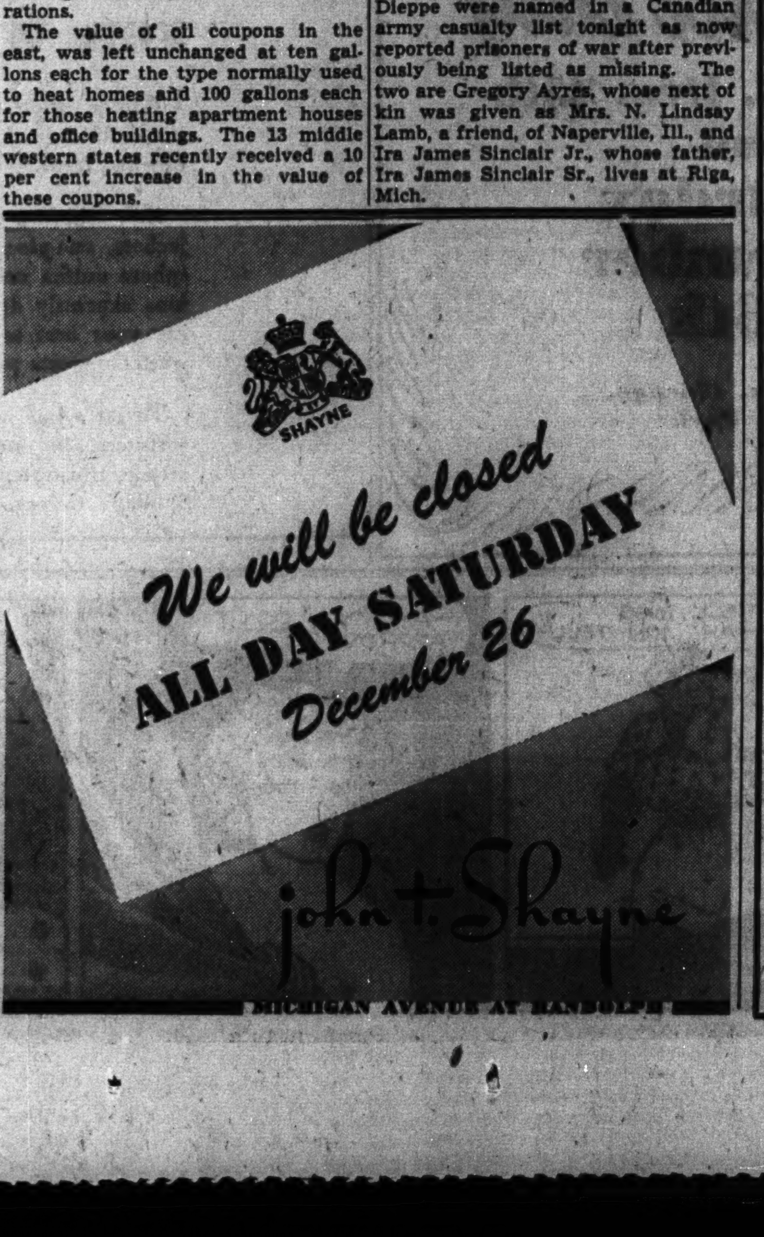
AMERICAN DIVE BOMBERS BLAST JAPS AT MUNDA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Carrying on a series of bombing attacks on the Japanese air field at Munda, United States dive bombers dumped new loads of bombs on the enemy there Tuesday, the navy reported today. The day to day series of attacks on this Solomons Island point has been under way since Dec. 9.

Operating from Henderson field on Guadalcanal, the dive bombers, on their 13th day of assaults, the navy said, also strafed the enemy air field located on New Georgia Island. Results, however, were not reported.

Report Illinois Soldier Taken Prisoner at Dieppe

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 24 (AP).—Two privates with American addresses who fought in the Canadian forces at Dieppe were named in a Canadian army casualty list tonight as now reported prisoners of war after previously being listed as missing. The two are Gregory Ayres, whose next of kin was given as Mrs. N. Lindsay Lamb, a friend, of Naperville, Ill., and Ira James Sinclair Jr., whose father, Ira James Sinclair Sr., lives at Riga, Mich.



Stamps Donated

A lone sailor and 13 soldiers were given $25 war bonds in a short ceremony at the Treasury center, 72 West Adams street, yesterday. The bonds were purchased with war stamps donated by those who attended the daily Treasury center shows during the last few months.

YANKS IN HAWAII TAKE TIME OUT FOR YULE TURKEY

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 24.—The "business of making war as usual" will be the Christmas day routine for thousands of soldiers and sailors of this great island fortress and beyond in the Pacific battle zones. Most of them, however, will take time enough from their regular duties to enjoy a dinner of turkey and the trimmings.

Thousands of pounds of turkey, chicken, duck, and ham will go into roasting ovens at Hickam field and Schofield barracks and at dozens of other army and navy bases of the Hawaiian group. The Royal Hawaiian hotel, now the navy recreation and rest station, will give a Christmas dinner and party for submarine crews and flyers recuperating there after months of combat duty. Submarines now at sea took turkey aboard when they left port.

Navy men here and at sea will receive 9,000 gift bags sent by the Navy Mothers' clubs in the United States. Six thousand other bags contributed by Honolulu women will be distributed to soldiers. Some of the latter gifts will be dropped by parachute to small bodies of troops on guard in remote areas of the islands. The bags contain cigarets, shaving gear, sox, and similar other items.

REVISED SYSTEM OF OIL RATIONS IS HOPE FOR JAN. 1

Chicago fuel oil distributors expressed the belief yesterday that the unworkable system of rationing forced on them by the office of price administration in Washington will be completely revised and simplified by Jan. 1.

They based their assumptions on the interest both Harold L. Ickes, petroleum coördinator for war, and Joseph B. Eastman, administrator of the office of defense transportation, have taken in suggestions for changes to bring relief to users and marshal the rationing into line with other war time economies.

It was understood suggestions for simplifying rationing were handed Ickes thru the local office of petroleum coördinator. Eastman received practically similar proposals from Frank E. Spencer, president of the Burning Oil Distributors association, and in reply wired Spencer that "this office will make recommendations" on the point of saving gasoline of dealers forced now to make repeated small deliveries.

LINK SENATOR'S SON TO ALCOHOL SALE INQUIRY

Frankfurter's Brother Is Also Named.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Members of two senate investigating committees are making inquiries concerning a situation involving industrial alcohol, Laverne B. Herring, son of lame duck Sen. Clyde L. Herring [D.,Ia.], and Otto Frankfurter, little known brother of Justice Felix Frankfurter of the United States Supreme court.

Laverne B. Herring.

Otto Frankfurter, it was learned today, has given up an $8,000 a year job in the treasury procurement division as buyer of alcohol and chemicals for the lend-lease administration and other government agencies and has accepted the much more remunerative position of export director of the Heyden Chemical company, 50 Union Square, New York city. Instead of buying for the government, Frankfurter now sells to the government. In keeping with his new affluence, he has taken a suite at the luxurious Waldorf-Astoria hotel for living quarters.

Herring Has $10,000 Job.

Young Herring is living on a somewhat more modest scale at Washington's fashionable Westchester apartments. He is the Washington representative of the Gulf Distilling corporation at $10,000 a year.

As one of the government's leading alcohol buyers, Frankfurter participated in negotiations last February and March which resulted in the establishment of an industrial alcohol plant at Gretna, La., a suburb of New Orleans, by the Gulf Distilling corporation, a Philadelphia organization. The Philadelphia promoters had purchased an old alcohol still at a reputed price of $75,000.

The company's first move in Washington was to employ young Herring, whose father is a member of the Truman senate committee, which was created to investigate the war production program. Sen. Herring also is a member of the senate's banking and currency committee, which has charge of all legislation pertaining to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Protests Against Loan.

The company's next move in Washington was to apply for a loan of $550,000 from the RFC. Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce and head of the RFC, called Fraser Moffett, then head of the alcohol section of the war production board, and asked him to recommend the loan, since it is a function of the RFC to finance the construction or expansion of war plants as directed by the WPB and other war agencies.

According to a witness who was sitting in Moffett's office and watched him take notes on the conversation, Moffett flatly refused to approve the loan. He told Jones the project was unsound financially and was not essential to war production.

Nevertheless Jones approved the loan in March and it was disbursed in installments during the next two or three months. When asked about the loan today William C. Costello, special assistant to Jones, said it was made "on the recommendation of the war production board." He refused to say who made the recommendation for the WPB.

"Do you wish to say specifically that Fraser Moffett, head of the alcohol section of the WPB, recommended the loan?" Costello was asked.

"No, it wasn't Moffett," he replied.

Applicants for the loan on behalf of the company were Harry A. Robinson, president; Fred Fox, vice president, and Herman E. Robinson, secretary, all of Philadelphia.

Young Herring readily acknowledged that he was employed by the company as its Washington representative last February and stated that it sells alcohol for the manufacture of smokeless powder in various plants, some owned by the government and some privately owned. He said he had met Frankfurter but never heard that he had anything to do with sponsoring the alcohol project.

When reached by telephone in New York Frankfurter at first refused to affirm or deny that he assisted in the promotion of the project. About an hour later he called back and vehemently denied that he had anything to do with it.

Highly placed government officials assert, however, that Frankfurter was consulted by the Philadelphia promoters and that he had dinner with them in public restaurants.

Frankfurter was a special assistant to Clifton E. Mack, director of the treasury's procurement division, and was in charge of all purchases of alcohol and chemicals. Frankfurter's assistant was Herman Klotz, husband of Henrietta Klotz, private secretary and special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau. When Frankfurter moved into his new job about two weeks ago, Klotz moved up to the position of special assistant to the director.

Thus Frankfurter now is in a position to sell industrial chemicals to a government purchaser who formerly took orders from him.

The Heyden Chemical corporation made a net profit of $1,003,047 in 1941 and $773,144 during the first six months of 1942. It reported total assets of $7,760,343 as of Dec. 31, 1941.

Justice Frankfurter, Otto's brother, probably has sponsored the appointment of more men in government jobs than all the members of the United States senate combined. The war and justice departments are dominated by Frankfurter proteges, while the policies of the state, treasury and other departments, as well as the office of economic stabilization, the office of price administration and other war agencies are largely determined by Frankfurter men in key positions.

Because of Justice Frankfurter's prodigious success as a dispenser of New Deal patronage, a United States senator was astonished about two years ago when Brother Otto asked him for a recommendation for a government job. The senator asked Otto why he didn't go to his brother.

Otto protested: "Senator, I'm sorry you have that impression. The justice never recommends anybody for anything."

GAS FOR A MONTH SUBSTITUTED FOR ZILLER'S 'C' CARD

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—George W. Ziller, whose "C" gasoline ration book recently was withdrawn by the Sangamon county rationing board, has been granted, instead, a temporary allotment sufficient to permit him to drive to and from Pontiac at least once a week to see his doctor and to the Veterans' hospital at Dwight for medical treatments.

Board members explained Ziller was granted the basic "A" book plus a special added allotment of 800 miles of driving per month for one month. After that, they said, he would be required to establish proof that the special ration still was needed.

Ziller, who weighs 538 pounds, is a defendant in indictments charging confidence game and conspiracy to collect illegal fees from some workers who obtained construction jobs in 1940 at ordnance plants near Joliet.

Board members said Ziller submitted an affidavit from his physician that he required treatments at least once and sometimes twice weekly for heart trouble and diabetes.

Did YOU awake to tousle-headed cherubs . . . . screaming MERRY CHRISTMAS

Did they scrabble up your bedside . . . . . and bounce astride the pair of blanket-mounds that you were under?

Did they drag you . . . . . *bare*foot, robeless : : : : : out of sleep and bed . . . . . in the very middle of the night . . . . . at six this morning . . . . . screaming "Merry Christmas"?

We wish you Merry Christmas, too . . . . . all of us at HENRICI'S do. Less actively, perhaps . . . . but as sincerely as if we'd dragged you out of bed . . . . . at six . . . . . and screamed our

Merry Christmas!

EUROPE'S YANKS CABLE GREETINGS VIA THE TRIBUNE

Here's Their Surprise Gift to Home Folks.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, expressed in all their variations and interspersed with affectionate personal greetings and remarks, are the wishes of Chicagoans and midwesterners in the fighting forces in the European theater of operations for their folks and loved ones back home.

Necessarily the list is far from complete. It would be impracticable to include all the names—and probably would constitute a military secret. But THE TRIBUNE can vouch that whatever the omissions they are due only to the lack of opportunity to have the greetings transmitted. For everywhere THE TRIBUNE extended its invitation to cable names and greetings back home, it met with the most enthusiastic response.

Affection Stronger Than Ever.

Families back home can be assured that nothing has happened to their sons, brothers, husbands or sweethearts over here that has in any way dimmed their love and affection. If anything, their realization of what their home folks mean to them has been intensified.

Mothers or families or sweethearts back home, if omitted from THE TRIBUNE list, should realize that it represents the concensus of the feeling our soldiers and sailors have for them. They can consider themselves the objects of similar affection and that, therefore, these greetings are intended for them also.

Proof that the reaction of Chicagoans and midwesterners to THE TRIBUNE'S invitation to send greetings home might be said to embrace the entire country is shown by the fact that the list contained names of many New Englanders, New Yorkers, and Californians.

Make Special Plea.

Even today, as an example, Capt. Hal Leyshon and First Lt. John F. Melady, both public relations officers for the 8th air force, wanted to know if their greetings to their wives back home would be transmitted.

Leyshon wished his wife, Marian, of 101 Central Park West, New York City, and Melady wished his wife, Pauline, and the family, of 777 Lincoln place, Brooklyn, N. Y., the best for Christmas and New Year's.

There were many others far beyond the territory of Tribuneland which were perforce omitted.

The greetings and the remarks varied. Some said "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year." Many emphasized "greetings from London." Frequently "Hello, Mother," "Hello, Dad," "Mother [or sweetheart or darling] I love you," appear on the list under personal remarks.

Some are even more personal. For example: Jules tells Sally, "It's strange to say hello this way, but remember Jan. 2 will soon be here—you're always in my heart."

Roy wants his fiancée to know, "I was transferred from the Canadian army, after serving three years, to the United States forces," and Robert Schultz tells his sister, "I had forgotten what a lovely sister I had until I received your picture," and sends, as do most of the others, "love to the folks and the gang at home."

Many in London.

Many say they will miss Christmas at home. Quite a number were visiting in London and wanted the recipients to know.

James Tracy tells his family he hopes it will all be over by Christmas, 1943, when he can be home, and this view is shared by several others.

Robert Quirsfield also wishes his dad a happy birthday.

"Your loving husband, Gene," hopes he and his wife will be "reunited soon." John Kapadlo sends Christmas greetings "across the ocean" and asks, "Is it a boy or a girl?" Several tell their sweethearts, "I love you this day and every day and always."

Greetings for All.

Alan McGrath greets, "Hello, Mom and Bonnie—Merry Christmas, darling," and Russell Gableson says, "Hi, Mom and Dad, Clare and Henrietta," and wants everybody to have a drink on him.

All in "Bucktown" are remembered by Vic, and among other group greetings is Stonewall Jackson's to "all the boys at the Legion and the 40 and 8" in South Bend, Ind.

Several acknowledge receipt of packages and hope they continue to arrive. One or two request, "Please write to me."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Pearl N. Hoogstra, 1849 West 72d street.]

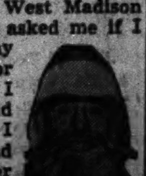
THE QUESTION:

What was one of your most unusual requests from the children? [Asked of Santa Clauses in the Volunteers of America.]

WHERE ASKED:

State street.

THE ANSWERS:



Peter Peystack, 645 West Madison street—One small girl asked me if I was going to keep my promise this year or break it again like I did last year. She said after all the promises I had made before I had never come to her house, and this year, even if I couldn't afford to bring gifts she wanted me to come and pay a visit anyway.

William C. Ditton, 1005 Madison street—One very young boy asked if I could give him a real machine gun and a real bomb. He said he didn't want it for himself; he only wanted to send it along to his big brother who couldn't be home for Christmas this year because he was across the ocean fighting the Japs.

Louie Faulio, 7049 South Damen avenue—One girl asked if I'd lift her up on the little chimney stands we use, so she could see me better. After a real close-up view of my face she asked if it would be all right if she kissed my long whiskers. She did and then told me if I'd give her a doll for Christmas she would go to bed early every night.

Joel Metcalf, 2945 Adams street—A little 7 year old girl said she had only one request to make; that I promise to reach her brother, David, with any kind of a gift. She said he cried and cried last Christmas because he didn't get anything. It might be hard for me to get in touch with him, because he had died last winter, she added.

Charles Dunlop, 649 Madison street—The little boy wasn't at all anxious about what I was going to bring him. All he wanted to know was if my whiskers would come off and if they didn't, did I ever shave. He also wanted to know how many years it would require to grow a beard as long as mine.

Harry Bauler, 1214 Monroe street—All of the kids ask a lot of cute questions, but there's a type that surprises me every time. More dainty little girls ask me if I could bring them a big electric train, and several tough looking little guys have asked me if I would leave a doll in their stockings on Christmas eve.

AMERICA'S YUKON TROOPS ASSURED OF CHRISTMAS TURKEY

BY WARREN BAKER.

[Tribune Correspondent, who is home on a short leave.]

It will be a white Christmas in the Yukon this year, all right, but nobody has been writing any songs about it.

There will be turkey for dinner, too, but if it works out as it did at Thanksgiving time dinner will be at night, because they won't get the turkeys thawed out in time for a noon meal.

The boys started decorating their mess halls with the usual green and red before I left, and while there are millions of Christmas trees outside, laden with snow and ice, they were going to bring a few inside and stick cotton and tinsel on them, just so everything will be nice and homey.

Very little package mail had arrived when this correspondent flew out of White Horse three days ago. There was a boatload at Skagway, tho, and the boys had been assured it would be up over the railroad in time for the Yuletide.

A few fortunates have obtained furloughs and will be back in the United States for Christmas, but by far the majority of Brig. Gen. James A. O'Connor's northwest service command will stay "home."

Lt. Col. M. A. Lowenberg, sector quartermaster, says all the thousands of soldiers along the 1,600 miles of the great Alcan highway will get turkey for Christmas if he has to play Santa Claus and deliver it personally.

The rest of the fixings will not be difficult. There are plenty of oranges and other fruits on hand.

The nuts that seem to make Christmas a day of real joy are likely to be exceedingly scarce. They seldom are seen in the Yukon for some reason. But the mess officers and sergeants are all set and they will turn out some surprising results, if past accomplishments are any criterion.

But it will be a lonesome day. There will be many a vision of the folks enjoying themselves in the traditional festival of home life while their sons, brothers and husbands carry on the grim business of war.

There'll be many a vacant chair at home, too, this year, so probably it all evens up after all.

Fashions FOR WINTER FUN

Winter sports togs are perfection in streamlining and comfort, says Rea Seeger, Chicago fashions editor.

Now showing are ski pants, sweaters, jackets, one-piece suits resembling stratosphere outfits and a wealth of other fashions expressly designed to keep you looking your best as you share or watch the winter's sports program.

To get a line on these new winter sports costumes, be sure to read Miss Seeger's article, illustrated by Margot, in Part 6 of Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

YANKS WARNED NOT TO TRY TO FIGHT JAPS ACCORDING TO BOOK

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 24 (AP).—"You can't fight those Japanese by any book," Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, said today.

"They read only the first chapter, which says attack—then they threw the book away," Kenney declared as he held forth on his favorite topic—that the youth in the democracies had too many years without worry and never had to battle for existence.

"It's not that our boys aren't good fighters, because they are," Gen. Kenney said. "But it takes them time to learn it.

"They're still trying to fight the war by books, by what they've read about wars. Maybe they know too much about it. In any case, they've got to learn that the Japs don't fight by any book.

"The Jap will do things you never expect, simply because he knows nothing else than to attack."

"Largely because the Jap knows only attack, he's likely to become bewildered when you attack him," Gen. Kenney said. "That's been proved time and again."

2 NAZIS ATTEMPT TO RAID BRITAIN; BOTH SHOT DOWN

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Only two German raiders attempted to attack England today and both were intercepted and destroyed by British fighters off the southeast coast.

British planes last night made offensive patrols over northern France, Belgium, and western Germany. Freight trains and other railway targets were damaged. No British planes were lost.

[Germany admitted several British planes raided "occupied western territory and dropped a few bombs in western Germany" on Wednesday night, but claimed eight planes were shot down.]

Jap Parliament Meets; Concentrates on War Bills

TOKIO, Dec. 24 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—The imperial diet, Japan's parliament, opened its 81st session today with its program limited to legislation "urgently needed for the prosecution of the war," according to the official news agency Domei. Chief of the bills is the general 1943-'44 budget totaling 9,995,000,000 yen [about $2,300,000,000 at prewar quotations].

CHRISTMAS GETS HARDLY A NOD IN LAND OF GHURKAS

Yanks Find No Snow, Little Liquor in India.

CALCUTTA, India, Dec. 24 (AP).—In this country of hundreds of millions of people, where Christians are numbered only in the hundreds of thousands, Christmas will be celebrated against a background fantastically reminiscent of Hollywood.

No American soldier is likely to see a flake of snow, for they are in a part of the country where palm trees, banana trees, and bamboo groves are common sights.

There has been no air of Christmas rush in the bazaars, even tho some Indians who have had contact with westerners give their children presents and their guests—many of these this year will be American soldiers—a big dinner.

But the cafés and hotels are jam-packed with American and British soldiers from noon to night. Streets are crowded with fighting men whose somber garb contrasts with that of Indians, Ghurkas and hill savages dressed variably in nearly nothing to rich hued Indian robes.

Liquor is scarce and costly and there are not enough American and English women here to provide holiday dates for one soldier in a hundred.

But there are other amusements, including streamlined tattooing machines which, working as fast as an electric razor, already have decorated plenty of American soldiers as garishly as Christmas trees.

In hotsy totsy Firpo's restaurant and the Great Eastern hotel here, at the Cecil and the Imperial in New Delhi, in Bombay's Taj Mahal hotel, there were little islands of festivity tonight in a sea of humanity which is unconcerned with this traditional celebration of the western world.

ILLINOIS OFFICER CITED FOR VALOR IN BUNA BATTLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—Gallantry in the battle for New Guinea brought silver stars today to four men of the fighting forces.

Capt. Edward H. Sandell, Chillicothe, Ill., won the coveted star for swimming a swollen creek to watch enemy activity at Buna village, and returning with valuable information.

Sergt. Budley M. Brice, Eau Claire, Wis., was cited for "heroic leadership at the front."

Maj. G. M. Beaver, Yankton, S. D., was cited for braving both bombing and strafing to extinguish a fire on a barge, saving equipment and ammunition for use against the enemy next day. Capt. Daniel K. Edwards, Durham, N. C., volunteered to find the location of a hidden Jap machine gun, advanced far ahead of his supporting troops to a point 50 yards from the ocean to do so, and returned safely.

RCAF OFFICERS, PER CUSTOM, TURN TO 'K. P.' DUTY—WAIT ON MEN

AN ALASKAN AIR BASE, Dec. 24 (AP).—This is the day royal Canadian air force squadron leaders get ready to wash dishes, complying with a Christmas custom old wherever Canadians fly, but new to American soil.

Squadron Leader Kenneth Boomer of Ottawa, who ordinarily directs aerial operations, was to have turned his hand to the sink of the enlisted men's mess tomorrow, but he went home on sick leave, and his second in command Lt. J. D. Doak of Minneapolis is in line for the job.

And, like R. C. A. F. officers all over the world on Christmas day, the squadron's pilots—among them Flight Lt. Arthur Jarred of Lansing, Mich., and Pilot Officer Odin Eskil, Iron Mountain, Mich., will share duties as waiters and orderlies for their men's Christmas dinner.

This Canadian squadron has been in Alaska for months of patrol and combat duties against the Japanese.

BRITISH WOMAN JAILED; REFUSED TO WORK IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The hardships of war intruded on Christmas festivities today. Miss Ruth Clarke of Islip, Oxfordshire, was sent to prison for a month for refusing to be interviewed by the labor exchange. She had written previously to Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, saying:

"I believe in pacifism as the Christian way of life." She then informed Bevin that she hadn't registered for war work and protested against the alleged unfairness of refusing to give women the same rights as men of objecting conscientiously to war duties.

At the same time Angela Daenekinda, a Belgian, was fined 3 pounds [about $12] for absenting herself from essential factory work.

Coffee Profiteer Fined $200 by British Court

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—For overcharging for coffee, John Demetrius, a dealer, paid a fine of $200 today. Isaac Silver, a caterer, was held for hearing Jan. 7 on a charge of receiving stolen or unlawfully obtained goods. He was discovered with 10 sacks of sugar in his possession, it was charged.

YANKS IN AFRICA EXPECT TO SPEND HOLIDAY FIGHTING

But Many Send Greetings to Home Folks.

Eisenhower's Message

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 24 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sent yuletide greetings of admiration and confidence today to all members of the allied forces in North Africa. His message:

"I extend Christmas and New Year greetings to all members of the allied force in North Africa. My admiration for your accomplishments of past weeks is equaled only by my complete confidence that you will meet every test of the future with the same fortitude and determination.

"My profound thanks and best wishes go to all ranks in the ground troops, navy, air forces, nurses corps, and all civilian services associated with the allied forces.

"Good luck to every one of you."

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 20 [Delayed].—For American troops in the lines, Christmas this year will be just another day of fighting unless an unofficial armistice gives them a day of rest. But battle plans seldom cease for holidays, so the chances are that the men will be blasting away at the enemy or going out on patrols.

Down where I have been with Col. Edson Raff's Tunisian paratroop task force sand and foxholes have been home to many of them for months. Even under such conditions some of the boys are planning a "spread" if conditions warrant.

If there is no fighting Thursday night the families of gendarmes [police] at Raff's headquarters plan to trim the little green trees in the compound with tinsel, bits of tin foil, and tin cans, principally for the benefit of their own children but also for the joy of our troops.

One Special Treat.

Elsewhere on the front it will be much the same. A few lucky ones will be reading letters from home, the best present a soldier can get, but the mail is slow reaching the front and chances of many of the men getting it are slim.

One exception, an advanced air field, just received a "Christmas special" transport plane loaded with 30 sacks of mail and fresh fruit. It was arranged by Sergt. Percy C. Bartlett of Galesburg, Ill., upon his return [apparently to allied headquarters] for photo supplies.

Farther away from the front, particularly in the rear areas around headquarters, Christmas will have a chance to be properly observed. Joint church services for American, British, and French troops have been planned and individual soldiers are preparing for extra special dinners.

Here there is little evidence of any Christmas spirit as we know it at home. There is little to buy in the stores, but what there is is being shopped for by Yanks anticipating the time when they can send presents home.

Men Send Greetings.

The Tribune reporter tried to collect names of middle western soldiers who wanted to send home Christmas greetings, but due to communications difficulties is able to send only the following names, most of whom are men serving on the southern front:

ALLIES ROUT AXIS FROM HEIGHT IN FIGHT NEAR TUNIS

Hold Area Against Foe's Counter-Attacks.

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Allied soldiers fighting in the rain and mud of Tunisia have thrown the enemy off a height dominating the important junction point of Mejez-el-Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis, allied headquarters reported from North Africa tonight. A communique announced the capture of the height and added that allied troops held it against counter-attacks.

Dispatches from allied headquarters said it was the first significant offensive action reported on that central Tunisian battlefront in two weeks.

The allied command said there was patrol activity on the northern sector of the Tunisian front while the French were active on the southern sector.

French Forces Hold Firm.

The Germans launched repeated counter-attacks in a vigorous reaction to French attacks south of Pont du Fahs and west of Kairouan, but made no progress, a French communique said. "We held the terrain, taking many prisoners." It added counter-attacks in a vigorous reaction to French attacks south of Pont that the American air force gave strong support.

Pont du Fahs is about 30 miles south of Tunis and Kairouan about 70 miles south.

The Fighting French radio at Brazzaville reported a French unit from the Lake Chad region had defeated an axis motorized detachment in a skirmish at Djanet, in the vicinity of the corner of Libya, Algeria, and French West Africa. This was the third report of an encounter in the territory, which is known as the Fezzan area.

The axis' Mediterranean supply routes were held under continuing attack. Allied bombers hit and set aflame an enemy supply ship off Tunisia, shooting down one enemy plane which sought to interfere and damaging another.

Pursuit of Rommel Continues.

It was disclosed that allied medium bombers assaulted the German held island of Crete, setting off nine big fires and dropping bombs among enemy planes dispersed on the ground.

On the ground in Libya the British 8th army continued the westward pursuit of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Rommel's flight was unbroken, the Morocco radio announced, but said British advanced units were maintaining contact with his rear guard. British troops were near Buerat el Hsun, 50 miles west of Sirte and 200 miles east of Tripoli, and there still was no indication that Rommel intended to stand and fight.

Nazis Claim Local Successes.

BERLIN, Dec. 24 [From German broadcasts]—(AP).—Axis attacks in Tunisia have gained local successes, the German high command asserted today, adding that "enemy attacks to reoccupy terrain lost on previous days have failed." The communique claimed the capture of 200 allied prisoners. [The Italians said the figure was 300, mostly British.]

German bombers, it said, raided harbor installations at Bengazi on the Libyan coast and also attacked a British airport in the Libyan coastal region.

[The Italian communique said the environs of Naples and the steppingstone Island of Lampedusa, between Sicily and Tunisia, had been attacked by bombers and some damage caused.]

REVEAL EDISON PREDICTED WAR AND RUBBER TIEUP

West Orange, N. J., Dec. 24 (AP).—The late Thomas Alva Edison was a prophet as well as a great inventor, his son, Gov. Charles Edison, learned today.

A magazine article quoting the inventor as predicting the war and the rubber shortage was received by the governor from a friend. The article, written in 1927, stated:

"Henry Ford, Harvey Firestone and I have been considering what this country would do in case of a war which would cut off our rubber supply.

"Don't make any mistake about that war. It will come. We may run along for a good many years without it, but sooner or later nations of Europe and Asia will combine against the United States. The first thing they will do will be to cut off our rubber supply.

"So the thing for us to do is to find a source of rubber for war emergency purposes, so that we can produce it quickly right here at home."

FOUR CONVICTED SECOND TIME IN VON PAPEN PLOT

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 24 (AP).—Two Russians and two Turks were convicted today for the second time of complicity in the unsuccessful attempt to kill Franz Von Papen, the German ambassador, with a bomb in February, 1941.

The Russians are Georgi Pavlov and Leonid Karnilov, both minor functionaries at the Russian embassy. The Turks are Suleyman Sagol and Abdurahman Sayman.

The Russians received sentences of 16 years and 8 months and the Turks 20 years after their first conviction, which was reversed by the Appelate court a few months ago. Russian-Turkish relations cooled perceptibly after the first conviction, but improved after the reversal.

Sagol, at the last session of the trial two weeks ago, repudiated his confession in which he implicated the Russians.

ALLIED OUTLOOK GOOD ON EVERY FRONT: STIMSON

Warns Losses Must Be Expected.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today that the military prospects in all combat areas were definitely favorable for the allies, but tempered the statement with a warning that large casualties and even serious reverses could be expected before victory was won.

"Christmas this year holds much brighter prospects for the future of the united nations than did Christmas a year ago," he told a press conference.

"At that time we were on the defensive almost everywhere, wondering where the axis would strike next. Now the axis is on the defensive and I imagine their high command is considerably concerned about where we will strike next."

Believes Allies Stronger.

Operations in North Africa, Stimson reported, have been delayed by bad weather, but the allied army command of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower appears to have "a fairly good margin" of numerical strength and allied flyers are destroying two planes for every one lost in aerial combat.

The secretary remarked that the Germans apparently were preparing for an attempt to turn the right flank of the allied line in southern Tunisia, where they were being met by French forces "under the inspiring leadership of Gen. Henri Giraud, who has been rendering very important and timely services to the British and American troops."

Both sides have brought up reënforcements the last two weeks in preparation for an impending clash for possession of Tunis and Bizerte, Stimson said.

Praise for the bravery of Negro troops in the North African operations came from Eisenhower in a dispatch to the war department. He mentioned particularly a Negro ordnance company which handled the delivery of high explosives at Arzew near Oran, continuing to put bombs ashore under heavy fire.

Stimson said the war's most important campaign at present was a four pronged offensive launched by the Russians.

Hails MacArthur's Success.

In New Guinea, he said, increasing success marks the constant attacks by Australian and American troops under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Buna area.

"Progress is slow because of the intricate nature of the Japanese defenses," the secretary remarked, "but our well coördinated attacks of infantry, artillery, armored units and airplanes are gradually overcoming that stubborn resistance.

"It is quite likely that the Japanese will continue to land troops in other sections to the north and northwest. I think that, so far as we can now see ahead, we must anticipate a long fight to clear all of the Japanese out of that island."

The American position was "definitely improved" in the Solomons, with supplies and reënforcements reaching Guadalcanal in a steady stream, Stimson reported.

CURTIN PLEDGES BOMB GIFTS FOR TOJO NEXT YEAR

CANBERRA, Australia, Dec. 24 (AP).—Prime Minister John Curtin sent a Christmas message to Australian soldiers on many fronts today, telling them they had a message to deliver to Gen. Hideki Tojo, Japanese premier, next year—and asking them to deliver it in "bullets, bombs and shells."

"You, with the allies of the united nations, have a New Year's message to deliver to Tojo in 1943," Curtin's message said. "There are Australians and other British subjects locked up in Singapore. There are Americans in the Philippines, Dutch and Indonese in the Netherlands East Indies, Chinese in China. They are going to be released. You can't stop free men fighting in a free cause.

"Give Tojo that message in bullets, bombs and shells. We'll keep the supplies coming."

$120,000 Bonds Set for 3 Held as Robbery Suspects

Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Boys' court fixed bonds totaling $120,000 yesterday when he ordered three Negroes held to the grand jury on robbery charges. They are Ernest Gordon, 19 years old, 358 East 29th street; Ernest Ford, 17, of 471 East 31st street, and Green DeVos, 23, of 3115 Prairie avenue.

TELLS HOW FIRST YANKEE TROOPS LANDED AT DAKAR

Came by Plane, Ship and Even a Jeep.

[The actual arrival of American soldiers in Dakar is disclosed in the following eyewitness dispatch from that West African port by an Associated Press war correspondent who previously had entered Liberia with some of the first American troops to arrive in that republic.]

BY JOSEPH MORTON.

DAKAR, French West Africa, Dec. 24 (AP).—United States troops have arrived in Dakar and a special army and navy mission headed by Vice Adm. William Glassford is at work determining how the city's airports and harbor facilities and the French ships here best can be fitted into allied plans.

These plans include air ferrying operations, the shipment of men and material to the North African front, and the fighting of axis submarines off Africa. The survey includes the remaining units of the French fleet here.

The Americans, members of the air forces, the service of supply, and technical personnel, are not in Dakar in great numbers. However, there is little doubt in the minds of the American soldiers that 90 per cent of the people of Dakar are with them in spirit.

Soldiers Get Right to Work.

By plane, by ship, and in one case, by jeep the Americans arrived in Dakar. Altho there was little cheering from the local population, this may have been because there were no parades or other suitable opportunities.

Every soldier is received with friendly smiles, waves from men and women, and salutes from French soldiers and sailors.

It is true that the American soldiers must brave the stares of a few residents who obviously are restraining themselves, but they have as yet encountered no noticeable manifestation of antagonism.

Arriving without fanfare, the soldiers immediately went to work with their new French allies.

No Time for Sightseeing.

The government controled newspapers of Dakar said: "The Americans have come just to work, and have not very much time to waste in the city on sightseeing. The population of Dakar has not had time to manifest its sympathies."

Other officers are quartered at scattered points in the badly overcrowded city and some on ships. Enlisted men are in army cantonments with French troops.

The attitude of French public officials and army and naval officers seemed to be to receive the Americans well and courteously, and in a spirit of coöperation, but still to maintain dignity and remember yesterday's dead.

Allied Nationals Impart New Note to Turk Revelry

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 24 (AP).—American, British, Russian, and other allied nationals were taking the places in the hotels and restaurants of Ankara this Christmas in which victory celebrating axis crowds predominated on the three previous war Christmas days. Turks do not celebrate Christmas, but many attended allied celebrations, wishing their hosts "many more victories" such as those in recent months, particularly in the Mediterranean.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT GLOWS FOR YANKS IN EGYPT'S SANDS

They'll Have a Feast, Yule Services, and Carols.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 24.—Thousands of young Americans will spend this Christmas in the middle east for the first time in their lives. Altho the American army's slogan for Christmas is "business as usual," field commanders will find means to let the boys overeat. The food will be American—chicken and steak, frozen in America and shipped out here.

Many an American lad will spend his Christmas eve dropping bombs on the enemy, and many more will spend Christmas day speeding up the enemy along Via Balboa, that fine Italian highway along the Libyan coast which has come in so handy for the axis retreat.

That may not seem to be in accord with the real spirit of Christmas, but the boys out here feel that every time they press a trigger, they are helping to bring back a peacetime Christmas.

Soldiers to Play Baseball.

Every American service man in a hospital will get a Christmas package thru the Red Cross. These packages will contain American cigarets, razor blades, tooth paste, candy, and other comforts which are hard to obtain out here.

The boys out in the desert, who are not on duty, will play baseball games and there will be a big game in Cairo on Christmas day between an American team and a team of South Africans. The South Africans do not claim baseball is their national game, but they think they can swing a pretty good bat.

For the men in hospitals, unable to play or watch the games, the Red Cross is arranging other entertainments. There will be Christmas eve parties in the hospital wards, followed by songfests on Christmas day. A group of convalescents from the American hospital will attend a Christmas eve party at the American Girls' college.

Red Cross to Entertain.

Programs of carol singing by groups of children have been arranged at the hospital and at the new United States Army Red Cross club by Mother Superior Hilarion of Pittsburgh, who heads the St. Clair Girls' college here.

The Red Cross club, opened yesterday, will inaugurate its career with a Christmas eve party for American soldiers. It also will provide entertainment on Christmas day and serve an American Christmas dinner at a low price.

The new club, installed in a modern hotel, has accommodations for 230 men. It will provide them with good beds, good cheap meals, reading rooms, game rooms, and a library with home town newspapers and familiar American magazines.

It Won't Be a 'White Christmas.'

The club will be the center of Christmas activities in Cairo, but most of the American soldiers will see the day thru in desert camps. Each of them has been promised a full pound of steak or chicken for dinner, but they will have to do without any swirling snow outside as they eat it. They may even find themselves in the midst of a howling sandstorm.

All chaplains will conduct religious services on Christmas with the various units in the desert. Two big services will be held in Cairo for the base personnel and civilians.

Lt. Col. Jack P. Morison will lead a Protestant midnight service in the American mission church, while Lt. Francis Singleton will celebrate midnight mass at the Catholic church, with a special choir. A choir of American nurses will sing at the Protestant service.

Set Up a Christmas Tree.

Many units have organized their own Christmas celebrations. The men at headquarters even have obtained a big Christmas tree, altho they are scarce in Egypt and not quite the real thing. On the other hand, poinsettias are almost as common here as daisies in a hay field. Most houses in Cairo and its suburbs have whole hedges of them at this time of year.

Nothing, of course, can make this a real American Christmas for the boys in the middle east, but everything that can be done to help is being done, and they will not fare so badly. A letter or something from home makes up for a lot, and, as one said—they know Christmas could be a lot worse if they were losing their battle.

U. S. PLANES SET FIRES IN ATTACK ON NORTH BURMA

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 24 (AP).—Fighter aircraft of the United States 10th air force in India set fires among Japanese installations at Maingkwan in northern Burma while on offensive patrol yesterday, a United States communique said today.

Fragmentation and incendiary bombs and heavy machine gun fire were spread liberally over the target area. One of the planes was damaged.

A British communique said a formation of R. A. F. Hurricane fighters made an offensive sweep over the Magwe area in Burma yesterday. The airdrome and an anti-aircraft battery were shot up, and huts and dispersal areas were attacked with machine gun fire. The fighters then went on to make a low level attack on a refinery at Yenangyaung and buildings in the vicinity. Other fighters carried out a sweep in the Mayu river area, attacking buildings at Rathedaung. Last night Wellington bombers attacked an enemy occupied airdrome in Burma.

FOUND HANGED IN HOME.

The body of Samuel Delkus, 62 years old, was found hanged in his home at 2124 West 24th street yesterday.

Yankees Making It 'Christmas as Usual,' Even in North Africa

Celebrate in Algeria

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Dec. 24 (AP).—From the foxholes and slit trenches of the front lines to the rambling Rue Michelet in Algiers, Christmas for American soldiers in North Africa will be a day of improvisations and substitutions.

There obviously cannot be much true cheer at the front. But the soldiers appreciate what has been done to make Christmas a little better than other days.

An extraordinary hustle behind the lines made it possible for many Americans in the forward areas to get Christmas mail. Army postoffice staffs have been on a 24 hour schedule for weeks and even had Arabs helping sort mail.

Water Bill Reaches Him.

Stars and Stripes, the army newspaper, said virtually every soldier in North Africa received at least one letter from the states.

But some men, eager to hear from wives, mothers, and sweethearts, were exasperated by some of the stuff sent them. One private showed a mail order catalog which had been forwarded three times. An officer flourished with a wry grin a routine water tax form.

To give a treat to hundreds of orphan children, members of the 12th air force, working with the Red Cross, devoted weeks to gathering special food supplies, including fowl and materials for tasty desserts, in the country.

A large number of French families have invited Americans and British to spend Christmas with them.

Entertainment Arranged.

Cold steak, kidney pie, canned puddings from army rations, eaten cold while crouched behind a wall at the front with bullets ripping overhead, may become detested fare, but in the hands of a good cook and served hot in a convivial circle with the warmth of wine and fellowship they may become very good indeed.

Professional entertainers are giving Christmas shows for American and British enlisted men.

French language papers are commemorating Christmas with editorials expressing confidence the allies will win the war and saluting American troops who have made a good impression with their dignity, courtesy, and open-handedness.

Shops have been crowded with soldiers seeking gifts and novelties to send home.

Moroccan Festivities

WITH U. S. ARMY IN FRENCH MOROCCO, Dec. 23 [Delayed] (AP).—Christmas is getting a big play from the American forces here altho they are thousands of miles from home.

While chaplains prepared for special Christmas services, some in French churches and some in the field, mess sergeants got ready to serve a huge dinner to all.

Some outfits bought turkey locally. Others are relying on the government menu of roast beef, corn, sweet potatoes, cauliflower, bread and butter, peach pie, coffee, nuts, tangerines, pickles, candy, and cigarets.

Invited to French Homes.

Many of the French have opened their homes to invite the doughboys to partake of the traditional French noel celebration. Special service officers have arranged programs of songs, dances, and variety acts by their men. Some outfits are holding dances where American doughboys and French mademoiselles will cut the rug.

One fighter group has arranged a gala party with a G. I. [government issue] Santa Claus scheduled to arrive by plane. The group also has arranged a "Follies de G. I." from its own talent.

It will not be a white Christmas, but the snow capped Taza mountains nearby give at least a reminder of Christmas snow.

Set Up Christmas Trees.

Christmas trees are available and many units are rigging up ornaments and lights from odds and ends.

There is an abundance of oranges, tangerines, dates, figs, and almonds which give just the right flip to the holiday season.

Most of the soldiers have bought gifts for friends and relatives at home. The presents range from fine pipes made of Moroccan briar to silverwork. The arrival of boxes from home with presents of cigarets, sweets, books, toilet articles, and family holiday greetings is making Christmas a real celebration.

The arrival of tons of mail has added to the Christmas joy. Army post offices did a land office business in special Christmas messages such as: "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, all well," and "Love and best wishes for Christmas and New Year, all well," transmitted at a standard cost of 51 cents.

FLEET UNIT SAILS TO MALTA—NOT ONE FOE SIGHTED

Bombed Citizens Cheer New Turn of War.

BY HARRY CROCKETT.

ABOARD A BRITISH WARSHIP, Grand Harbor, Valletta, Malta, Nov. 29—[Delayed].—For the first time in nearly two years a squadron of allied ships has sailed the entire eastern Mediterranean into this picturesque harbor of wrack and ruin without a shot being fired or an enemy air or sea craft being sighted.

That the thin and grim but gallant Maltese knew our arrival marked a great turn in their history and final relief from siege was shown clearly as they cheered from atop high battlements and waved banners from windows of shattered buildings as this British striking force steamed into harbor.

[Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, British Mediterranean fleet commander, said last week that British reënforcements were being moved into Malta without the opposition previously offered convoys to Malta.]

It's a Peaceful Scene Now.

As I write in an open anti-aircraft gun position, high above the harbor, the white caps and trim uniforms of hundreds of sailors are spread out before me on the lower decks as they undergo Sunday inspection by their captain and other officers.

It's a beautiful sunny day, almost summerlike, and Malta—almost within sight of Sicily—seems at peace with the world.

Around the harbor are huge merchant ships, including a United States craft, with its gun crews of United States "gobs." All these ships have arrived recently with cargoes of sorely needed stores and military supplies.

Planes on Constant Patrol.

Overhead is a constant patrol of buzzing Spitfires—one of the principal reasons why the trade routes to Malta again are open.

But everywhere there is destruction, as a glance at the stone battlements rising 200 feet above the harbor will show. These yellowish fortress walls, which have guarded the island for centuries, are battered and torn shells.

Far beneath the island's surface a large percentage of Malta's 250,000 population still lives in the semi-darkness of great caves which served as natural raid shelters and which saved thousands of lives.

Tales of Horror Abound.

Tales of horror and heroism are many. Every Maltese family had its personal tragedy and its own example of heroism. Once one of the liveliest outposts of the empire, Malta now virtually is devoid of social life.

The Maltese have carried on, however, and are smiling broader now that American sailors walk the hilly and rubble filled streets.

One American here has been thru most of Malta's trial of bomb and fire. He is Pilot Officer Albert Eckert, 23, of Sand Point, Idaho, a fighter in the royal Canadian air force.

Another American name spoken proudly here is that of Flight Sergt. Weaver of Norfolk, Va. Now a prisoner on Italy, Weaver had 10 axis planes to his credit. When they finally got him, his pals heard this over his radio: "I've been shot down, but I'll be back to tea."

CHRISTMAS GIFTS STOLEN.

Burglars broke into the apartment of Martin Weisbrod at 5959 Kenmore avenue Wednesday night and stole Christmas presents valued at $218, he reported yesterday to police.

FRENCH MISSION IN U. S. TO SPEED FLOW OF ARMS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Gen. Emile Bethouart, French hero of two wars, arrived here today as head of a military supply mission for the French forces in North Africa.

His primary function, it was understood, will be to advise war department officials on the needs of the French African troops fighting with the allies and the types of equipment they have been trained to use.

Official announcements did not specify the exact status of the mission or the manner in which its supplies would be furnished since the mission came here under the auspices of the war department. However, it was believed that its supplies would be allocated by the assignment to the French forces of army-owned equipment, rather than thru lend-lease. Thus the reception of the mission apparently involved no political recognition of its principals, and no announcement was made by the state department.

Gen. Fitzgerald with Him.

Accompanied by several French officers and by Brig. Gen. Shepler W. Fitzgerald, commander of United States forces in Central Africa, Bethouart arrived by plane at Bolling field and was met by Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States army deputy chief of staff.

As liaison officer for his mission, Bethouart has selected Guillaume Georges-Picot, who was counselor of the French embassy here from early in 1941 until relations with the Vichy government were severed following the American landings in North Africa. Many of the embassy staff, including Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye, were interned at that time but Georges-Picot was among those permitted to remain in Washington because of their known sympathy for the allied cause.

Aided in Resisting Axis.

Bethouart himself, said the war department in announcing his arrival, used his position as head of the French armistice commission at Casablanca to resist axis encroachments in Morocco and "his sympathy for the cause of the United States and Britain has been consistent and well known."

He headed the armistice commission for more than a year, and since the American troops landed in North Africa has been liaison officer at allied headquarters for Gen. Henri Honore Giraud. Giraud now is commanding French soldiers fighting with the allied forces in Tunisia and designated Bethouart to head a mission in this country to coördinate the movement of equipment and supplies to these troops.

Now 53 years old, Bethouart is a graduate of Saint-Cyr and served with distinction in the first World war, when he was wounded. He won the decoration of a chevalier de maitre d'honneur for heroism.

FINNS DISCLAIM KNOWLEDGE OF PRAISE TO JAPS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Reports that Finnish cabinet members congratulated Japanese diplomats on the Pearl Harbor attack during a Japanese legation party in Helsingfors on Dec. 7 brought from the Finnish legation here today the statement that the Finnish government had "no knowledge about the alleged congratulations."

Finnish officials, reports had said, applauded motion pictures of the attack on Pearl Harbor. The Finnish legation here, in a statement, acknowledged the movies were "shown in the course of a tea party at the Japanese legation," but asserted the guests did not know beforehand about the program. The statement added:

"It is stressed on the other hand that from the Finnish point of view there is no reason to decline invitations to social events arranged by foreign legations in Helsingfors."

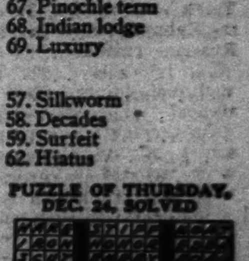
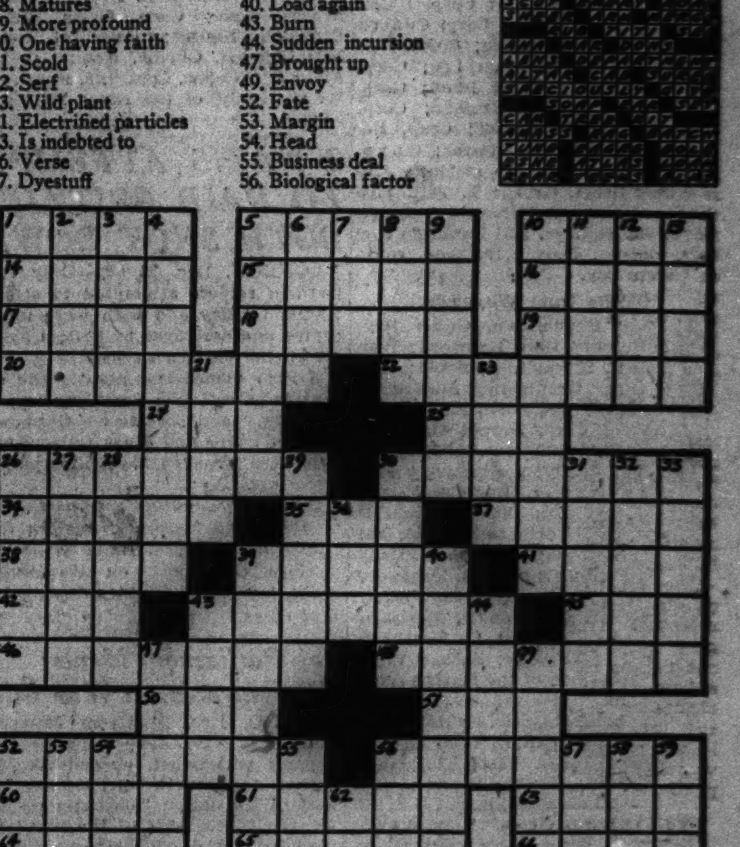
PUZZLE OF THURSDAY, DEC. 24, SOLVED





RUSSIANS OPEN 4TH OFFENSIVE IN CAUCASUS AREA

Gain 12 Mi. Near Nalchik; Push Ahead on Don Front.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25 [Friday] (AP).—The fourth major soviet winter offensive, in the critical Nalchik area of the Caucasus, was announced early today by the Russians. The German siege of Stalingrad, meanwhile, went into its 123d day.

123

A special communique of the soviet bureau of information said the new offensive already had regained 12 to 14 miles in the sector where the Germans had attempted to break thru the mountains to the oil riches beyond.

The Russians also announced that their winter offensive in the middle Don area had swept forward between 85 and 120 miles in eight days and that the total enemy killed and captured had mounted to 92,000.

Capture Five Towns.

The new action in the deep Caucasus was the first important battle since the Russians stopped a German attempt to push to the vital Georgian military highway thru some of the world's tallest mountains.

"Recently our troops in the area southeast of Nalchik went over to the offensive and advanced 18 to 20 kilometers [12 to 14 miles]," the special announcement said.

It announced the recapture of Alagir, 40 miles southeast of Nalchik, Ardon, 25 miles northwest of Ordzhonikidze, and three other large populated places.

In the Don area, the communique indicated, the Russians are driving out the Germans faster than they came in.

The Red army yesterday gained from 13 to 16 miles, the communique said.

Capture 5,600 in Day.

The Russians announced the capture yesterday of 5,600 men, bringing the Don offensive total to 42,200, and said that on Wednesday the enemy left more than 6,000 dead on the battle field, raising to 50,000 the enemy dead so far announced for that sector.

In the Don area the Russians further said they had occupied "several dozen populated places" and two large railway stations.

The Red army thus was surging on across the land of the Don Cossacks toward Rostov and deeper into the Ukraine at an unbroken pace.

Last night the Russians reported 32 more Cossack towns and villages liberated and left behind with hundreds of additional Germans dead and captured.

From virtually encircled Millerovo, German held communications center, the Russians steadily were closing the 130 mile gap to Rostov, which lies to the southwest on the Sea of Azov. Closing of this gap would sack nearly a million Germans in the Caucasus and on the Stalingrad front.

Millerovo Is Nazi Hub.

The Russians all but surrounded Millerovo by a series of coördinated stabs along an irregular front from the northwest and northeast of that town of 15,000, used by the Nazis as the hub of communications to their forces about Stalingrad and in the Caucasus.

With advances ranging over 100 miles since the drive began, the Red army drove forward 12 to 20 miles yesterday to points northeast, west and southeast of Millerovo. The nearest penetration toward the town was a spearhead which overran Olkhovoi Rog, less than 14 miles due east.

The Russians were within 67 miles of Voroshilovgrad, in the heart of the rich Donetz basin, and within 37 miles of Kamensk, where the Millerovo-Rostov railway crosses the Donetz.

Off to the southeast of the Russian thrust was Kotelnikovo, on the Stalingrad-Caucasus railway, 120 miles away.

Claim Reds Repulsed.

BERLIN, Dec. 24 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command communique said today that German troops operating in the Terek area in the Caucasus and on the Kalmyck steppe repulsed repeated Russian attacks.

"In the Don area," it was announced, "the defense battle continues."

On the central sector, a number of soviet strong points and dugouts were reported destroyed and Red attacks frustrated.

Southeast of Lake Ilmen, in the north, the Germans said the Russians resumed attacks on a large scale.

ASSERT UNREST GROWS, PERILING RUMANIA REGIME

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 23 [Delayed]—(AP).—Balkan sources today said that discontent in Rumania with the government of Gen. Ion Antonescu, which led the country into alliance with Germany, is reaching a dangerous stage. Students in Bucharest demonstrated last week and shouted demands for Antonescu's resignation, one report said, while thruout the nation Rumanians are losing faith in the prospects of a German victory.

The Balkan sources said Rumanian losses around Stalingrad are reported to have been particularly high. While many Rumanians did not oppose war with Russia, they now believe Antonescu allowed the Rumanian army to be drawn too far into soviet territory.

They want to withdraw as much as possible from Russia and prepare to recapture Transylvania from Hungary, but their German masters will not permit this, and many Rumanians see an allied victory as their only chance of regaining that territory, the informants said. Julio Maniu, leader of the Peasant party and a vigorous opponent of Antonescu's policy, is reported still at liberty.

THIEVES GET MINK AND ERMINE.

Dr. Louis M. Myers, 434 Melrose street, reported to the Irving Park police that thieves entered his apartment by forcing a bedroom window yesterday and stole a mink coat valued at $1,450 and an ermine jacket worth $300.

POPE CONDEMNS 'HERDING' OF MEN BY GOVERNMENT

Urges Crusade for a Just Social Order.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Pope Pius XII, in a moving appeal to the "conscience of the world" on this Christmas eve, called upon men of good will everywhere to undertake a vast crusade for a just social order based on the "supreme dominion of God" and the personal dignity of man.

Pope Pius XII.

Declaring that the world has been "plunged into darkness by fatal errors," he mentioned no individuals or nations by name. But he condemned the conception of the state as an "absolute and supreme entity," the "urge for power and predominance," the "herding of men as if they were a mass without a soul," the breaking of international agreements designed to humanize war, and noted with sorrow that many people have been "consigned to death or a slow decline" solely because "of their nationality or race."

The "baneful spirit of materialistic ideas" was deplored by the pontiff, as well as the lust for gain that overrides spiritualistic considerations.

Recalls Church Stand.

The church, he said, has always condemned the various forms of Marxist socialism, and condemns them today. But "legislation must prevent the worker, who is or will be a father of a family, from being condemned to an economic dependence and slavery which is irreconcilable with his rights as a person, whether this slavery arises from the exploitation of private capital or from the power of the state."

The official translation of the pope's broadcast, as delivered in Vatican City, was made public here thru the National Catholic Welfare conference.

The church, the pope said, "does not intend to take sides for either of the particular forms in which the several peoples and states strive to solve the gigantic problems of domestic order or international collaboration, as long as these forms conform to the law of God."

Raps State Supremacy.

Among "perilous theories and practices," the pope listed "those various theories which, differing among themselves and deriving from opposite ideologies, agree in considering the state, or a group which represents it, as an absolute and supreme entity, exempt from control and from criticism."

The man eager for peace, he said, should uphold respect for the following fundamental personal rights:

"The right to maintain and develop one's corporal, intellectual, and moral life and especially the right to religious formation and education; the right to worship God in private and public and to carry on religious works of charity; the right to marry and achieve the aim of married life; the right to conjugal and domestic society; the right to work as the indispensable means toward the maintenance of family life; the right to free choice of a state of life, and hence, too, of the priesthood or religious life; the right to the use of material goods, in keeping with his duties and social limitations."

DOCTOR ADMITS RICKENBACKER 'PUT ONE OVER'

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 24 (AP).—Lt. Comm. John K. Durkin, the navy doctor who treated Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and his comrades after their 22 day ordeal on life rafts in the Pacific, told today how his patients "put one over" on him.

Dr. Durkin flew to the island where Rickenbacker and his party were taken after their rescue, and accompanied them back by plane.

"We made one stop for lunch," he said, "and I had to arrange details, so I left them temporarily. When I got back I found they had ordered three bowls of soup, two plates of ice cream, and glass after glass of ice water.

"I thought I would have nothing but sick men aboard that plane during the rest of the trip, but they fooled me. They got along swell, even tho before that they had eaten nothing but sips of tea and a little beef broth."

HOLY LAND 'JUST LIKE PICTURES IN SUNDAY SCHOOL'

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE.

BETHLEHEM, Palestine, Dec. 24.—Thruout the many years I have followed the world's news trails for the Associated Press I have hoped that one Christmas I might be in Bethlehem, in Judea. Now I have my wish.

Here and in Jerusalem I have traced the life of Jesus in traditional relics.

I started by climbing the ancient battlements of King David's palace against the wall of the old city of Jerusalem. From there one could look down upon the straggling little stone flagged streets which were ancient when Christ passed thru them.

Scene Changes Little.

When afterward I made my way among the motley crowds which swarmed in the bazars—Jews, Arabs in native dress, and peoples of the other near eastern countries—it struck me that probably the scene was not so far different from what it must have been 1,942 years ago.

Certainly it was strongly reminiscent of the colored pictures in my Sunday school book of years ago.

From the top of David's wall one also could see the Mount of Olives and Gethsemane. A little beyond runs the River Jordan in whose waters Jesus was baptized by John.

Farther away on the horizon to the east is the mountain on which Moses stood and looked with longing eyes toward the promised land.

Follows Via Dolorosa.

Later I followed the steps of Jesus as He carried His cross along the narrow thorofare—Via Dolorosa—which finally climbed sharply upward with many steps to Calvary. Within the neighboring Church of the Holy Sepulchre is the tomb in which He was buried.

On the hillside just east of Jerusalem I stood by the spot from which He ascended into heaven and by the great stone which they tell us was the scene of His agony in Gethsemane. There in the garden stands a gnarled olive tree that is supposed to be 2,000 years old, altho it still puts out green leaves.

Having seen historic Jerusalem, I came to Bethlehem. Here is the hillside where shepherds tended their flocks. Across that crest, looking eastward, the three wise men must have followed the star until it rested over the manger.

Finds Foreign Note.

Down in the caverns which formed the stables of Bethlehem's crowded inn we find the stone niche in which the Christ child was said to have been born; a few feet away stood the manger in which He was placed.

Certainly there is a wealth of Christmas atmosphere—but there is a foreign note.

Perhaps it's the steely clack of military boots on the flagstones of the underground stable and the Church of the Nativity which has been built over this holy place.

This year the Christmas tourists are chiefly soldiers. Some bear marks of the bloody argument by which the world is trying to settle its differences.

ALASKA AIR BASE CHIEF CITED FOR SAVING SOLDIER

HEADQUARTERS ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, Dec. 23 [Delayed]—(AP).—Col. Robert Oswald Cork of Detroit, Mich., commander of an Alaskan air base, has been awarded an air medal for risking his life to save a seriously injured soldier.

Col. Cork made a hazardous nighttime takeoff in a small plane from an improvised runway over heavy tundra and in the face of adverse Aleutian weather conditions to transport the soldier to medical care.

Award of the purple heart to several men wounded at Dutch Harbor, June 3, also was reported by Maj. Gen. Simon B. Buckner Jr., commanding general in this theater. The recipients included Pvt. Theodore F. Hogebaum, 4047 School street, Chicago.

YANKS CAN'T BUY TOYS IN LONDON; THEY MAKE SOME

Soldiers Adopt Kids for Christmas Day.

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—The wartime Christmas season of 1942 has found Americans scattered around the world as never before, with soldiers, sailors and marines in the fighting and supply outposts of far lands united in common, unashamed homesickness.

At many places to which the Americans carried their concept of Christmas they had improvised yule trees, or none at all; sand instead of snow; bullets instead of bundles, and blackouts instead of bright lights.

But those who shared their lands with the Americans did their best in fellowship to help them enjoy their holiday season.

In Britain and many other places homes were opened to Americans who could be spared from active duty. And the soldiers and sailors, their own children at home, adopted others for Christmas day—whether English, Arab or Australian.

They Make the Toys.

Under war stringencies American ingenuity often is taxed to play the Father Christmas rôle properly. For instance two American soldiers who came to London with $1,600 contributed at their station to buy toys ran into a toy famine.

They returned with the money, and met the crisis by building toys from scrap lumber and other material around camps and stripping the soldiers' own sweets rations for the benefit of delighted children.

"Trees" of palm frond decked out with native spears of airplane metal tubing are other evidences of high humored attempts of the soldiers to meet deficiencies of their surroundings.

The troops generally are assured of eating well, altho perhaps not turkey at all messes. Packages from home are piled high at most stations except at the very forefront of the actual fighting.

The Americans realize that no matter how austere their Christmas dinner and recreations of themselves and their allies, all this is nothing to compare with the heartache and horror that blights the continent of Europe.

Europeans Are Exiled.

In London, for example, exiles of all fighting governments — Frenchmen, Netherlanders, Norwegians, Belgians, Greeks, and others — all are trying to make the best of things, but it is impossible for them to forget their own lands, not so far away in miles as the Americans' but much farther in reality.

The chief solace of these and other allies on this second Christmas since the United States entered the war is the fact that there is much to be thankful for this year and much more to look forward to next year.

Archbishops, kings and generals swelled tonight in a chorus of formal and sober greetings. Privates, workmen and shop girls echoed the traditional "Merry Christmas." Maybe it did not mean just what it meant at home and in peace, but none could say it didn't have a meaning just as deep.

Dog on Hunger Strike

Corp. R. M. Hederman and his fox terrier, Arkie.

Flying school buddies of Corp. Raymond M. Hederman, 22 years old, 6842 South Racine avenue, last night received a telegram at their headquarters in Walnut Ridge, Ark., which may save the life of the corporal's hunger striking fox terrier, Arkie.

Hederman, who is here on a furlough, wired his top sergeant, Andrew J. Ryan, to "get on the ball and feed my dog." The corporal bought the dog and a watermelon for 40 cents last spring, and the little terrier has refused to eat since Hederman left the camp on furlough.

Hederman said he had little doubt that the sergeant could force Arkie to eat. "That topkick can make anybody do anything," he said.

Yanks' Cigarets Stolen; British Court Accuses Five

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—In a Liverpool court it was disclosed today that 1,200,000 cigarets, valued at $30,000, which had been shipped to American troops here, have been stolen from the docks. Three truck drivers, a baggage contractor, and a boarding house keeper who was accused of receiving stolen goods, were held for hearing Jan. 31.

HITLER'S EUROPE SPENDS GLOOMY AND SKIMPY YULE

Fear of Future Also Hangs Heavily Over All.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 24 (AP).—Germany and her satellites and the countries they have overrun are spending the dreariest, skimpiest Christmas of the war with fear of what is to come hanging heavily over the home hearth and the fighting front.

Christmas for the Germans normally is a gay family event, but for most of them that is out of the question this year. Many fathers, sons, and brothers are fighting in Russia for the second successive year. Many are in Africa. Countless others lie dead in the Russian snows, or desert sands.

Tell of Gloom in Berlin.

Dispatches reaching Stockholm related the atmosphere of gloom hanging over the German capital and other German cities, with the Christmas tree and gift table almost bare because of the scarcity of goods and the dinner table reduced to simple rationed fare.

Altho the Russian-Finnish front was reported quiet, Christmas in Finland "on the whole is leaner and drearier" than ever before, a Swedish correspondent wrote.

Danes are spending Christmas saddened by what is recognized as a progressive oppression by Germany.

From Norway came reports of a new wave of terror, with the Gestapo [Nazi secret police] swooping down on isolated Norwegian towns, arresting persons suspected of anti-new order activities, confiscating weapons and secret radios, and seizing foodstuffs.

Little Cheer in Italy.

Never before has Christmas come to Italy with "so little cheer," a Swedish correspondent in Rome reported.

Hundreds of thousands, especially in northern Italy, were homeless, and "the fear of bombardment hangs over the land as perhaps no other country in Europe, while in Africa the axis forces are fighting on the last bit of the destroyed Italian colonial empire," he added.

Cold, Hungry Europe Joyless.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 24 (AP).—The sad Christmas trees of Europe are bringing little joy into the hearts of cold and hungry remnants of Europe's families this year. Thruout Europe children are spending this Christmas separated from their parents. Hundreds of thousands from the cities of Italy are scattered thru the countryside and 10,000 German youngsters are sheltered in Hungary.

Australians Tighten Their Belts for First Austerity Christmas

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 24.—Christmas is "according to plan" in Australia, but the plans are not the same as they used to be.

In the 12 months since Japan entered the war, Australians have tightened their belts, and this year the country will celebrate an "austerity Christmas."

Most of the jolts like higher income taxes and abandonment of the right to change employment have been accepted without much argument, but the banning of pink icing on cakes, and vests for men's suits, brought prolonged squawks.

Rationing Curtails Spending.

Spending has been curtailed by rationing of some foods as well as restriction on importation and the manufacture of luxury goods.

One of the results of this program has been the mushrooming of black [illegal] markets where nearly everything can be bought—for a price. A waiter told a friend of mine the other day that after a great deal of trouble he had been able to get eight bottles of salad oil, which he could let go for only $3.25 a bottle. The waiter said they could be resold for twice as much.

With a compulsory 33 per cent reduction in liquor sales many taxi drivers have opened pubs in their back seats. They will sell you a bottle of beer for from 10 shillings to a pound [$2 to $4] and whisky for five pounds [$20]. Sailors ashore after long tours of duty are the best customers of the taxi speakeasies.

Crew Has $72,000 to Spend.

The Tribune correspondent had dinner with a captain whose vessel had been out six months. The crew had $72,000 to spend. One thing the boys brought back to the ship was a piano.

Saloons which opened at 6 a. m. a year ago now don't open until 11 a. m., and the interstate transport of beer has been restricted. One hotel, which had 30,000 bottles of beer for sale a year ago, has 1,000 this December.

Sugar is rationed to one pound a week and tea to half a pound every four weeks. With drastic cuts in gasoline allowances, delivery services have been curtailed, which has developed the use of Commando tactics by housewives who sally forth to the markets each day armed with baskets or bags.

Milk is still delivered, but the housewife has to buy from the dealer authorized to serve her area.

Traveling Is Curtailed.

Cancellation of special fares and excursions discourages intrastate travel and to cross state borders it is necessary to get a travel permit.

There will be no big hotel Christmas parties, most places planning to serve only their guests, and then nothing very fancy.

Poultry is up in price 25 per cent on the official price list. There are few toys or other gifts and shoppers are jamming stores to take what they can get. It can't be said any longer that Australians don't know they're in a war.

Santa Is a Yank!

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 24.—American forces here today rounded out their organization for their first New Zealand Christmas, covering every camp and detachment in the country.

The men in the camps plan to have groups of children, including some from orphanages, as guests at Christmas parties at which Santa Claus will distribute gifts and the soldiers will teach American Christmas songs.

There will be special church services Christmas morning for Americans at big churches in the cities. Chaplains will conduct services in camps for those unable to get away.

Many of the Americans will be guests at private homes for Christmas dinner. From the number of invitations received it appears that nearly all men on liberty will be entertained. Special arrangements have been made for their transportation.

FLIES 16 TURKEYS TO LINES WITHOUT LOSING A GOBBLE

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Dec. 22 [Delayed]—(AP).—An aerial Santa Claus has assured one group of American soldiers, far in the front lines of this battleground, their traditional Christmas dinner.

Lt. Robert S. Dorsey, of Pittsburgh, Kas., flew into their base with his bomb bay loaded with 16 turkeys.

The delivery was arranged by Maj. Joseph Cunningham, the squadron leader, of Clarksburg, W. Va. He warned Dorsey of dire results if he harmed a single feather of the valuable cargo. The turkeys arrived with every gobble and feather intact.

4 MILLION WOMEN IN WAR WORK.

The war man power commission estimates there will be 4 million women engaged in war work by the end of 1942 and 6 million by the end of 1943.

G. O. P. CAPTURED VOTE MAJORITY, SURVEY REVEALS

Polled 50.6 Pct. Nov. 3 to Democrats' 47.4.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The 12 midwestern states proved the biggest bulwark for the Republicans in the Nov. 3 elections. A tabulation of final official figures today showed the G. O. P. won just about half of its house victories—103 out of 209—in that section.

Altho the Democrats won a narrow majority of the house memberships—222—the compilation disclosed that Republicans polled a larger combined popular vote in the congressional races over the nation for the first time in 14 years.

28 Million Votes Cast.

The total vote in house contests thruout the country was 28,111,583, the smallest in any national election in 22 years. Even the highest vote in each state, whether for senator, governor, representative at large, or the combined district votes for representatives, totaled only 30,024,927, lowest since the 29,058,647 cast in the Coolidge-Davis-La Follette presidential contest in 1924.

Of the total congressional vote, the Republicans polled 14,217,320 or 50.6 per cent. Democrats polled 13,331,245, or 47.4 per cent, and other parties 563,018, or 2.0 per cent. In the last off year elections in 1938 the Republicans rolled up only 47.3 per cent of the total against the Democrats' 49 per cent. Other parties polled 3.7 per cent.

Overcome Losses in South.

The vote by sections disclosed that the Republicans achieved their popular plurality in the house races despite the fact that they polled only 459,559 votes against 1,560,698 by the Democrats in the 11 southern states plus the political "border" states of Kentucky and Oklahoma, or 22.6 per cent against 76.8 per cent. Other parties got only 11,372 votes for 0.6 per cent of the total in those 13 states.

The Republicans polled 54.7 per cent of the aggregate in the midwestern states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin. Their popular total there was 6,200,505. Democrats had 4,754,602, or 41.9 per cent, and other parties 381,544, or 3.4 per cent. The Republican total was a gain of 4 per cent over 1938; the Democratic a loss of 2.3.

Democrats Lose 29 Seats in Area.

In electing 103 house members in the midwest against 25 for the Democrats, the Republicans gained 23 seats in that region over 1938 and the Democrats lost 29.

The Republicans had a combined plurality also in the 12 eastern states, 51.8 per cent against 47.2 for the Democrats; and in the aggregate vote of the 11 far western states, 49.6 per cent against 48.8.

In the east, the G. O. P. elected 79 house members compared with 74 four years ago; the Democrats 53 against 61. In the far west the Republicans won 23 seats against nine in 1938; the Democrats 26 against 34.

Hold 344 Electoral Votes.

Considered state by state, rather than by sections, the Republicans had pluralities in the house voting in 27 states which will have 344 electoral votes in the 1944 presidential race, or 78 more than a majority. The Democrats had pluralities in 21 states with 187 electoral votes.

The total congressional vote in the nation was only about 50 per cent of roughly estimated number of eligibles and slightly more than half of the 50 million who voted in the 1940 presidential contest.

The aggregate vote for house members in the last off year election, in 1938, was 36,203,133.

WOMEN VOTERS HOLD WAR GAINS AID NATIONALISM

Planning interviews with congressmen home for the holidays, the Illinois League of Women Voters yesterday held that the spirit of nationalism is becoming stronger despite a continuous barrage of propaganda in favor of internationalism.

"In the face of the fact that the groundwork for a lasting peace is being laid at this time," a league pronouncement declared, "nationalist sentiment in the United States is growing with every gain made on the military front."

Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, president of the league, said that the purpose of the interviews is to "let our representatives know that they have constituents who understand the magnitude of the problems the next congress faces and who expect them to meet those problems as national representatives, not as proponents of any special interest or political group."

PLAN TO TRAIN CLUB EMPLOYES TO AVERT FIRES

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan, in a letter to division fire marshals, outlined yesterday a new program for training night club and café employés in fire prevention measures. He asked detailed reports of progress in the program.

"All employés of these places should be drilled and trained in fire prevention measures so that they would be able, in event of an emergency, to issue instructions intelligently, guide patrons to available exits, and instill confidence, thus avoiding panic," Corrigan said.

Such a program is needed especially at the present time, Corrigan said, because recent fire catastrophies have made people fire conscious, and "they are thinking in terms of personal safety." He added that all employés should understand fire hazards and the dangers existing when proper precautions are not taken.

Official Tabulation of Vote for Congress

[Copyright: 1942: By the Associated Press.]

Here are complete statistics of the Nov. 3 election, compiled from the officially canvassed vote for members of the house of representatives, by states, political parties, and percentage polled by the two major parties. Comparative figures for 1940 represent the vote for Presidential electors; those for 1938, the vote for representatives.

The total of all votes cast this year and in 1938 was larger than shown below inasmuch as the vote for senators, governors, or other state officers often exceed by a considerable number the aggregate vote for representatives in congress.

G. O. P. PREPARES TO COMPLETE ITS CANDIDATE LIST

Scans Men for Clerk and Treasurer.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Republican subcommittee on candidates, acting for the committee, yesterday laid the groundwork for the choice of candidates for city clerk and city treasurer as running mates for Roger Faherty, the committee's choice for mayor.

Confined to his home by a cold, Dempsey was forced to do some of his preliminary work by telephone. The subcommittee is expected to meet tomorrow before a meeting of all ward committeemen, but there may be a postponement.

The slate picked by the regular G. O. P. is expected to be up against a Democratic organization ticket comprised of Mayor Kelly and City Clerk Ludwig D. Schreiber running for reelection, and Paul Drymalski as nominee for city treasurer. Thus the Democrats are catering to the Irish, Jewish, and Polish voting blocs.

M. L. Fitch Considered.

One of those reported to have received some favorable discussion as a running mate for Faherty is Morgan L. Fitch, who himself was one of those earlier considered for the mayoral spot.

Fitch is a director and former president of the Chicago Real Estate board. His father-in-law is Charles Ringer, formerly prominent in the Republican party and renowned as one of the few men who has kept his pledge about retiring from politics. Fitch is a member of the South Side Swedish club.

Also under consideration are Henry D. Lindblad, 17th ward committeeman, and Lloyd C. Larson, nominee for county clerk in the recent campaign. Several Polish-American names have been advanced, including that of Stanley R. Pulaski, who made the race for probate court judge Nov. 3.

League Asks for Place.

The Lincoln Republican league has asked that one of its members be given a place on the ticket. Two names mentioned to the committee were those of Leo Lowitz, league president, and State Rep. Edward P. Saltiel, vice president.

Ald. Patrick Sheridan Smith [6th] and Leo Carr, G. O. P. nominee for sheriff, are other names in the list. John Leonard East, 5th ward, a member of the subcommittee, said yesterday that he had offered the names of National Committeeman Werner W. Schroeder and National Committeewoman Bertha Baur. His suggestion was generally regarded as a semihumorous reproach for the selection of Faherty. East had favored fusion, with a Democrat running on the G. O. P. ticket.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. M. writes: "We are very anxious to learn the whereabouts of our son of whom we have not heard in almost a year. At the time of his last letter, he was stationed in a camp in the southern part of the country, and he stated he was not well and expected to enter a hospital. Shortly afterward we received a post-card saying he was again in good health but have had no further communications. Letters which we mailed after that date were returned to us stamped 'address unknown.' We do not know his serial number."

ANSWER: Go to the military and naval welfare service of the American Red Cross, 616 South Michigan avenue. That agency has representatives in all the large army and navy hospitals, and it is possible they can trace your son for you.

Mrs. I. O. asks: "I have been very ill, but I am now beginning to recover. At present I am receiving an allowance from the government, since my husband is in the army. It has been a great help to me, but I am so far behind in my doctor and hospital bills that as soon as I am able, it will be necessary for me to obtain work if I am to continue necessary medical treatments. Will I be able to continue to receive the allowance, even tho I am employed?"

ANSWER: As a wife and a class A dependent, it is not necessary for you to be in financial need in order to receive a family allowance. Even tho you are employed, you are still entitled to the benefits you are receiving.

Mrs. E. W. writes: "My son was inducted into the army in September. He signed for an allowance for me, and $22 was deducted from his pay last month. I received a card from the war department saying that my allowance would go into effect next month. I would like to know what forms I have to fill out and where to get them."

ANSWER: If your son has not already submitted two affidavits concerning your relationship and dependency, it will be necessary for you to do so. This department has the forms for the class B dependents of army men, which you may have by sending in a stamped self-addressed envelope. Forward them to your son, if he is still in this country. If he is overseas, send them to the office of dependency benefits, 213 Washington street, Newark, New Jersey. Be sure that the papers are clearly labeled with his complete name, serial number, rank, and organization.

PANAMA VESSEL TORPEDOED; 48 OF CREW SAVED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—A medium sized Panamanian merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the Caribbean area in November and survivors have been landed at an east coast port, the navy reported today. The captain, whose name was not revealed because his family is in Nazi occupied Europe, died aboard a rescue ship from injuries suffered in the explosion, but the other 39 members of the crew and a nine man gun crew escaped unscathed.

The sinking brought to 569 the Associated Press total of announced sinkings of allied and neutral ships in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor. In these attacks 3,760 persons have perished, 2,306 are missing, and 17,144 were rescued.

The navy also announced the torpedoing and sinking of a medium sized United States merchant vessel in early November off the west coast of Africa in the eastern Atlantic. Survivors have been landed at an east coast port.

Survivors told naval officers that the entire ship's company of 57 men abandoned the sinking vessel in four lifeboats and were picked up one hour later by a British ship.

REPORT NAZIS PLAN NEW MEASURES TO WIPE OUT ALL JEWS

[By Wireless to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Dec. 24.—Hitler's fresh plans for final extermination of the remnants of Jewish communities in Nazi Europe are given today in what purports to be authoritative information reaching official Jewish quarters in Jerusalem from underground channels thru neutral countries.

It is stated that the Nazis now are concentrating Jews within ghettos in 53 towns in Poland where their methodical annihilation is to be undertaken. Any Jew found outside these ghettos will be shot.

Palestine's Jewish national council issued a statement today proposing [1] the exchange of German women and children and later men, for Jews inside German occupied territories; [2] that suitable measures be taken thru international and neutral agencies for evacuation of Jews from Nazi lands, and [3] that the allies and neutral nations announce their readiness to absorb refugees and repatriates.

BANDITS TAKE MINK COAT, JEWELS.

Mrs. Le Roy Stein, 704 South Independence boulevard, reported to police yesterday that two men carrying revolvers invaded her third floor apartment and robbed her of a mink coat and jewelry valued at about $6,000.

DEEPEST GLOOM GRIPS NEW DEAL THIS CHRISTMAS

Devastation of November Election Piles Up.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—With the New Deal tottering and the fourth term languishing as a result of the Republican landslide in the November elections, this is the bleakest Christmas for the Democratic party since the days it was wandering in the wilderness between 1920 and 1932. Only the southern and other conservative Democrats find anything to be merry about.

The day before Christmas found the Democratic national committee headquarters in the Mayflower hotel enveloped in gloom. The far flung suite of rooms that once teemed with activity and echoed to the Democratic theme song boomed from a 100 typewriter anvil chorus was silent, save for the fitful pecking of a lone stenographer under the supervision of a clerk polishing her nails. They were the sole survivors of the corps of employés dismissed last month when it was found that the regular contributors, assaying the fact of 1942 and the prospects of 1944, were unwilling to underwrite Democratic activities any longer.

Paving Blocks Flynn Gone.

Enthroned in solitary grandeur, reading the newspapers, was old Charley Michelson, the $25,000 Democratic publicity director, who also resigned when the funds gave out but just can't keep away from the old haunt. But even he departed early without unveiling his typewriter from which he leaped to fame and fortune "smearing" Hoover and feeding the press with his weekly column, "Dispelling the Fog."

Gone was the national chairman, Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn, to the accompaniment of a question in congress as to what influence got him enough gasoline to travel to New York by limousine, gone 'tis said, after an ineffectual effort to obtain an audience with the President and after having "some words" with Mr. Roosevelt by telephone. Flynn had already made known his intention to resign the chairmanship in which he has been insecure ever since the exposure of the scandal of the paving blocks.

This scandal involved the appropriation by persons unknown of a large number of blocks, the property of the New York borough of the Bronx, of which Flynn is the political boss, and the paving of a courtyard of Flynn's country estate with them, the labor and trucks being supplied by the municipal government.

Dewey May Act in Case.

As the statute of limitations has not run out Flynn will be at the mercy of the new governor, Republican Thomas E. Dewey, who could institute the proceedings against the Bronx boss that Democratic former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman refused to initiate.

The new chairman will be formally chosen by the national committee but actually he will be picked by Mr. Roosevelt. Alien Property Custodian Leo Crowley and several others have put aside the proferred crown with rude emphasis and it now looks as if the President will wish the job on Postmaster General Frank C. Walker.

Thoroly Discredited.

So discredited was the New Deal by the election returns that Vice President Henry Wallace and other New Deal Presidential possibilities have lost caste. The tide of party sentiment has turned strongly even against the President for a fourth term. Democratic leaders calculated that no New Dealers will have a chance in 1944.

So great is the reaction against the New Deal that the prediction is freely voiced by Democrats that if Mr. Roosevelt or any other New Dealers were nominated several southern states would go Republican. To hold the South in line the nomination of a conservative will be demanded. In this connection Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia is looming large in the 1944 picture.

HEAVIER WAR FRAUD TERMS TO BE SOUGHT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Life imprisonment or death will be proposed in the new congress as the maximum penalty for persons convicted of wilfully manufacturing and delivering inferior or defective materials for the army and navy, Rep. Sam Hobbs, [D., Ala.] said today.

Such a crime now is punishable only under the fraud statutes, with maximum penalties running to two years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine, or both, on conviction of conspiracy to defraud the United States, and 10 years imprisonment, $10,000 fine or both, for consummation of such a fraud.

Tom C. Clark, chief of the justice department war frauds division, said his office was investigating 900 cases of suspected wartime fraud against the government, and that approximately 15 of these involved accusations that defective or inferior materials were manufactured and delivered, wilfully, to thet army and navy.

INSANE PATIENT AT ELGIN KILLS FELLOW INMATE

Carl Hofener, 41 years old, formerly of 4327 Drummond place, choked Howard R. Christensen, 31, of 4430 Mango street, to death yesterday at the Elgin state hospital, where both were patients. At the inquest, a Kane county coroner's jury recommended that Hofener be transferred to the Illinois security hospital for the criminal insane at Chester. Christensen was committed to the Elgin hospital in 1940. Hofener first was committed in 1939, received a parole and was returned in January, 1942.

Flying Tiger's Girl Friend

ELEANOR AMES CUMINGS.

He'll Be Surprised

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—Capt. John C. Ruse, one of Gen. Chennault's flyers in China, will be Eleanor Ames Cumings' first correspondent — and will he be surprised.

Capt. J. C. Ruse.

Miss Cumings' father was inadvertently responsible. It was his idea to attach names of war bond purchasers to planes sent to farflung battlefronts. When Gen. Chennault's aviators received new B25s they eyed the names with considerable interest, each choosing one to correspond with. Capt. Ruse chose the name of Eleanor Ames Cumings, admitting he wanted "another girl to write to me."

Miss Cumings, a blue eyed blonde, is 14 months old.

NAVAL OFFICER BARES RED RULE OF SAILOR UNION

Cowardly and Insolent, He Declares.

Salt water life in the unionized United States merchant marine is one of ease, high wages, and insolence under the guidance of Communist elements that infest every crew, a naval officer who has made many crossings in merchant marine ships and suffered the rigors of a torpedoing said yesterday. The officer requested that his name not be printed.

Many of the merchant marine sailors, he said, are draft dodgers. They average 24 years in age and are misfits of various sorts, and most of them are definitely not seamen. They hail from the port cities, mostly New York.

"They're yellow," said the officer. "Once we were torpedoed, but these draft dodgers thought only of themselves and wouldn't go to the help of shipmates. Not so the few old salts and conscientious seamen. They lived up to the true tradition of the sea."

Cites Insolence to Officers.

The men, protected by the union, are insolent to officers and do not hesitate to tell them to "go to hell," he said. The only ones they show respect to are members of the United States navy. Bluejackets, he said, won't take their insolence. Navy men are cautioned not to mingle with the merchant sailors any more than necessary.

The deplorable morale of merchant marine crews he blamed on these factors:

1. Five unions from the west, east, and gulf coasts, one of them a Communist group, furnish all the merchant sailors on ships.

2. All sailors are hired directly thru the unions and cannot be discharged even by the captain without reasons acceptable to the union.

3. The rush to keep all ships in constant service forces steamship companies to direct officers to compromise with union insolence instead of stamping it out.

4. Bonuses, overtime, port allowances, abnormally short working hours attract the riffraff of the ports and the union protects them in their jobs in spite of insolence and inefficiency.

He said that the five maritime unions include organizations of masters, mates, and deck officers, a good reliable group; stewards, cooks, and messmen, a CIO union directed and inspired by Communists and a breeding ground of insolence; seamen; firemen, and oilers, and engineers.

Heavy Overtime Pay.

Merchant seamen work only 5½ days a week and most of them draw large sums in overtime, he said. Shipboard hours are from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and three full crews are maintained. Most of the men like to put in a few minutes overtime, for which they must be paid a full hour's time.

Ordinary seamen get $80 per month, but the 100 per cent bonus paid on the completion of each trip, averaging once a month, plus port allowances of $125 or so, and overtime can make his total earnings $285 upwards. In addition the seaman gets free board and room.

The overtime laws of the unions are rigid, the naval officer said. If a ship's carpenter drops an anchor after 5 p. m., he gets an hour's overtime, altho the task consumes only a few minutes. If a ship's officer brings guests to luncheon aboard the vessel, the cook, messman and utility man each get an hour off to compensate for the "extra service."

Work Five and One-Half Days a Week.

Seamen and deck hands are off at noon on Saturdays and have Sundays off, their hours being staggered so that none of them work more than five and one-half days a week. Other crew men work seven days, but only eight hours a day.

There are a few choice jobs in which seamen revel. One of them is "helm and lookout." The merchant sailor puts in 1 hour and 20 minutes at the wheel of the ship and 1 hour and 20 minutes on lookout. He does this twice a day for a total of five and one-third hours. The lookout time is spent principally in drinking coffee. On regular work, seamen get 20 minutes rest periods twice a day for coffee. In addition, they have an hour off for lunch daily.

"Swagger Like Owners."

"These seamen are a tough lot," the naval officer said. "They tell the officers to go to hell and the officers can't use their fists or otherwise touch them. The seamen know it. They come aboard ship not to work but to get paid. They swagger aboard as tho they were the owners."

The officer said that there is always a good, but small, element in every crew. It consists of the "old salts" and a few of the newer sailors who have entered the merchant marine conscientiously to help the war effort.

"The rest are scum," he said.

On shore, these draft dodgers attend union meetings and sneer at union men who buy war bonds. But in foreign ports, the slackers spend up to $100 a night on liquor and amusement and are useless for work for several days.

Union Directed by Communists.

The stewards, cooks and messmen are the worst of the crew, the naval officer said. Their union is communist directed and most of them are followers of the party line. They instigate trouble with other crew men, but are careful to avoid overt acts. They are also careful not to interfere with the personnel of the navy.

The stewards' union members try to make the rest of the crew dissatisfied with food, living, and working conditions. Meals may include three to five eggs with ham, coffee and fruit for each man at breakfast; two kinds of meat for dinner, and as much at supper. But the men will complain, prompted by the Communists, that they want their eggs scrambled instead of fried.

"We in the navy are just waiting for a blowup," the naval officer declared. "We would like to tell the people how rotten the ship crews are."

SHOOTS AT MOTORIST.

Police yesterday sought a motorist who fled after firing a shot at Frank Robinson, 212 East 41st street, colored, during a fight over a traffic accident at Michigan avenue and 35th street.

N. Y. REMEMBERS OLD FERRIES IN GASOLINE PINCH

Boats Carry More People and Fewer Vehicles.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 24.—New York's ferryboats are regaining their ancient importance in meeting the community's transportation needs. Gas and tire rationing are responsible for the phenomenon.

Andrew J. Hudson deputy commissioner of the city's marine and aviation department, today furnished figures showing the ferries are hauling an increasing load of foot passengers and a sharply decreasing number of motor vehicles.

Ferries were an important factor in the past because Manhattan is an island. The first license to operate a ferry was issued in 1658, in the old Dutch days of New Amsterdam, to Hermanus Van Borsum.

Busy Down Thru Years.

Down thru the years the flat bottomed ferry boats have shuttled over the harbor unceasingly.

But they began to lose out in recent years, with the building of bridges across the East river to Brooklyn and the digging of tubes under the Hudson river to the Jersey shore. These improvements went along with the mighty growth of automobile traffic.

Today in wartime, the ferries creep between battle cruiser and destroyers and near important military establishments on Governor's Island.

Takes Protective Measures.

Hudson has taken protective measures to meet wartime possibilities, but there has been virtually no trouble.

Soon after Pearl Harbor, Hudson ordered ferry employés to register with the coast guard. Their backgrounds were investigated, and they were fingerprinted and photographed.

Notices from the third naval district were posted on ferries to warn passengers against taking snapshots. However, cameras are not taken from them.

Same Trend on Private Lines.

Private companies run ferries in the East river and the Hudson and have no month-to-month passenger figures available. However, officials of several companies reported the same trend as the city-owned ferries: Increasing passenger volume and dwindling vehicle volume.

The city operates two ferry lines, one from the Battery on Manhattan's southern tip to Staten Island and the other from Staten Island to Brooklyn. A table showing the shift in passenger and vehicular traffic on these lines for the first ten months of 1942, as contrasted with the same period of last year, follows:

Battery— Staten Island.	10 Mos. 1941.	10 Mos. 1942.
No. passengers	17,314,727	17,656,167
No. vehicles	802,738	781,189
No. pass in vehicles.	968,852	789,153

The sharpest drop in vehicular traffic occurs over the week-end, because pleasure bent drivers no longer are able to get gas or tires to cruise about, according to ferry officials.

W. T. HAYES, KANKAKEE, DIES.

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—William T. Hayes, 77 years old, Kankakee, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Antoine Pelletier. He was a resident of Kankakee county most of his life. Besides his daughter he is survived by a son. The funeral will be Saturday.

Global Peace

We look to the sky for the symbol of peace on earth, the Star of Bethlehem! Also, we look to the sky for victory in this global war. America must be dominant in the post-war global air so that we shall have Freedom and Peace on earth.

CHICAGO PAUSES TO OBSERVE YULE IN USUAL MANNER

Window Wreaths Yield to Service Flags.

Millions of Chicagoans began last night to celebrate the second Christmas of the war. For thousands of families whose fathers, sons, or brothers are serving in distant parts of the world, the day will be less bright than in former years. But in many of the homes where service flags have replaced Christmas wreaths, residents solemnly resolved that the traditional American Christmas will be preserved.

The city's railway, bus, and air line depots were jammed last night with travelers and welcoming relatives. A large percentage of passengers was soldiers, sailors, and marines traveling on leave or en route to other posts.

Postmaster Ernest J. Kreutzen said that gift packages will be delivered today.

Send Flowers to Mothers.

Hundreds of mothers of Chicago service men received flowers yesterday from their sons thru the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. Orders for flowers came from many parts of the world and were filled by members of the chapter's motor corps.

Juvenile patients of Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, 5001 North Pulaski road, each received a complete outfit of clothing at a Christmas eve party in the sanitarium. The clothing was the gift of the Chicago Women's Civic Service Group of Illinois. Patients will dine today on roast goose and other delicacies, after which they will be entertained by carolers.

The annual Christmas party at the University of Chicago's Home for Destitute Crippled Children, 970 East 59th street, was held yesterday afternoon. Each of the 50 children, patients in the home, received gifts of toys and games.

Entertains 3,000 Children.

Miss Louise Wolff, owner of a restaurant in the Otis building, 10 South La Salle street, was hostess in the afternoon to 50 underprivileged children from Erie Neighborhood house.

More than 3,000 youngsters were guests of Albert J. Horan, bailiff of Municipal court, in the Senate theater. The event is sponsored each year by Horan for children in the neighborhood.

A check for $1,300 was presented by the Chicago Teachers' union to the Chicago Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street. Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor, accepted the gift. Mrs. Kelly aided in the distribution of Christmas dinner baskets to needy families at headquarters of the Volunteers of America, 2841 West Washington street. The baskets were purchased with contributions from organizations and individuals.

All lights on State street were blacked out at 8 o'clock last night while traffic was stopped and pedestrians paused in the dark for 60 seconds to pray for service men who will spend their Christmas far from home. The lights then were turned on, while the street's mile-long amplification system broadcast "Silent Night."

Suspend Five South Bend Police on Drinking Charge

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 24 [Special].—Five South Bend police were suspended this afternoon because they allegedly took part in a drinking party in a downtown hotel while dressed in uniform. They are Patrolmen Edmund Vitou, Thomas Nowak, Leo Makowski, Richard E. Burkhart, and Louis Hadric. According to evidence the officers after attracting attention in the hotel lobby called for a squad car to take them home.

War Prisoners in Canada Will Get Turkey Dinners

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 24.—The 1,900 German and Italian prisoners of war in the large internment camp in Alberta, western Canada, will be regaled on Christmas day with turkey, plum pudding and all the dainties of a Christmas dinner, the funds for the supplies being provided from Canadian army canteen funds, the Canadian Legion announced today.

REVEAL WHITE HOUSE MENU FOR CHRISTMAS; SHORTER BUT AMPLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Here is the menu of the White House Christmas dinner:

Oyster Cocktail
Clear Soup with Sherry
Roast Turkey Chestnut Dressing
Cranberry Jelly
Deerfoot Sausage
Beans Cauliflower au Gratin

The menu, it was said, is shorter than that of peacetime years.

Two More Alimony Row Prisoners Get Freedom

Two more tenants of alimony row in the county jail were freed by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday. Stanley Poniatowski wept when Judge Sabath liberated him with the instruction to visit his three children today. He has been in jail since July 21 for a $2,100 arrearage in support payments. James Yount, a printing salesman who went to jail recently for a debt to his estranged wife, Marie, was set free with a warning not to dispose of a car owned jointly by the two.

GOV. GREEN ASKS PEOPLE TO UNITE FOR TASKS AHEAD

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—Gov. Dwight H. Green in a Christmas eve broadcast tonight suggested that Illinois citizens consecrate themselves to "the tasks ahead" and find a new significance in this year's holiday observance.

Speaking over Springfield station WCBS, the governor in a prepared address said: "The strength of America and her allies is beginning to tell. The arms of those who represent righteousness and decency are striking hard, and the common enemy is reeling under the force of the blows.

"I feel that a new realization of the strength of the purpose of the Man of Galilee has come upon us. Our brave men of the army and navy . . . are carrying their cross, offering their lives that 'Peace on earth, good will to men' may once again emblazon the sky and endure in all nations."

Lt. Conger Explains That He Got Only 10 Japs

First Lt. Jack E. Conger, 21 years old, marine ace, wants it known that he only shot down 10 Japanese planes during his 43 days of active fighting at Guadalcanal and not 11 as mentioned in THE TRIBUNE. And he was lucky to get that many, he explained. Conger, who was in Chicago a week ago for a visit, is now at home in Des Moines, Ia.

CHICAGO BRINGS GALA CHRISTMAS TO SERVICE MEN

Turkey Feasts, Carols, and Cheer for All.

Christmas for men of the army and navy in the Chicago area will be a merry one, altho there will be only a short pause in training and other programs at various camps.

Christmas decorations have been in place all week in most of the chapels, recreation rooms, and hospitals of the army and navy. Christmas parties and celebrations started yesterday and will continue thru today.

Turkey Dinner on Menus.

Religious services, carol singing, and entertainment by nationally famed orchestras as well as by "home talent" are on the programs, and at practically every mess there will be a turkey dinner at noon today. Chicago and north shore U. S. O. clubs have extended every effort to make the soldiers' and sailors' Christmas joyous.

Navy men aboard the Wolverine will be entertained for two hours and a half this afternoon by Dick Jurgens' orchestra. Aviation cadets and other personnel at Glenview air base will have a similar program, with the music provided by Russ Morgan, and at the Navy pier the same kind of a show will be put on by Carl Ravazza.

Church Services at Sheridan.

Christmas will be considered as a Sunday at Fort Sheridan, with all regular training suspended for the day and only work details on duty. Fifteen church services were scheduled between 7 p. m. yesterday and noon today. Additional services will be held in the hospitals and two big parties, the Christmas eve dance last night, and an entertainment sponsored by Evanston Daughters of the American Revolution tonight, were scheduled at the post.

Many of the soldiers at Fort Sheridan have accepted invitations for Christmas dinner with families in the northern suburbs. Both there and at Abbott hall on the Chicago campus of Northwestern university, where midshipmen are in training, more invitations were registered than there were men to accept. Approximately 1,000 midshipmen were graduated from the school yesterday.

In the army air forces school at the Stevens hotel 54 leaves began as classes went off duty yesterday.

Celebration at Great Lakes.

All men at Navy pier have liberty for Christmas except duty sections. A Catholic mass at 12:30 a. m. today was scheduled to open Christmas observance. At Great Lakes Naval Training station there has been a round of Christmas parties all week.

Strolling carolers sang Chirstmas songs last night at many places in the large reservation, and gifts were exchanged and opened in the barracks.

Musical Show at Armory.

A musical show was given for Christmas entertainment of shore patrolmen at the naval armory. At the advanced aviation training school, 87th street and Anthony avenue, 3,500 individual gifts, collected under the direction of Mrs. Frank Reilly, 8829 Harper avenue, were distributed to the students. Gifts donated in a similar manner were distributed at the radio and signal school of the University of Chicago.

Nine hundred sailors from the Radar school in the State-Lake building were guests of John Balaban, general manager of Balaban and Katz, at a Christmas party yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Sherman, and Balaban, Hal Halperin, Edward Silverman, and Joseph Coston have coöperated in providing entertainment at lounges and centers today.

Turn Back Clock to 1900; Police Stop Runaway Team

It might have been Dec. 24, 1900, but it actually happened yesterday. Motorcycle Policemen Kenneth Stanley and Anthony Stashinski saw a team of horses hitched to a liquor delivery wagon galloping furiously north on Wabash avenue, near Grand. In the best motion picture manner, the officers dashed out, seized the reins and brought the runaways to a stop. The horses and wagon had been "parked" by Dan Mackey of 1611 Grand avenue while he was making a delivery.

Fur Shop Reports Theft of Coats Valued at $4,000

Four fur coats valued at $4,000 were missing yesterday from the stockroom of the Stanley Korshak shop at 912 North Michigan avenue, police were notified.

Slain Defending Woman in Loop

Walter Sheffer, 67, business agent for local 134 of the Electrical Workers' union, being carried out of the Burnham building barber shop after he was shot by Vincenti Lucchese, a barber. Background: Mrs. Fay Smith. Sheffer was said to have objected to language Lucchese was using to her. Sheffer died soon after the shooting.

BARBER ANGERED AT MANICURIST KILLS CUSTOMER

Union Agent Shot After He Intervenes.

Walter Sheffer, 67 years old, 132 North Mason avenue, for 25 years business agent of the loop district of local 134 of the Electrical Workers' union, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday when he attempted to intervene in an argument between a barber and a manicurist in a loop barber shop.

Lying in a barber chair in an 11th floor shop in the Burnham building, 160 North La Salle street, Sheffer remonstrated when Vincent Lucchese, the barber, began to berate Mrs. Fay Smith of 4674 Manor avenue, the manicurist. Lucchese drew a pistol and shot Sheffer in the side. Police took him to St. Luke's hospital, where he died.

Calls It Self-Defense.

The barber, who is 43 years old and lives at 5551 South Whipple street, told police he fired in self-defense. He said Mrs. Smith was striking him with her shoe when Sheffer intervened.

Mrs. Smith told police she had known Sheffer for several years and had gone to dinner with him only a short time before the shooting.

Police said they were told the argument grew out of Mrs. Smith's attempt to quit her job after what she described as unwelcome attentions by Lucchese and other barbers in the shop.

Freed of Indictment.

Sheffer is survived by his widow and two daughters. Lucchese is married and the father of one child. Mrs. Smith is the mother of an 11 year old boy.

Sheffer only recently was cleared of a three year old federal indictment charging him and 16 others with violating the anti-trust laws by conspiring to restrain trade in the electrical phase of the building industry.

Convict Holds Up Neighbor, Girl War Worker; Seized

As Miss Audrey Doerner, 23 year old war worker, took her usual short cut thru an alley on her way to work yesterday, a man with a sawed off shotgun held her up and stole her purse, containing $5 and her factory identification badge. She screamed. Two policemen nearby captured the robber. He is William Anderson, 24 years old, who lives in the same apartment house as Miss Doerner, at 6551 Normal avenue. Anderson had served a term in Joliet for burglary.

$600 FIRE IN COAT PLANT.

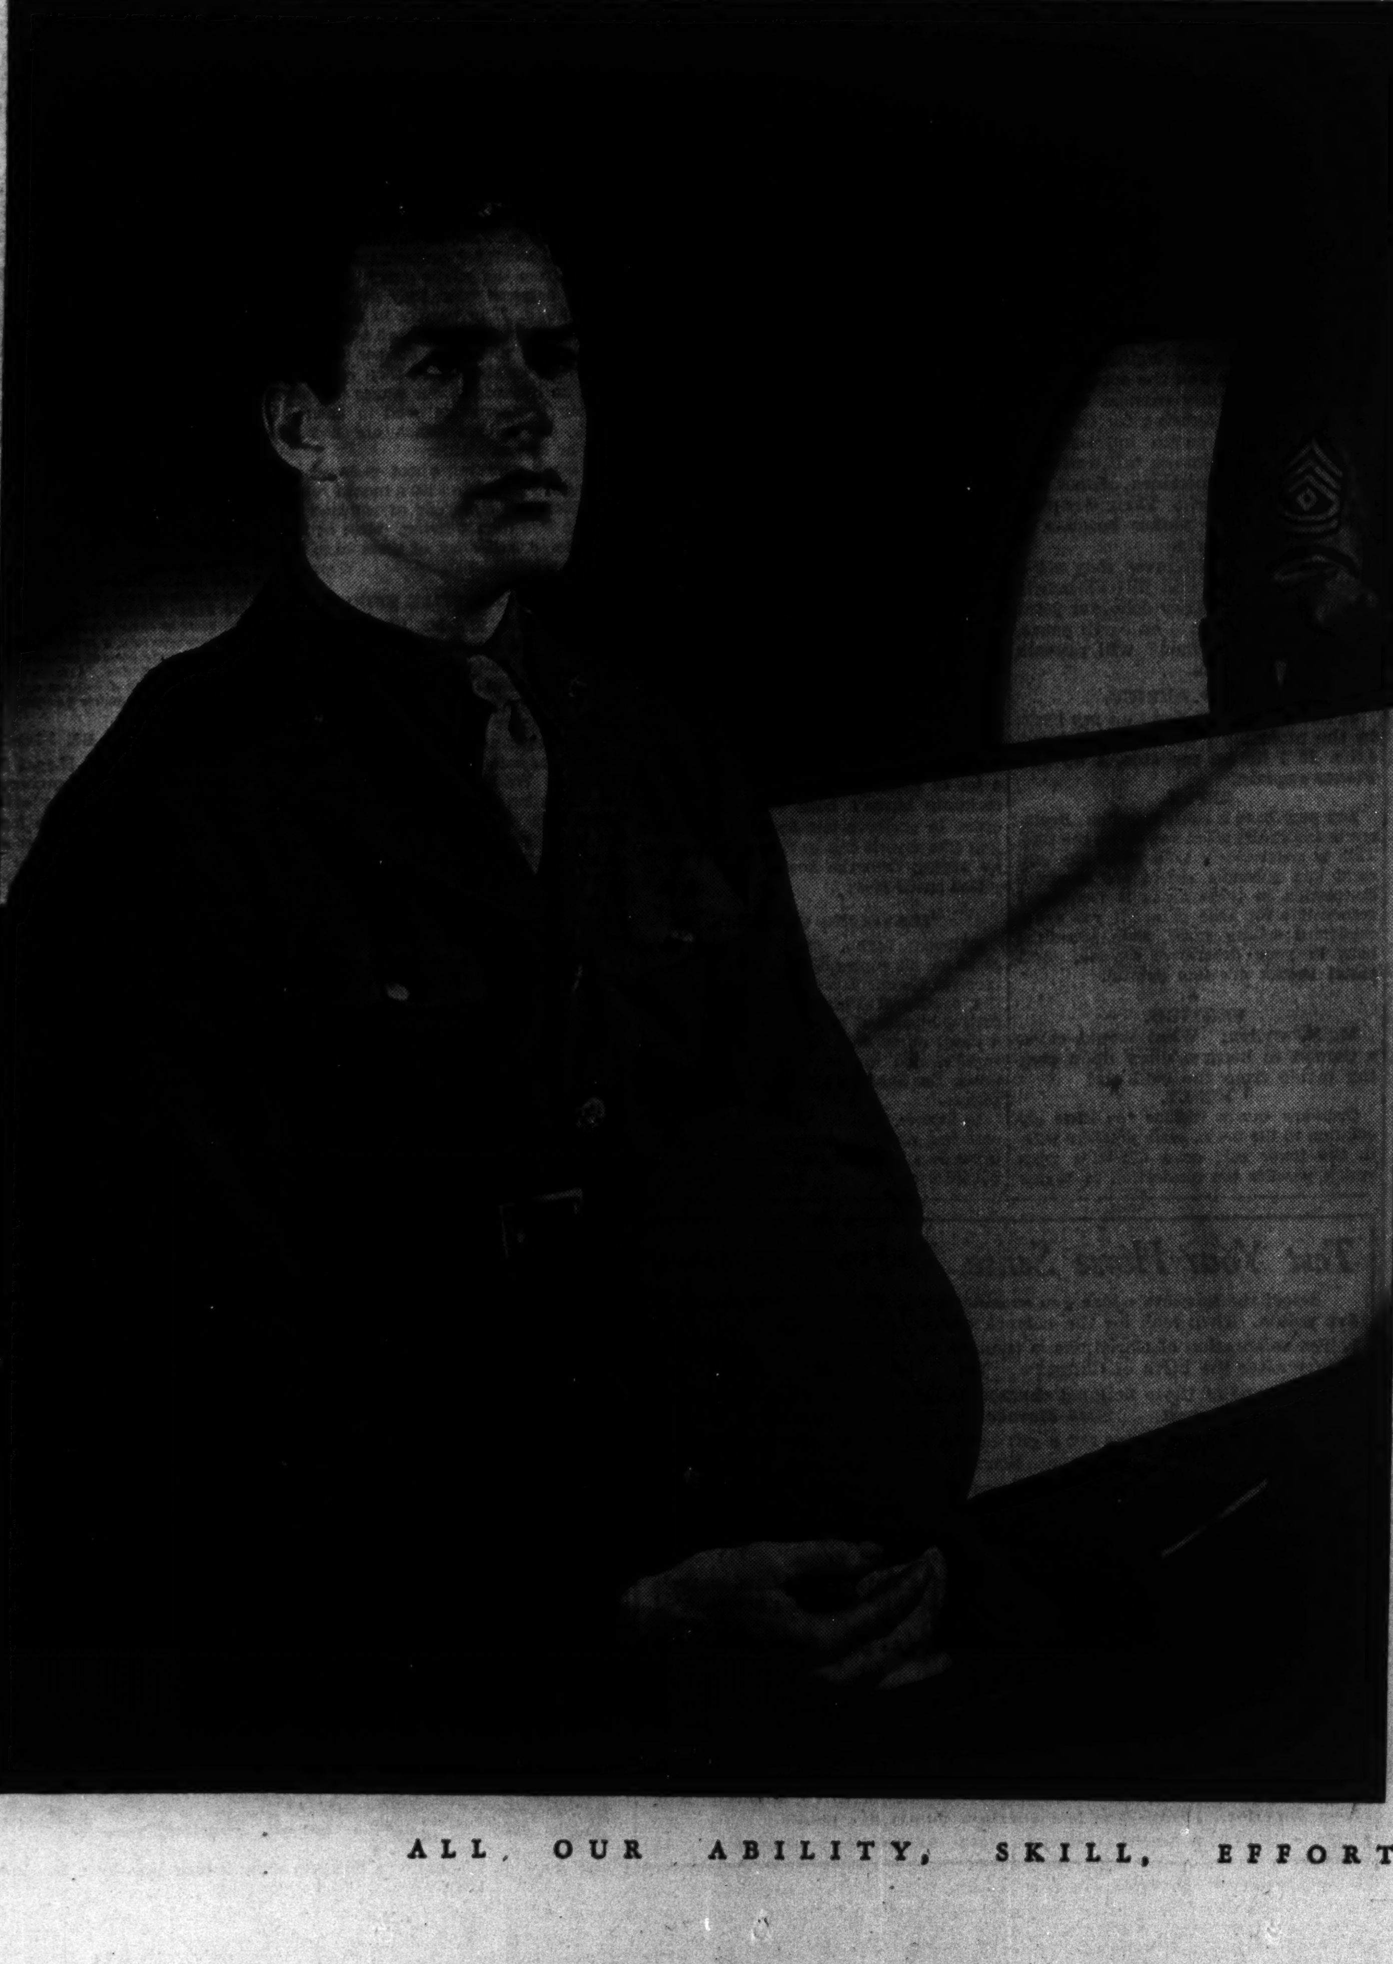
Damage of $600 was caused by fire in the work rooms of the Herman Korach Coat Manufacturing company on the top floor of a three story building at 807 Roosevelt road yesterday. A dozen employes of the company fled to the street.

JEWEL DEALER LOSES $20,000 GEMS IN HOLDUP

Jack Jacobson, 42 years old, president of the Jacobson Gem company of 55 East Washington street, was robbed of jewels valued at between $20,000 and $23,000 yesterday by a man who attacked him on Garland court between Madison and Washington streets.

Jacobson told police he was returning to his office after making a call. As he was walking in Garland court, the man leaped upon him from between parked automobiles, tore his glasses off and took two of the three wallets of jewels he was carrying. The holdup man overlooked $1,500 in cash Jacobson was carrying in a hip pocket.

Jacobson said he was unable to see without his glasses, and that when he recovered them, the man had fled. He said the gems were not insured.



Christmas 1942...

As bells ring out across the snow
And carols, old and sweet, recall
A holy night, long, long ago,
When starlight washed a stable wall,
The way Thy world must be is clear.
I shall go forward without fear.

Fire on the hearth, sap in the spring,
A thrush-song in the elder tree,
Blue eyes that also yearn to sing—
A thousand things beloved to me
Must wait until Thy words again
Are heard across the earth. Amen.

JOY TO THE WORLD.

Christmas reminds us that man, for all his failings is capable of good will, and that, if he will but open his heart, he can make a better world. The lesson is needed every year but never was it more pertinent than today when hundreds of millions in the world are in abject misery from which only good will can rescue them.

They are the hungry and the cold, the victims of ruthless conquest. We can, if we will, wash our hands of all responsibility for them by saying that their sufferings are no fault of ours. In a sense, of course, that is true. We didn't start the war, nor did we institute the blockade; but we are parties to both, and in good conscience we cannot deny that if our country insisted upon easing the worst rigors of the blockade, our allies would yield to our view.

Here and there something has been done. A little food and some medical supplies are reaching Greece. The Norwegians and perhaps the Finns as well are receiving shipments from Sweden. These are welcome evidences that the war has not turned to stone the consciences of all men. More than that, we now know that it is not true that food sent to the starving reaches the enemy. The shipments are allowed to continue only because it is certain that the enemy derives no benefit.

We are commanded to love our enemies, but in nearly 2,000 years have not learned to do so. Still, we have made some moral progress. We have learned compassion toward the innocent victims of wrong doing. We learned first to recognize them as brothers in the sight of God, and then to help them. That has been Christianity's great and matchless achievement—the victory of the spirit that this day we celebrate.

Today we are losing the gains of centuries of moral teaching and we cannot even pretend to ourselves that the sufferings of the innocent serve our immediate ends. The hunger of the children of Poland, France, Holland, Belgium, Greece, and the other invaded countries is not shortening the war by a day or an hour. Certainly the hope of an enduring peace after the war is not increased by the creation in Europe of a generation of weak bodies, twisted minds, and embittered memories.

Under pressure of public opinion our government might move for a relaxation of the blockade. If that should come to pass, a new hope would arise in our world, a hope of brotherhood and peace such as the shepherds knew at Bethlehem on that night of nights long ago.

A BORN LEADER.

An eloquent testimonial to the inherent qualities of leadership possessed by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker comes from one of the men who shared Rickenbacker's long ordeal in the Pacific. Lt. James G. Whitaker was the pilot who was assigned to fly Rickenbacker on his trip of inspection. When Rickenbacker first came aboard, Whitaker says, "I thought he was just another man on the bandwagon who had influence enough to get a free ride."

Apparently a sufficient number of military planes are in use ferrying junketeers with a pull to have justified that suspicion in the pilot's mind, but it is striking how quickly Whitaker changed his opinion after the plane was forced down at sea and the party had to take to life-rafts. "There we were—eight men on rafts," Whitaker said. "We all started even. There was no rank there, no authority except the authority of a better and finer intellect. Capt. Rickenbacker took the leadership and pulled us thru."

Leadership is the same everywhere and under all conditions. The man who by sheer innate force of will can assume it and exercise it over a small number of his fellows, lost on the wide ocean, lost to time, almost lost to hope itself, can dominate men and direct them anywhere, even tho they are numbered in the tens of thousands. He is the natural leader. All others recognize him. Rickenbacker inevitably became the commander of his party in time of crisis. The talents that brought him to the top there deserve recognition on a far greater scale.

It is surprising, therefore, that we do not hear of any great decoration and noticeable promotion coming to him. He has all the attributes necessary to occupy a commanding position in the field of American military aviation. There is his unrivaled combat record in 1918, his long association with civil aeronautics, his great technical knowledge, his natural command over men. What more could be asked?

JUSTICE BRANDEIS HONORED.

In the Supreme Court of the United States on Monday there was a memorial service for the late Justice Louis D. Brandeis. Speakers praised his character and judicial career. Chief Justice Stone characterized Justice Brandeis as "one of the most influential men of his time." Sen. Norris said that his "dissenting opinions have become the law of the land."

It would be fitting at any time for the Supreme court to honor the memory of Justice Brandeis, whose distinguished service on the court extended over a period equal to 1/7 of the life of the nation. But it was particularly pertinent that the service be at the present time, when a war is in progress and when an administration is in power at Washington which frequently has denounced expression which was critical, and which has attempted in several ways to throttle a free press. Justice Brandeis' position on freedom of speech and of the press in this country was unequivocal. Three statements quoted below from his dissenting opinions make it perfectly clear what his position would be if he were alive today:

1. In dissenting in Gilbert vs. Minnesota in 1920, he said:

"The right to speak freely concerning the functions of the federal government is a privilege or immunity of every citizen of the United States which, even before the adoption of the fourteenth amendment, a state was powerless to curtail."

2. Another passage in the same opinion was as follows:

"Like the course of the heavenly bodies, harmony in national life is a resultant of the struggle between contending forces. In frank expression of conflicting opinion lies the greatest promise of wisdom in governmental action; and in suppression lies ordinarily the greatest peril."

3. In dissenting in Schaefer vs. United States, also in 1920, he declared:

"The constitutional right of free speech has been declared to be the same in peace and in war. In peace, too, men may differ widely as to what loyalty to our country demands; and an intolerant majority, swayed by passion or by fear, may be prone in the future, as it has often been in the past, to stamp as disloyal, opinions with which it disagrees."

If as Sen. Norris said Monday, "his dissenting opinions are now the law of the land," it is clear that the attempts recently to interfere with the press are illegal. THE TRIBUNE is having the third of these quotations carved on the walls of Tribune Tower.

SONS OF FREEDOM.

Consider such men as Lt. Jack Conger, 21 years old, who has ten Jap planes to his credit. His story and that of his comrades on Guadalcanal, as he told it in recent interviews published in THE TRIBUNE, was as American as the Mississippi river. No place else in the world but on this continent and in this country are such young men produced and in such numbers.

They are the fruit of generations of freedom. They are strong and straight because this, being a land of opportunity, is a land of plenty. They are self-confident because this is a country in which men hold their heads up and know no social superiors. They have the courage that comes of self-confidence. They can take responsibility because every one of them from childhood has known that he would bear responsibility.

Heredity alone does not explain how these boys got that way. Their blood is the blood of Europe's common people, but their behavior is not that of Europe's common people. They have a different bearing, a different manner, a different way of thought. The difference, of course, is that they are free men and always were; that they were born in a free society, went to free churches and free schools, and have always known that they could set their own goals.

We would not say that our society has achieved perfection, but it surely has progressed further than any other that we know about and our young men are the proof of it. And yet, even as we have this evidence before our eyes, we find in our government a determination to destroy just those qualities in our society that have made us what we are.

Opportunity and ambition, we are told, must be restrained. Freedom must be restricted. The people are not to be trusted to order their own lives. Farmers who have never failed to provide this country with more than enough food must be told what to plant and when to reap. Working men must join this union and not that one. The government must determine the conditions of employment. Manufacturers must obtain permission to introduce new products. And so on. Rugged individualism has become a phrase of contempt in the mouths of the burocracy, as if the American industry that is giving us the tools of victory did not owe all it is to rugged individualism.

If we are winning this war it is because of the superior quality of our men and our weapons, a superiority that exists precisely because our people for generations have not been ordered around like serfs. And so the wiseacres in Washington are determined to destroy the kind of civilization that bred strength in us. That is their program not only for the immediate future but for the long pull ahead. The best that can be said of these efforts is that they are the product of doctrinaire madness.

ACQUITTAL.

An automobile dealer of Hammond, Ind., has been acquitted of three charges of violating the OPA's regulations regarding tires. The trial was held in the federal District court there. The dealer was accused of transferring more than 1,200 tires from his salesroom in Hammond to his garage in Calumet City; of listing a stock of 250 tires when, in fact, he owned more than 1,500; of placing new tires on used cars, running them for a few miles, and then selling them without ration board certificates.

When the arrest was made last summer, the government's agents described the offense as "the most flagrant" that had been uncovered. It took the jury about an hour to vote acquittal.

The importance of this case lies, of course, in the government's failure to convict. This administration, instead of asking the citizens to cooperate voluntarily in the various conservation programs, has undertaken to force compliance. Long prison terms and heavy fines were the stated penalties for infraction.

The action of the jury in Hammond suggests that the method isn't going to work. The jury apparently was impressed by the defense that the OPA's red tape was so difficult to unravel that any man could be excused for misunderstanding the instructions. If the government cannot make its charges stick against a defendant accused of evasion on a commercial scale, what chance has it to convict an ordinary citizen accused of breaking one or another of the numerous regulations imposed by the burocracy?

There have been numerous explanations of the Republican victory last November. The action of this jury is another demonstration that the New Deal was defeated because the people of the United States abhor its methods and its burocracy.

Editorial of the Day

SAME TO YOU MR. HENDERSON.

[Bucyrus (O.) Telegraph Forum.]

Angrily, Leon Henderson, ousted head of the OPA, said after his removal that now he did not have to be nice to people any more and that when they asked him, "Don't you remember me?", he could say, "No, and I don't give a damn." What Mr. Henderson doesn't seem to realize is that most of the American people, to use his own words, don't give a damn whether he remembers them or not. They've had enough of his surly and discourteous and insulting method of dealing with their problems and their interests. His removal is one of the best things that has happened in Washington in many a day. The American people are not cattle and are not to be dealt with as such. The further the Roosevelt burocracy goes in its dictation, war or no war, the quicker it is going to realize that we are not cattle. Reports are current that the President is going to replace Henderson with a Michigan New Dealer who was turned out of office by the people last November. No more could be expected. Washington is the home of a number of high burocrats who have been turned down by the people of their home states. That's one of the things that is wrong in Washington.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

O, Jesus, lovely Babe, we open wide
Our hearts to you and ask you to come in.
Our world is sore beset this Christmastide,
And no voice but your own can hush its din.
Speak once again your sweet words of good will—
Perhaps since we have suffered we may be Readier to listen to your "Peace. Be still,"
Grant us the gift of opened eyes, that we May see each other truly; let us hear
The angels with the promises of old;
Let your Star light our minds as we draw near,
With heads bowed, while earth's sweetest tale is told.
And, Lord, we bring you, as the carols start,
The spikenard of a humble, contrite heart.

Beverley Githens.

CHRISTMAS, 1942.

O, little town of Bethlehem,
Forgotten are your dreams.
The sounds of war are heard today;
In vain your starry gleams,
In vain the Prince of Peace was born
That wondrous day long gone,
Unless our feet retrace their steps
And seek again the dawn.

The hearts of men, deceived by gold,
Have turned to stubborn stone;
The nations know the laws of greed—
The Law of God unknown.
The star that shone so fair to hail
The only Hope of men
Is lost amid the clouds of wrath,
And night is here again.

O, little town, O, splendid star,
O, angel song of peace,
Desert us not, who blindly stray;
May all our warrings cease.
May we be wise men, in our turn,
And seek again the way
Of righteousness and reverence
This thoughtful Christmas day.

Thomas Curtis Clark.

SANTA'S ESCORT.

Don't worry, Judy, he'll be here,
Just as he's been before;
His bag will bulge again this year,
His loaded sleigh will soar.

For Santa's not the least afraid
Of bullies like old Hitler,
Who run from boys in second grade
And pick on boys much littler.

And Santa has a lot of boys
Around the world's great rim
Who've grown beyond the age for toys
But still will watch for him.

With Cobras and P-38s,
From Nome to Skagerrak,
They'll see him safely to the States
And see him safely back.

They'll join him in his jingling rush;
They'll guard his every whisker;
So run to bed—and try to brush
Your teeth a little brisker.

Tumbleweed.

WARTIME CHRISTMAS.

Let Christmas bells ring out again
Their message sweet and clear—
Of love and peace sing out again,
But who is left to hear?
(Ten thousand thousand fighting men
Their message cannot hear.)

Again in distant Bethlehem
A little child is born,
Amid the crowds of Bethlehem,
The cattle and the corn.
(O, Holy Spirit, comfort them
Who eat of alien corn!)

So let the bells ring out again
And let the anthems soar,
That we may hear good will to men
And holiness be born again
Upon the manger floor.

PLEA FOR CHRISTMAS.

Baby in a lowly manger
Long ago in Bethlehem,
Many look on Thee as stranger;
Jesus, be a friend to them.

Bless with merciful compassion
Little ones with spark divine,
Sheltered in less regal fashion
Than in Bethlehem was Thine.

Grant new sight to those who, blinded,
See thru eyes of hate and fear;
Let men be once more reminded
Of Thy love, with Christmas here.

Casual.

PRAYER FOR THE DAY.

Dear Lord, dear Father of us all,
This Christmas day I humbly call
On Thee. I pray for this chaotic world
Whose flags of hatred are unfurled;
For weary souls beleaguered, sad,
Tormented, cold, and hunger-mad.
Wilt Thou with mighty hand imbue
With vision, justice, and love the few
Who for the multitudes one day
A fate decide. Dear Lord, I pray
That when this holocaust shall cease
We may have everlasting peace.

WILL WAR BRING A SPIRITUAL AWAKENING?

WHAT an empty world this would be were we deprived of all things spiritual. We can no more thrust out of our lives the essence of religion than we can, by mere thought, stop the beating of the pulse.

PEACE ON EARTH. GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN.

Every human being is a combination of mind and heart. One element or the other predominates. What most of us hope to attain is a reasonable blending of attributes with well developed emotions which can be held in leash—as occasion demands—thru training.

Happiness requires satisfying experiences, an understanding attitude on the part of friends, and faith in the ultimate triumph of right. Thus is life sustained and enriched. We believe in the survival of everything that is good and in the everlasting character of sympathy, charity, and justice. But how fiercely burn the flames of wrath when we contemplate vicious and ruthless cruelty. Only barbarians and sadists find joy in the infliction of suffering.

We greet the Christmas season of 1942 with mingled feelings, thankful beyond expression for the resurgence of democracy in the land of the free. For us, forbearance with tyranny has ceased to be a virtue. With might and main will we strike those who would destroy our ideals of personal and national liberty.

But our thoughts turn instinctively to the children of yesterday—those grown up youngsters now battling on farflung fronts. Deeply do we sense their sacrifices, their heroism. But their cause is just. From their valiant achievements will come speedy surcease from the agonies of war. Meanwhile, oceans of affection may be lavished upon our little ones. May they be spared, in their maturity, the necessity of donning the habiliments of the warrior.

At the festal board the chair of the absent soldier will be the post of honor. Hopeful as we are that he will return in health and strength, we must be fortified lest he be called to join the ranks of the Immortals. How insignificant is the gift of wealth when compared with the life of a single private. The plaintive harmony of taps contrasts crassly with the martial strains which signalized his departure.

But we must carry on—each in his own humble way. We must make certain that our armies shall lack for nothing which will aid them to encompass the defeat of the enemy. Our troops will reflect our courage and our determination. They must hear our cheers, our words of commendation. They represent the best blood of America; they are our boys.

War is never glorious and in this conflict particularly the glittering ranks of the Roman legions are absent. Instead we find the soberly clad service man, grimly earnest and determined. He is fighting for God and country against pagan hatreds and enslavement. He knows full well that such poisonous doctrines cannot endure in a free world. Their downfall will come all the sooner because of his herculean efforts.

Despite it all—wherever they are—Yuletide thoughts will fill the hearts of our defenders. They echo our joint confidence that ". . . on earth peace, good will toward men" will prevail.

CEILING RELIEF.

J. M. writes: If I sleep on my back, in the morning I arise with a headache. If I lie on my side, I do not. Please explain.

REPLY.

You may have a sinus infection. Drainage is facilitated when you lie on the side. This is particularly true when the ethmoid and sphenoid spaces are involved. Congestion in these areas is frequently responsible for head pain. If you are a confirmed ceiling gazer, shun jaundiced hues in your decorative scheme. Soft pastel shades are less painful.

VERTIGO.

M. H. writes: What would cause a person to become dizzy upon coming inside from the cold air?

REPLY.

Ordinary causes include too little circulation to the brain, some pressure within the inner ear, or a digestive upset which permits the absorption of toxins

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

YANK'S FRIEND.

Rolling Prairie, Ind., Dec. 15.—It is just a year since you sent me the name of a soldier in your "Adopt a Yank for Christmas" campaign. I thought you might like to have a report on him and know how one Yank responded to your thoughtful plan. In his letter acknowledging the receipt of the box I sent him he said, "It was the best box in the regiment, and am I proud," which, of course, made me very proud, too.

I have been corresponding with him ever since. He is now overseas and I can truthfully say that instead of boosting his morale, he has stimulated mine. I would like to share with THE TRIBUNE and its readers a paragraph from his last letter, written from somewhere in the south Pacific. He says, "It is true enough that we are on no picnic here and that things are tough at times, but it makes us fellows feel good and big headed to think we are doing all this for our families, swell friends like you, a grand country like America, and, last but not least, for ourselves. We fellows have our gripes and our groans but in the long run we feel proud."

His name is Anthony W. Kasmauskas, from Cicero, Ill. He is 23 years old and signs himself "Tony." I want to thank THE TRIBUNE for the privilege of knowing Tony. Am I proud?

MRS. GAY MACLAREN BACKMAN.

CREEPING UP ON HER.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I am smiling over M. C.'s letter stating that after Jan. 1 we will have no extra length hose for women unfortunate enough to be tall. I, too, am 5 feet 9½ inches tall and require extra length hose and am now on my last pair of them.

Add to the fact that we tall women will have to try to wear short hose the news I was told the other day when trying to purchase a dress—namely, that the WPB has ordered an over-all average length skirt with practically no hem to let out—I believe the saleslady said the length could not exceed 29 inches—which brought the dern thing above my knees. Now, imagine how I am going to look with hose below my knees and skirt above!

However, every cloud has a silver lining—the saleslady did say that for $2 more the manufacturer of the dress would add two inches to the skirt length. Now will some one kindly tell me just what is being accomplished by such asinine ideas? The only thing I can see is that some manufacturer saves himself a lot of material—the prices of clothing certainly haven't been lowered—and in order to preserve her decency some fall guy like myself has to fatten his pockets by paying thru the nose.

God speed 1944! M. L.

TRAVELING TRIBUNES.

Kellogg, Idaho, Dec. 13.—Jim Kohl gives me his copies of THE TRIBUNE as he receives them. I note they are short in the southwest Pacific. Once a week I mail a bundle of papers to my daughter, a naval nurse now somewhere in foreign service, and include parts of THE TRIBUNE, the Spokane papers, and our local papers.

In France, season of 1917-'19, THE TRIBUNE was much in demand. When copies came they were cut into single sheets and passed around. ERLE P. DUDLEY.

UNDERPAID TEACHERS.

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 13.—A letter by Herbert B. Mulford expresses fear that there will be a shortage of teachers for the coming year. There will be no shortage of teachers provided the average teacher can be guaranteed a permanent position that will pay factory wages.

The writer has over 100 semester hours in chemistry, 40 semester hours in physics, an M. S. degree, and a year's work upon his doctorate. I have the highest honors in research [Sigma Xi] and a B plus average in graduate work. I have 15 years' successful teaching experience and can furnish the finest recommendations. My present position in high school pays $31.50 a week and I am supposed to attend summer school every three years.

In the last two years I have been offered college positions for the duration, also chemical positions paying $80 weekly, but only two permanent positions, at $1,800 yearly. Furthermore, I can give Mr. Mulford names of successful teachers [M. S. degrees] in any subject willing to do a good job and attend summer school yearly if paid $40 weekly. There is a shortage of teachers with M. S. degrees for $1,500 yearly and this accounts for the cry of "no teachers." B. L. STARK.

LOW PAID RAIL WORKERS.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—In the controversy over railroad men's pay let me add the voices of the real victims of low pay, the waiters and porters. We are paid from $76 to $100 a month as waiters and from $100 to $121 a month as porters. The companies we work for contend that the tips we get from the public make up the difference between what they pay us and a living wage. The waiters in dining cars and porters in other cars are now serving service men and they do not tip. Our unions are so small that they cannot demand an increase in our wages but when the big brotherhoods send in their demands our unions attach our demands more or less as a rider.

So when speaking about railroad men making from $200 to $350 a month remember there are hundreds of railroad men making less than a living. Most of them are colored and most of them have families. WAITER.

THE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Mr. W. A. Eldridge's article in this morning's paper on "Pampering Jap Internees" aroused not a little indignation in me. Regardless of how the Japs may be treating our boys, let's remember what Babson once said: "Your stocks and bonds, life and liberty are only as safe as the morals of the community." We should show courtesy and the Christian spirit to others not because they are gentlemen or Christians but because we are. What their government is doing is as far beyond their control as the majority of us who disapprove of in our government is beyond our individual means to alter. Maybe we can make good citizens and build up morale by giving the best treatment possible to these internees. HELEN M. FREEMAN.

TEN GRANDPARENTS.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—In looking over my family album I find that my 5 year old daughter has 10 grandfathers and grandmothers, all living and healthy. I wonder if this is any kind of a record. HAROLD J. PRAHL.

ADVOCATES LARGE FAMILIES.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Recently Mrs. Roosevelt voiced the opinion that the size of the American family should be four children. I do not fully agree with her.

I believe that the size of the family should be numbered as God wishes. Had that been the plan for the last 20 years, I can safely say that no man power problem would exist today.

I humbly believe that when leaders in government get back on the straight and narrow path they will show more concern for the security of parents who would like to raise a large family—the steady employment would do more to encourage child birth than anything I know. EDWARD MCDERMOTT.

SKATER'S PROTEST.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—For years the maintenance of the ice and general skating facilities by the Chicago park district has been neglected, particularly on the south side. Several years ago, before the amalgamation of the parks, the ice was better taken care of. This year in particular the warming house on the Midway was not opened until Sunday, Dec. 13, and Jackson park is still unopened, tho the ice is thick enough to hold a loaded freight train. Skating must be done when weather permits and not by calendar.

OLDTIMER.

A GRATEFUL READER.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—It would be extremely remiss on my part if I did not compliment you for the very outspoken and courageous campaign which you have been waging for the people in this fuel oil situation. Your editorial this morning, "Courage Is Contagious," is just another indication of your being in this fight to the finish.

We all owe you a debt of gratitude for the amount of publicity which you have given this outrageous monstrosity of burocracy. R. F. H.

LOSS ON STOCK.

Chicago, Dec. 22 [Legal Friend of the People].—In 1930 I purchased some common stock. Will you please advise how much I can deduct from my income tax, as I understand the shares are worthless. Must the entire deduction be made for the tax year 1942 or may I hold over part until a later year? W. R.

In general, such a loss should be deducted in the year in which the loss occurs. If it is clear the stock was worthless in a prior year, you should have made the deduction then and you cannot make it now. If the facts are such that the stock has continued to have some value, then by a technical rule or a nominal figure you could place yourself in the position to take the loss for the present year, depending on whether the transaction was entered upon for profit.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 29.

1. The celebration of Christmas is thought to have started in which century after the birth of Christ? 1st 3d 9th 16th.
2. Which one of these fictional characters is associated with Christmas? Dr. Jekyll Silas Marner Topsy Scrooge.
3. Which one of these was not a gift of the three wise men to the infant Jesus? Gold Pearls Myrrh Frankincense.
4. The use of the fir tree in Christmas celebrations is thought to have originated with the Italians Swiss English Scandinavians.
5. The birth of Jesus is associated with which of these concepts? Imperialism War Science Peace.
6. This is a True-False problem. If you think a statement is true, encircle the "T," but if you deem it false, encircle the "F." You are entitled to one point for each correct decision.

T F [a] Jesus used physical violence to punish those who had commercialized religion.
T F [b] Jesus reproved Peter for resorting to the sword.
T F [c] Jesus agreed with the Jews in their racial prejudice against neighboring peoples.
T F [d] Jesus said that money was evil.
T F [e] Jesus urged international brotherhood of mankind.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

WHOLESALE TOP PRICE ON BUTTER AND CHEESE SET

Processed Milk Affected by OPA Order.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Flat dollars and cents price ceilings at wholesale for butter, cheddar [American] cheese, evaporated milk, and bulk powdered skim milk were established today by the office of price administration.

Setting of the new maximums, which are effective Dec. 30, marks the first time that dairy products have been placed under uniform ceilings. Ceilings announced today will replace maximums based on individual processors' and wholesalers' peak prices from Sept. 28 thru Oct. 2. The new levels approximate the average prices during the Sept. 28-Oct. 2 period, officials said.

Retail Prices Unaffected.

Today's order does not affect retail prices, which are currently restricted to the top price charged by individual retailers from Sept. 28 thru Oct. 2. OPA officials said, however, that retail maximums later will be revised by setting specific markups over wholesale prices for different classes of retailers handling butter, cheddar cheese, evaporated milk, and bulk powdered skim milk.

Officials said the new wholesale ceilings are designed to encourage producers to meet record output goals set by the department of agriculture for 1943 and to bring about more equitable supply distribution.

Effects of the new ceilings are as follows:

Butter: The base wholesale price for 92 score butter at Chicago is 46 cents a pound with variations for other grades. For east coast cities, the base price is 46¾ cents, and for west coast cities, 48 cents, to allow for transportation costs.

Prices Are Localized.

Butter dealers customarily quote their prices in terms of a differential above or below the daily market quotations for a given city. Those who sold above the base market in September and October, 1942, may add to the OPA ceiling the largest price differential taken during those two months. Those who sold below the base are limited to the smallest price differential in the two months. bulk cheddar cheese, produced large-bulk Cheddar cheese, produced largely in Wisconsin, is 23¼ cents a pound at wholesale delivered at all places in Wisconsin. For deliveries outside Wisconsin, the maximum price is increased by 115 per cent of the carlot freight rate from Plymouth, Wis., to allow for freight, tare [deduction in the weight of goods made in allowing for the weight of the container], and icing.

For packaged cheddar cheese, the base ceiling in Wisconsin is 29¾ cents a pound for ½ and ¼ pound sizes, with reductions for larger packages. For deliveries outside Wisconsin, 115 per cent of the carlot freight rate from Plymouth, Wis., may be added to the base price.

Governs Milk Producers.

Ceiling prices set by the new order reflect to milk producers a price of approximately $2.46 a hundredweight for raw milk used in the manufacture of dairy products, OPA officials said. This compares with a price level of $2.28 on Oct. 15, they added.

In setting the wholesale maximums, the OPA order established base prices at certain points and permits adjustments for freight charges to other points. Details of the order follow:

Evaporated milk: The maximum price chargeable by manufacturers for the central zone, including Illinois and other middle western states, is $4.10 a case, delivered to the buyer's customary receiving point. The ceiling is 10 cents a case higher in the other two zones, northeastern and western. A case is a carton of six 8 pound cans, or the customary equivalent for the trade in other size cans.

Bulk powdered skim milk: On sales to the government, which is buying powdered milk in large quantities, the manufacturer's ceiling price is 12½ cents a pound for roller process milk and 14½ cents for spray process milk, F. O. B. manufacturer's plant. These maximums are increased by ¼ cent a pound in nine eastern states. For sales by manufacturers and wholesalers to buyers other than the government, the ceiling prices are increased one cent a pound and are fixed on a delivered basis.

TWO BOYS KILLED ON RAILWAYS IN SOUTH SUBURBS

Two boys were killed by trains in two accidents in south side suburbs yesterday. William Lange Jr., 6 years old, of 3262 Ridge road, Lansing, was killed at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing at Ridge road and Henry street when he darted in front of a train. He was one of 10 children of William Lange, a brickmaker. Dale I. Miller Jr., 8, of 156 Lexington avenue, Harvey, died beneath the wheels of a train while playing with a sled on an Illinois Central railroad embankment at 157th street and Park avenue.

Yule Gifts to 125 Drivers: Their Impounded Licenses

Christmas gifts in the form of return of their impounded driver's licenses were presented by Judge John Gutknecht in Traffic court yesterday to 125 youthful traffic offenders from whom the permits were taken in the last few weeks. The judge acted after the defendants had agreed to visit the fracture ward in County hospital and contribute to the court's fund for the aid of patients there injured in automobile accidents.

Mrs. Emma Ellwood, Long a Sycamore Resident, Dies

Mrs. Eugenia Springfield with Charlene, 21 months old, and Willard after tragic fire.

Mrs. Jean Springfield, 26 years old, saved two of her children from fire which raced thru the family apartment at 3249 Broadway yesterday, but was unable to reach her 3 months' old son, David Leroy. Lt. Martin Carney, working with firemen under the command of Chief John Scanlon of the 13th battalion, recovered the baby's body. Willard, 5, and Charlene, 21 months, were uninjured. Raymond Springfield, 31, the father, was at work.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Murray MacLaren.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 24 (AP).—Dr. Murray MacLaren, 81 years old, former minister of pensions and national health for Canada and former lieutenant governor of New Brunswick, died at his home here tonight. He had been ill only a few days. During the World war he served overseas. He became president of the Canadian Medical association just prior to his departure for war duty and while overseas won the star, general service, and victory medals in addition to the long service medal and the jubilee and coronation medals.

William R. T. Ewen.

William R. T. Ewen, 62 years old, a Chicago attorney for more than 37 years, died yesterday in his home at 1316 Judson avenue, Evanston. He was a member of the American, Illinois, and Chicago Bar associations, and in 1939 was a defeated Republican candidate for judge of the Circuit court of Cook county. He is survived by his widow, Verna. Services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the First Congregational church in Evanston.

Cloyd C. McGuire.

Cloyd C. McGuire, chief of police of Wilmette until his retirement last June, died yesterday in his home at 2920 North Farwell avenue, Milwaukee, Wis. Chief McGuire headed the Wilmette force for seven and a half years and was credited with modernizing the department. Previously he had served on the Milwaukee police force for 25 years and attained the rank of captain. He is survived by his widow, Anna, two daughters, and a son.

Alex Malecki.

Services for Alex Malecki, member of a pioneer Calumet City family, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. in St. Andrew's Catholic church in that suburb. Mr. Malecki, who died Wednesday, was 50 years old. During the World war he served for more than two years with the American Archangel expeditionary force.

Mrs. Sarah Coyle.

Services for Mrs. Sarah Coyle will be held at 10 a. m. Monday from the home at 5526 La Salle street to St. Anne's church. Mrs. Coyle died Wednesday at the age of 72. She was the widow of Patrick Coyle, a Chicago park policeman for more than 20 years. Four daughters, four sons, and five grandchildren survive.

James Britton Heth.

James Britton Heth, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade for 50 years, died yesterday in his home at 908 Elmwood avenue, Evanston. He was 75 years old. His widow, Anna, survives. Services will be held in Louisville, Ky.

Maj. Gen. Alexander E. Anderson.

Gainesville, Tex., Dec. 24 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Alexander E. Anderson, commander of Camp Howze's 86th infantry division, died today of a heart attack. He became commander of the unit when it was activated Dec. 15.

FOUND STRICKEN BY AUTO FUMES, 2 FIGHT FOR LIFE

A man and a woman found unconscious of carbon monoxide poisoning in a garage at 2240 South Albany avenue were given an even chance of surviving yesterday after emergency hospital treatment.

The two, Stephen Evanoff Jr., 27 years old, of 2519 South Spaulding avenue, a civilian inspector for the navy, and Miss Hilda Gilbert, 24, of 7422 Greenview avenue, a file clerk, were able to give no explanation of the affair. The youth's parents said they had not seen him since he left for a party Wednesday night.

Both were found lying on the floor of the garage, their heads on a pillow, by a neighbor who shares the garage with Evanoff. Police said the motor of Evanoff's car had been left running, but had stopped from lack of gasoline before the pair was suffocated.

WLB INCREASES PAY FOR 47,500 IN WAR PLANTS

Opens Way for Others in 'Little Steel' Formula.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Wage increases for some 40,000 hourly paid employés in United States war plants and higher salaries for some 7,500 salaried workers were the Christmas presents given organized labor by the national war labor board today. The wage increases range from 1 to 10 cents an hour.

The board stuck closely to its policy of granting increases calculated along the lines of the "Little Steel" formula, which provided for a 15 per cent increase in wages over Jan. 1, 1941, levels to meet the rise in the cost of living.

The board in today's action also opened the way for some 11,000 additional workers to obtain government approval of wage increases. Wages cannot be raised above Sept. 15 levels without WLB authorization.

Bonuses Replace Vacations.

The board ordered for:

1. Ten thousand Hudson Motor Car company employés, Detroit, Mich.: Bonuses in lieu of vacations. The bonuses to be boosted from $30 to $45 for employés with one to five years' seniority, and to $90 for those with five years or more.

2. Twenty-one thousand employés of the Packard Motor Car company, Detroit, Mich.: A flat increase of 4 cents an hour for all hourly rated employés. An additional 6 cents an hour to tool and die workers, 6 cents to pressure welders in the marine division, 6 cents to heaters in the forge division, and 2 cents to heat treat men; vacation bonuses the same as were granted the Hudson workers.

3. One hundred fifty production workers and 13 office workers of the Pioneer Watch Case company, Mount Vernon, N. Y.: Increases to be distributed over the next six months, not to exceed 10 per cent. No labor unions were involved.

15 Per Cent at One Plant.

4. Seventy-five hundred workers of Briggs Manufacturing company, Detroit, Mich.: Salaried employés receiving less than $5,000 a year, a 15 per cent increase over Jan. 1, 1941, levels.

5. Seven hundred fifty employés of Mallory Hat company, Danbury, Conn.: A 7 per cent increase retroactive to May 15, 1942.

6. Twenty-eight hundred eighty employés of Lehigh Valley Railroad company, Bethlehem, Pa.: Increases of from 1 to 7 cents an hour.

7. Eighteen employés of Lewiston, Greene and Monmouth Telephone company, Winthrop, Me.: A 10.8 per cent increase over January, 1941, rates. No labor unions involved.

8. Twenty-five hundred workers of Aerovox corporation, New Bedford, Mass.: 6 cents an hour increase for all employés except foremen, engineers, salesmen, and executives.

"Zone Standard" Fixed.

9. Fifteen hundred employés of Marietta Manufacturing company, Point Pleasant, W. Va.: Established "zone standard rates" retroactive to June 22, 1942. Bonus of 5 cents an hour for night shift workers ordered.

10. Nine hundred employés of Tobe-Deutschmann corporation, Canton, Mass.: General increase of 4 cents an hour.

11. New York Telephone company, New York: Some 11,000 employés engaged in wage negotiations. WLB ordered company and union to include those employés earning less than $40 per week in negotiations.

HIT-RUN VICTIM FOUND DEAD ON SOUTHWEST SIDE

Police yesterday sought a hit and run driver whose car fatally injured Peter Scemrzuck, 58 years old, 1813 Wilmot avenue, unemployed. Scemrzuck was found early yesterday lying in the street at Logan boulevard and James street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 636 persons were killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 485 were killed in Chicago where 19,204 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

Sleeping Powder Overdose Is Fatal to Retired Tailor

Casper Sedlacek, 59 years old, a retired tailor, was found unconscious on the floor of his living room at 2231 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn, yesterday, and died a short time later from what police said was an overdose of sleeping powder.

TRAIN BECOMES SPEEDING TORCH AFTER CAR CRASH

Ticket Agent's Action Saves Driver.

A south bound North Shore limited train crashed into an automobile that had been driven onto the right of way and stalled opposite the Willow road crossing in Hubbard Woods last night.

The automobile's gas tank exploded as the train, speeding at 60 miles an hour, plowed into it. Flames from the blazing gasoline enveloped the front of the train, which pushed the burning wreck for nearly a quarter of a mile. The automobile was pushed from the tracks, however, before the train caught fire.

The impact damaged the front car of the train and jolted its capacity load of passengers, who were later transferred to the other three cars.

Agent Saves Driver.

Quick thinking on the part of the station agent, Mrs. Elsie Morrison, was credited with saving the life of the automobile's driver, John Ericcson of 744 Linden avenue, Hubbard Woods.

Mrs. Morrison was looking out the station window, watching for the limited train she knew was due, when she saw the automobile proceed up the tracks and stop.

She rushed outside and warned Ericcson, who was trying to start the motor, to get out of the car. Her husband, William, seized a red lantern and ran up the tracks to try to flag down the oncoming train.

Thought Tracks Were Street.

The electric train, however, was too close for the motorman to stop, and it crashed into the automobile a few seconds after Ericcson had alighted from the car.

Ericcson said that he had turned up the tracks, thinking they were a street. He said he had been driving east on Willow road, which crosses the tracks diagonally.

The train was unable to proceed because of the damaged car, and all traffic on the line was held up for approximately two hours.

TWO SONS SHARE MIDWEST FARMS IN SCULLY ESTATE

Lincoln, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—The vast agricultural empire of the late Frederick Scully, valued at $3,500,000, will be shared by his two sons, it was learned here today.

Thomas Scully, a brother of Frederick, told provisions of his brother's will, which is to be filed for probate in Washington, where Frederick lived.

Under its terms one of Frederick's sons, William, 20, a student at Northwestern university, is to receive 62,000 acres of land in Kansas, with 66,000 acres of Nebraska land going to the other son, Robin, 18, a student at Harvard. The two will share equally in 30,000 acres of Illinois land, and each will receive $5,000 on his 21st birthday. Other cash settlements will be made at various ages until the boys reach 35, when the entire estate will be divided between them.

The land is part of a quarter of a million acre estate acquired in the 1850s by the boy's paternal grandfather, William Scully of England, who left it to his two sons. Thomas Scully also is the father of two sons. Frederick Scully's wife, Betty, was fatally injured in England a month prior to her husband's death last October at the Palmer House in Chicago.

TWO NEGROES ARE SHOT.

Otis Turner, 20 years old, 3729 Indiana avenue, and Leon Brown, 20, of 3733 Indiana avenue, were taken to the Bridewell hospital last night suffering from gunshot wounds. They told Stanton avenue police their assailant was Albert Winsten, 30, with whom they had quarreled over a liquor bill. All three are colored.

PERCY DARLING, COLORFUL CITY OFFICIAL, KILLED

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—The brief but colorful political career of Percy [Buster] Darling, Springfield city commissioner, was ended today by his death in an automobile accident.

His car overturned after skidding on United States route 66 at Sherman, north of here. Darling was dead when state police reached the scene. His companion, Samuel Wendling, a city employé, was slightly injured.

Darling, who was 62 years old, had held a variety of jobs before he was elected to the city council in 1939. He had been a dog catcher, night club bouncer, poolroom attendant, coal miner, and traffic policeman.

A campaign unique in Springfield political history preceded Darling's election as commissioner. In a door to door canvass, he promised housewives that, if elected, he would "clean up the streets and alleys if I have to do it myself." And he made good on his pledge after election by occasionally working with a street sweeping crew in the downtown district.

He attributed his election victory to friendships made among children.

PARENTS AWAY, BABY SUFFOCATES.

While his parents were out shopping for Christmas last night Richard Schaller, 4 months old, 2427 Madison street, died in his crib, supposedly from suffocation after pulling a rubber sheet over his head.

PRESIDENT HEEDS CONGRESS' ORDER TO CUT PAY ROLL

Tells Burocrats to Trim Forces, Work Longer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Bowing to instructions from an aroused congress, President Roosevelt today called upon government executive agencies to begin operating on a 48 hour week. Most agencies have been on a 44 hour week, altho the war and navy departments for some time have been on the longer work week.

The President also requested federal agencies to reduce their personnel to the minimum and to eliminate all unessential activities. He ordered the cutting of red tape now entangling governmental operations and the use of man power to its full capacity.

Orders Greater Efficiency.

"For many departments and agencies," Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement to department heads, "the adoption of a 48 hour week will represent a four hour increase in the working schedule.

"Obviously this will permit reduction of personnel in some agencies and eliminate the necessity of filling vacant positions in others. I am expecting you to take immediate steps to bring about a reduction in your personnel requirements.

"I am expecting you, with the help of your employés from the top to the bottom of your agencies, to begin immediately a continuing review of your activities, to eliminate every nonvital service, to seize every opportunity for improving the speed and efficiency of your operations, and to conserve man power, materials and money."

Signs Pay Raise Proviso.

The President's remarks were contained in a special statement issued in connection with his signing of the joint resolution to boost the pay of about 1,277,000 white collar government workers. The bill, pushed thru in the dying hours of the last session of the 77th congress, provides for time and a half pay for overtime above 40 hours weekly and a flat 10 per cent raise for employés whose work does not fit into overtime schedules.

Congressional demands for more efficiency in administration operations and threats to cut appropriations in the new congress followed charges that the government was the worst offender in wasting man power, that the discharge of a third of its employés would make for efficiency, and that there was evidence of draft dodging within the government under the pretense of essential occupations.

JEFFERS DENIES PLANS TO TAKE OVER SPARE TIRES

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 24 (AP).—Rubber Administrator William Jeffers said in a statement today "There is no likelihood in my opinion that the fifth tire of automobilists will be taken by the government." He issued the statement to clarify remarks attributed to him yesterday that owners may have to give up their spare tires. No such plan is contemplated, he explained.

He had been questioned at a conference yesterday as to what would happen in the event the synthetic program did not work out as anticipated.

Jeffers replied that it was absolutely necessary that maximum farm production be achieved and that if there was an indication of a tire shortage, "then there was always the reservoir of the fifth tires on autos and those of cars in storage."

He added "Our every effort is to keep America on wheels, and the spare tires are much better in the possession of the autoist than stored in some warehouse."

TWO WITNESSES EVADE INQUEST IN VINCI DEATH

An inquest into the slaying of Charles Vinci, 34 years old, 11th ward political figure, was continued yesterday until Jan. 5 when two witnesses did not appear. Vinci was found shot to death in a tavern at 2501 South Halsted street last Dec. 3.

Deputy Coroner Eugene Ingle issued subpenas for the witnesses and ordered police to have them at the next hearing. The two are John Spoto, 2810 Lowe avenue, the tavern bartender, and Mike Rancatore of 734 West 25th place, said by the police to be part owner of the tavern.

Vinci, who lived at 718 West 25th place, had attended a dance given by the 11th Ward Democratic organization a few hours before the shooting. Police have found no eyewitnesses of the slaying. Vinci was employed as a deputy sheriff and a city council sergeant at arms. Two brothers, James and Michael, were slain some years ago in gangland wars. Another brother, Salvatore, was sent to prison for murder, and later paroled.

SLAYER SEIZED BY CONGRESSMAN ENTERS ASYLUM

Riverhead, N. Y., Dec. 24 (AP).—Rudolph Nies, 36 years old, Islip Terrace, N. Y., who was arrested in Washington, D. C., for assaulting Rep. William T. Schulte [D., Ind.] in the congressional barbershop on Dec. 8 and then told police he had killed his wife, was committed to Mattewan State Hospital for Criminal Insane today.

Mrs. Nies' body, containing 38 stab wounds, was found in their home the day her husband was arrested. Police were called to the home after neighbors had noticed that the milk had not been taken in for several days.

Schulte knocked down Nies in the barbershop when he was assaulted and helped hold him until police arrived.

Gassed by Bandits

Holdup men using tear gas and wearing gas masks terrorized two west side currency exchanges yesterday, taking $5,000 from one. A third exchange was robbed of $2,000 by other bandits.

The tear gas bandits appeared first at the T. & N. Currency Exchange, 819 West 35th street, where they pumped gas into the cashier's cage and ordered the cashier, Miss Mary Kerwin, 23 years old, 5517 South Union avenue, to unlock the door. Miss Kerwin swathed her head and those of her two assistants in wet towels and defied the robbers. The bandits fled.

The bandits then entered the Local Currency Exchange at 2171 Clybourn avenue, where they again flooded the money cage with tear gas and forced the cashier, Miss Helen Rolfe, 23, to lie on the floor alongside two customers. They seized $5,000 and disappeared.

In the third robbery, five men, all armed and wearing colored masks, held up a currency exchange at 3711 West 63d street and escaped with $2,000 after exchanging shots with police in a squad car that appeared just as the bandits were fleeing.

Sonja Henie's Brother Asks Citizenship; Wants to Fight

Leif Henie, 35 years old, brother of the skating star, Sonja Henie, filed an application for citizenship yesterday with the clerk of federal District court. Henie came to America in 1939 from Oslo, Norway, where he had headed a fur business owned by the Henie family. He announced he has applied for enlistment in the army specialist corps and is awaiting a call to report for training. Ninety days after he is accepted he will become eligible for citizenship under army regulations. Henie has been living at the Ambassador East hotel.

REVEAL TUGWELL OUSTER DEMAND IN PUERTO RICO

Business Men Call Him Unstable, Irresponsible.

[This is the sixth article of a series describing government in Puerto Rico under Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell, pioneer New Deal brain truster.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Dec. 24.—Those Puerto Rican leaders who take the long view of the island's ills, in the manner of Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell, assert there is only one ultimate solution—emigration.

Unlike the governor, however, these leaders are able to lay aside their field glasses and examine Puerto Rico's more pressing needs with the naked eye. And heading the list is the immediate recall of Dr. Tugwell.

The first tangible effort toward Tugwell's removal was made last June after a controled legislature had passed the governor's bills creating a development bank, a development company, and a planning board which threaten extinction of private enterprise. All three measures were declared unconstitutional by then Atty. Gen. George A. Malcolm.

Sent to President.

After a unanimous vote by the 500 members of the Puerto Rico chamber of commerce, a formal petition for recall of the governor was sent to President Roosevelt by Filipo L. de Hostos, president of the Camara de Commercio.

Apparently all news of the petition was suppressed in Washington. So far as can be learned it has not been published in the United States.

The petition urgently requests Tugwell's recall on 18 specific counts, beginning with the charge that the governor is under the domination of one political clique. [This is the Popular Democratic party, headed by Luis Munoz Marin, who railroads Tugwell's legislation.] The petition continues:

"He has refused to hear business men, industrialists, and farmers on matters of vital and legitimate interest to them and the island, maintaining the general attitude that he already knows everything; that citizens are not entitled to be heard in their own interests."

Affront to People.

Former Gov. James R. Beverley, now an attorney in San Juan, asserted that this has been Tugwell's greatest affront to a people who have learned to love liberty under 43 years of American rule. The petition goes on:

"He [Tugwell] has repeatedly ignored the advice of the attorney general of Puerto Rico, who is by congressional statute the legal adviser of the governor of Puerto Rico and is a Presidential appointee. He has approved, against the advice of the attorney general, unconstitutional and dangerous bills, knowing them to be unconstitutional.

"He has consistently ignored the auditor of Puerto Rico [a Presidential appointee] in financial and governmental matters."

The recall petition recites further that in the midst of war with individual and national income shrinking, Tugwell has vastly increased the cost of government [by more than 4½ millions], burdening the island with vast and unnecessary appropriations and taxes having nothing to do with the war. In addition Tugwell has reorganized the government as a maze of bureaus and authorities for the sole purpose of evading the civil service laws to serve purely political ends, it is charged.

"Threatened Martial Law."

"He has shown himself capricious, unstable, and irresponsible. In a fit of personal pique he has threatened the people with martial law at a time when no reason for such existed," the petition says.

This threat was real enough that the military authorities at San Juan prepared a complete blueprint for army rule of the island and were ready to take over on short notice if Tugwell should order them to do so. It developed, however, that the people would have welcomed martial law as a surcease from Tugwell's rule and the order never was issued. The threat, it is understood, was based upon noisy opposition to the governors in the legislature.

The petition refers also to the new authorities and agencies which can spend without interference from the auditor or treasurer—a provision written into the act creating them which was pronounced unconstitutional by Atty. Gen. Malcom who was removed summarily by President Roosevelt Nov. 5 after he had publicly denounced Tugwell's policies as unconstitutional.

"He [Tugwell] has shown himself innately incapable of the difficult and delicate problems of territorial administration in a time of crisis and danger to the nation," the petition states. "His actions have had a deleterious effect upon the normal relations between the United States and this territory, the effect of which will inevitably be echoed in the relations with the countries of South and Central America.

Ready with Proofs.

"These things we offer to prove to any impartial investigator. Were we independent we could at least rebel in arms against this maladministration. Being a possession of the United States and loyal to our nation we have only the recourse of petition."

"Puerto Rico resents the sending of governors who are failures, theorists, and second rate political officeseekers," the recall petition concludes. "We have a moral right, tho not a legal one, to demand that the national administration send high minded, intelligent, and impartial administrators.

"If Mr. Tugwell continues as governor he will be supported only by the clique which is using him for their own purposes. The majority will receive him with sullen and helpless resentment."

No action ever was taken on the petition. The chamber of commerce members, however, intend that their evidence shall be put into the hands of senatorial investigators expected here in mid-January to inquire into the island's food shortage and its social and economic ills.

Malcolm a Former Justice.

After Atty. Gen. Malcolm had received his dismissal—on a printed form, such as is handed to ordinary civil service employés—he quoted one of Puerto Rico's highest officials as saying to him: "What do you care, Judge Malcolm? It's not your money we are spending." Malcolm formerly was chief justice of the Philippines Supreme court and has held other high positions.

Puerto Rico's auditor, referred to in the petition, is Patrick J. Fitzsimmons. He has been in government service since being discharged from the army at the close of the Spanish-American war. He has been commended before the league of nations for distinguished service as financial adviser to Persia, Liberia, China, the Virgin Islands, and other countries.

Requisitions for money to pay expenses of Munoz Marin and others, when they went to Washington early this month and blew Tugwell's horn before the investigating committees, were signed by the governor and were not even submitted to Fitzsimmons. The delegation, supposedly on insular legislative business, should have been sent by legislative resolution, government officials assert.

Aid Praises Tugwell.

Other legislators, who testified against Tugwell and his policies, paid their own expenses. As this is written, Fitzsimmons has withheld his signature from a bill for cable tolls incurred by John Lear, Tugwell's coordinator of information, who is known to San Juan newspaper men as Dr. Goebbels.

The bill, of more than $400, is for a lengthy news type release extolling Tugwell's administration. It was sent by Lear to 10 continental newspapers. It states in part that Tugwell always was called upon to crack President Roosevelt's toughest economic problems, is doing famously in Puerto Rico, and that the great masses of people are for him 100 per cent. The dispatch, so far as can be learned, was not used by any of the newspapers.

Brazil Offers Haven.

Fitzsimmons held that the expenditure did not constitute a legitimate government expense. As to emigration, Puerto Rico expects to cope with that long range project after its pressing problems are solved. But here are facts upon which is based the conclusion emigration must come. With the island's 1,900,000 population rising 40,000 a year, despite legalized birth control, the time must come when the sugar, rum, and molasses industries will be unable to feed all, even with shipping normal.

It is agreed that after expenditure of 15 million dollars promised by congress and the 10 million voted by the legislature, the situation will be just as it is now, except the population will have risen.

And there is a place for the surplus to go. Brazil, with its rubber plantations on the Amazon, has opened its doors. It remains only to avoid the mistakes of a previous and hastily organized venture. The colony's site must compare favorably with Puerto Rico and entire families must be taken to avert demoralizing homesickness.

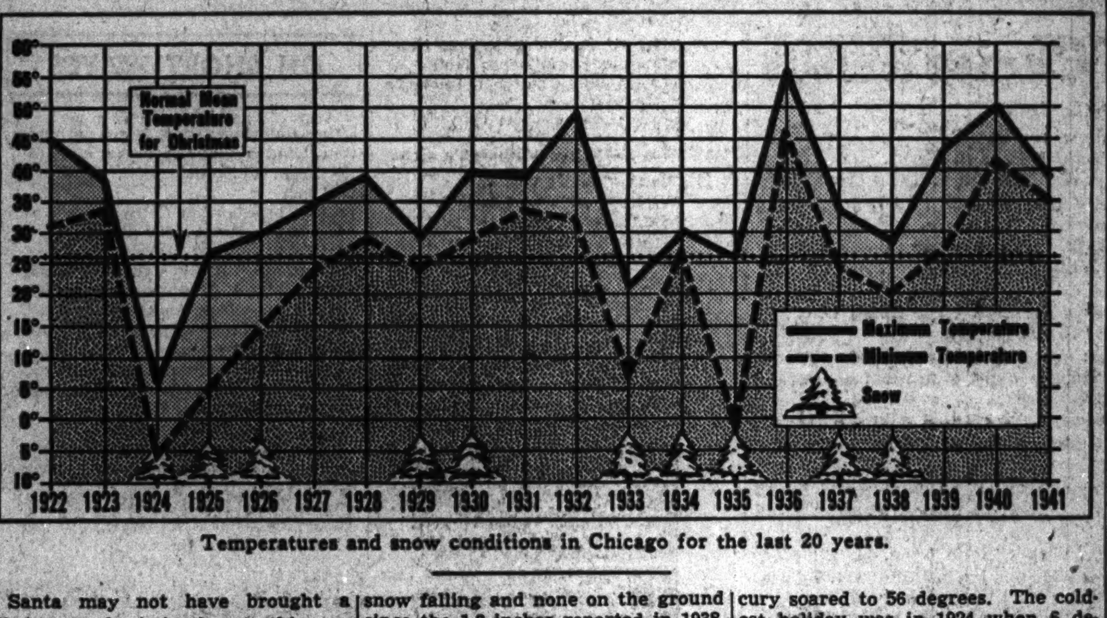
City to Have Christmas Snow for First Time Since 1938



Temperatures and snow conditions in Chicago for the last 20 years.

Santa may not have brought a Christmas of pristine beauty this year but he has done far better than average, according to Owen T. Lay, officer in charge of the Chicago weather bureau. For the first time since 1938 Chicago will have snow on the ground Christmas day, Lay said yesterday.

Bureau records show no Christmas snow falling and none on the ground since the 1.2 inches reported in 1938, Lay said. About 2 inches of the present snow, altho somewhat soiled was expected to survive today. Christmas day temperatures were expected to be somewhat above the normal mean of 26 degrees, Lay said.

Chicago's warmest Christmas days were in 1895 and 1936 when the mercury soared to 56 degrees. The coldest holiday was in 1924 when 6 degrees below zero was recorded. The heaviest holiday snowfall was one of 5 inches in 1909. The largest amount of snow on the ground was 9.8 inches in 1929.

Records dating back to 1872 show only five subzero Christmas days, the most recent one 2 below in 1935.

AN IRATE MINNIE GIVES HER MATE GOOD GOING OVER

That Sly Ferdinand Pays for His Philandering.

As Hugh Goudie Jr. walked into the cow lot yesterday on his farm near Oswego, Ferdinand, his registered bull, winked at him and wandered purposefully from the lot. Ferdinand stared boldly at such lady Holsteins he encountered. One of these, named Minnie, looked up in quick suspicion as Ferdinand moved off across the pasture.

Minnie, who has been much in Ferdinand's company of late, didn't like Ferdinand's assumed nonchalance. She knew as well as she knew her eyes are brown that out at the far edge of the pasture was a sleek, good looking Guernsey.

Minnie's Eyes Smoulder.

Minnie didn't know the Guernsey's name, but she did know the newcomer to be much too attractive. And Ferdinand is a headstrong, devil may care sort of fellow. Minnie started determinedly after him, then paused a moment, turned, and went back to the lot, her brown eyes smouldering.

They still were smouldering when Ferdinand returned. Minnie made noises in her throat now. She lowered her head and charged.

The story is taken up now by Patrolmen Elmer Eckert and William Peters of the Aurora police department:

"She was pretty mad. She hit this Ferdinand in the right forequarter and gave him the hooking of his life. Before he could pull himself together she backed up and let him have it again. Then she walked off by herself.

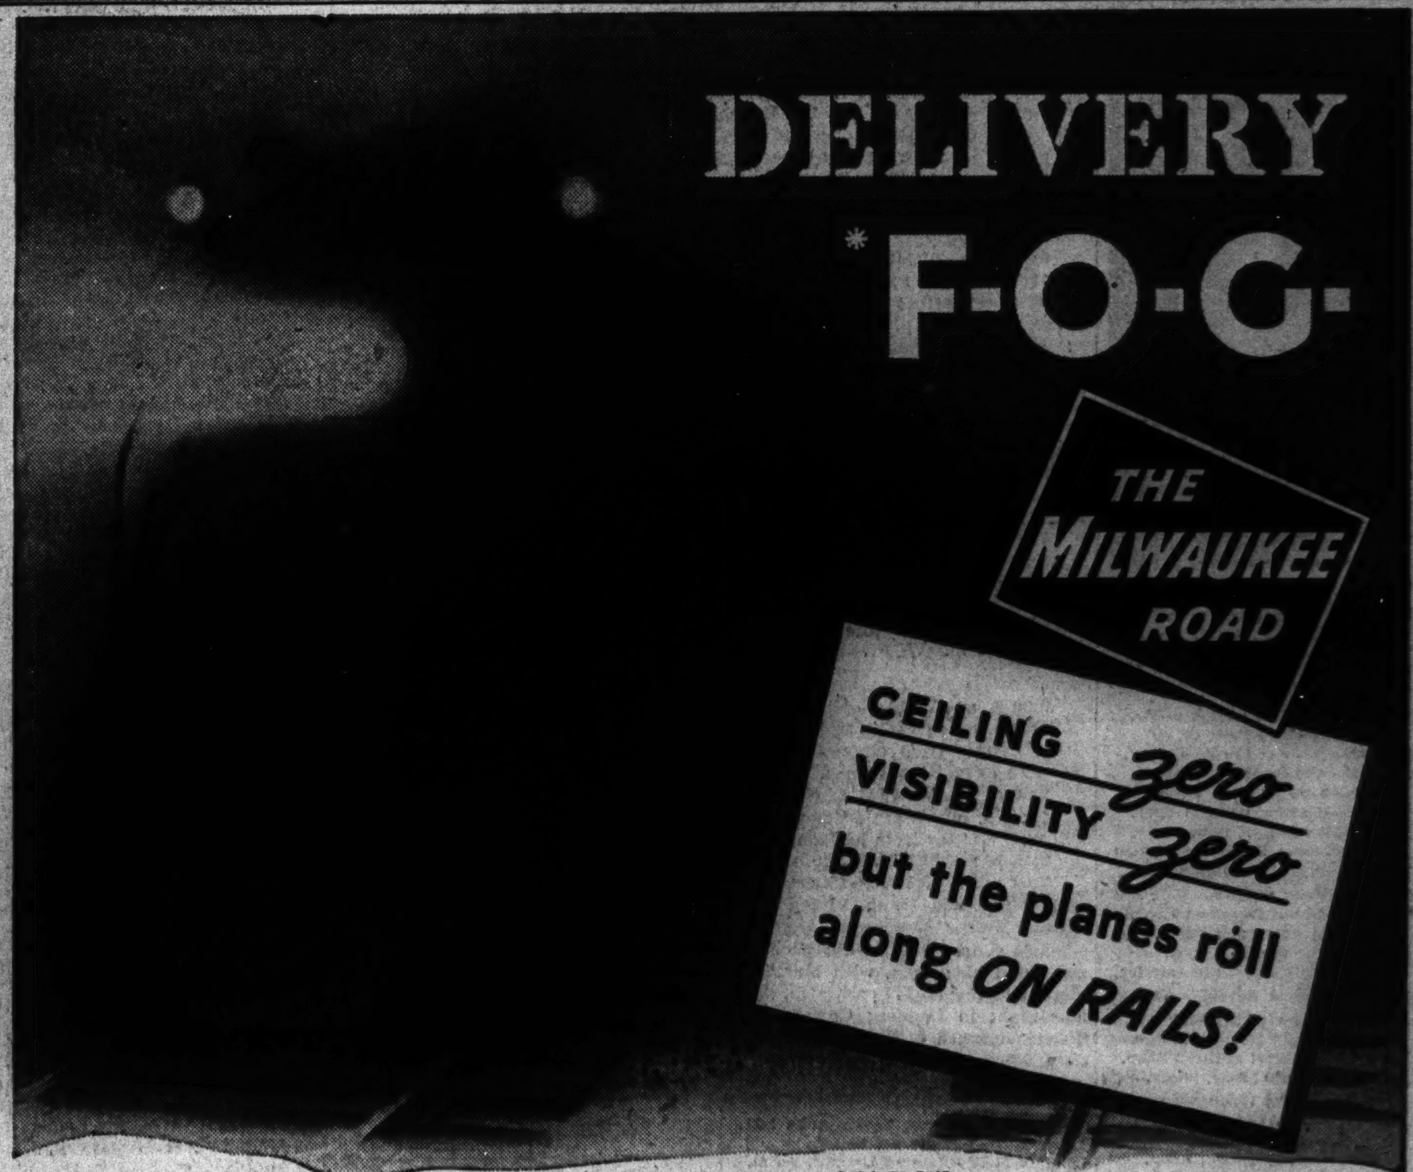
Ferdinand's Pretty Mad.

"The bull was mad by this time. He whirled around, but he couldn't see the cow. That's how mad he was."

Ferdinand did see Goudie, however, and may have blamed him for all the trouble he was in. Or he may have thought Mr. Goudie was Minnie. At any rate he gave a bellow and lunged.

Goudie fled for the barn, but before he could open the door the bull was upon him. The farmer incurred severe bruises before his father, Hugh Sr., distracted Ferdinand by prodding him with a pitchfork. Both men took refuge in the barn and neighbors rescued them half an hour later.

Young Goudie is recuperating in the Copley hospital, Aurora. Ferdinand is licking his wounds in the Goudie cow lot. And late last night Minnie still was not speaking to him.



*FOG OR GALE

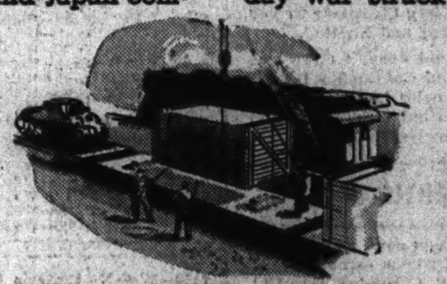
FLYERS call it "zero, zero"—the kind of weather that grounds even the birds. But it doesn't stop the movement of war materials that are shipped by rail—the bombers and pursuits moving in crates on flat cars, the tanks and jeeps, the guns and ammunition.

Wartime America is thankful for her vital network of railroads with four-times as much mileage as those of Germany, Italy and Japan combined. Our railroads carry the vast bulk of our war front and home front traffic. If the railroads stop, we all stop—but the railroads don't, and won't!

One vital unit in our nation's railroad system is The Milwaukee Road—traversing 11,000 miles of productive territory in 12 midwestern and northwestern states. This railroad has played an important role in America's commercial and social development for 92 years, and today is doing the biggest job it ever tackled.

The Milwaukee Road is handling a tremendously increased amount of traffic smoothly, economically and dependably, because it was ready the day war struck—ready with modern facilities and alert, trained man-power.

War requirements must and will have clear right of way on The Milwaukee Road until decisive victory is achieved. Essential civilian traffic must also be moved. To this end shippers and travelers are patriotically cooperating.



Airplanes, as well as tanks, jeeps, trucks and other vehicles of war are hauled by rail to camps or ports—part of the million and a quarter tons of freight moving a mile every minute over America's railroads.

4,500 CHILDREN WHOOP IT UP AT GREEN'S PARTY

Police Have Their Hands Full in Keeping Order.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—All the kids in town didn't show up today for Gov. Dwight H. Green's Christmas party, but about 4,500 of them did, and you couldn't have crammed any more into the two theaters taken over for the occasion.

The capacity of the movie houses wasn't the only thing taxed. So were the nerves of three dozen state policemen, city firemen, and theater ushers who had their hands full trying to preserve a semblance of order.

But Green Enjoys It.

But the 45 year old governor seemed to enjoy it. He beamed broadly when the howling guests stood on the seats, jostled in the aisles, and hung precariously from the theater balconies. They gave him a rousing ovation of yells, handclapping, whistling, and stomping that shook the chandeliers of the theaters and the poise of their managers.

Gov. and Mrs. Green and their daughters, Nancy, 15 years old, and Gloria, 11, helped pass popcorn and apples.

McKibbin Plays Santa.

A skyscraping Santa Claus at one theater was played by State Finance Director George B. McKibbin, who stands better than 6 feet in his socks. He introduced his rolypoly, 5 foot colleague as "my little boy." The partner in furs was Walter A. Rosenfield, director of public works and buildings.

"Those guys look like Mutt and Jeff," came the cry.

Santa Claus McKibbin called the governor from the audience.

"Have you been a good little boy, Dwight?"

"I sure have, Santa," said the governor.

The audience whooped and roared. One leather lunged lad of about 8 stood up on a chair and yelled:

"O yeah?"

Gets Movie Contract

George Holle being congratulated by Adelyn O'Connell, 12, daughter of Judge O'Connell, yesterday.

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell approved yesterday a motion picture contract whereby George Holle, 13 years old, recently discharged from the marine corps as under age, is to write and perhaps appear in a movie depicting his experiences. By its terms, Warner Brothers, producers, will maintain a Hollywood home for George and his mother, Anna, 914 Belle Plaine avenue; pay for the boy's schooling, and give him $5,000.

Plea Against Petrillo Ban on Canned Music Amended

The government yesterday filed an amended petition in the United States District court in its anti-trust suit against James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians. The petition contains only minor legal changes from the original petition for an injunction to end Petrillo's ban on canned music, which was dismissed by Judge John P. Barnes. Daniel Britt, special assistant attorney general here, said the amended petition will aid the government in its appeal from Judge Barnes' dismissal order.

ROOSEVELT YULE MESSAGE URGES GREATER FAITH

Notes Allied War Gains; Praises Sacrifices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—In a Christmas greeting President Roosevelt late this afternoon hailed the present yuletide season as a happier one than that which followed Pearl Harbor because "the forces of darkness stand against us with less confidence in the success of their evil ways."

Speaking from the south portico of the White House at the capital community tree ceremonies, the chief executive sent words of cheer by network and short wave broadcast to those "who toil in industry, to those who serve in uniform," to those who wear uniforms of allied nations, and to all Americans.

The tree itself was not lighted by the President. This part of the annual ceremony was omitted in a move to save electricity.

Notes Turning of Tide.

"I give you a message of cheer," he said. "I cannot say 'merry Christmas,' for I think constantly of those thousands of soldiers and sailors who are in actual combat thruout the world—but I can express to you my thought that this is a happier Christmas than last year in the sense that the forces of darkness stand against us with less confidence in the success of their evil ways.

"To you who toil in industry for the common cause of helping to win the war, I send a message of cheer—that you can well continue to sacrifice without recrimination and with a look of Christmas cheer—a kindly spirit toward your fellow men.

"To all Americans I say that loving our neighbor as we love ourselves is not enough—that we as a nation and as individuals will please God best by showing regard for the laws of God. There is no better way of fostering good will toward man than by first fostering good will toward God. If we love Him we will keep His commandments.

"Only Holiday of Year."

"In sending Christmas greetings to the armed forces and merchant sailors of the united nations we include therein our pride in their bravery on the fighting fronts and on all the seas. But we remember in our greetings and in our pride those other men who guard remote islands and bases and will, in all probability, never come into active combat with the common enemy. They are stationed in distant places far from home. They have few contacts with the outside world, and I want them to know that their work is essential to the conduct of the war—essential to the ultimate victory—and that we have not forgotten them.

"It is significant that tomorrow—Christmas day—our plants and factories will be stilled. That is not true of the other holidays we have long been accustomed to celebrate. On all other holidays work goes on—gladly—for the winning of the war.

"So Christmas becomes the only holiday in all the year.

"I like to think that this is so because Christmas is a holy day. May all it stands for live and grow thruout the years."

Children Not Present.

The President opened the day by receiving members of the White House office force. Each was given an embossed leather folder containing a war savings stamp book with one 25 cent stamp. In the afternoon he received, along with Mrs. Roosevelt, members of the White House household staff and their families.

In the evening, after dinner, he followed an old family custom and read Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" to members of the family and assembled guests.

In contrast to past years, none of the President's children was a White House guest.

Sings Tonight

MARION CLAIRE.

Parents of army and navy men serving overseas will be guests at a Christmas night broadcast in W-G-N's main studio from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. Marion Claire, Thomas L. Thomas and Attilio Baggiore will sing Christmas songs and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra will present original music by Ken Churchill. A drama of Christmas night in London, written by Fran Coughlin, will be presented. Gov. Dwight Green will give his Christmas message from Springfield and three religious leaders will be heard: They are Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, and Dr. Charles Shulman.

The tenth annual world-wide Christmas program of the British Broadcasting corporation will be rebroadcast on W-G-N from 9:30 to 10:45 o'clock this morning. The empire broadcast this season is titled "The Fourth Christmas," marking Britain's fourth war time holiday season.

W-G-N listeners will hear pickups from five continents as relayed to the Mutual network by the B. B. C. Microphones will pick up interviews with soldiers and sailors in North Africa, Australia, Russia, China, and the United States. Holiday activities will be described. A children's party on the much bombed island of Malta will be described. The program will close with a message from King George VI.

CITY'S GREATEST SHOPPING RUSH NOW A MEMORY

Tired Clerks Get Extra Holiday Tomorrow.

Chicago merchants yesterday experienced the biggest Christmas eve shopping rush in their history. The throngs that crowded the loop and the outlying districts were greater even than in the fabulous year of 1929 and vast numbers of soldiers, sailors, and marines on leave and furlough were among the shoppers.

Because of the buying rush that taxed energies of depleted staffs, employés of stores in the State Street council will be given a holiday tomorrow and the stores will not be open until noon Monday, David Mayer, chairman of the council, announced yesterday. The Monday shopping hours for the benefit of arms workers from noon to 9 p. m. will be continued and new shopping hours to alleviate the transportation problem will begin Tuesday, he said. Stores will be open five days a week from 9:45 a. m. to 5:45 p. m. The Saturday following New Year's will be a regular shopping day.

Shop Till Last Minute.

"We have never had a greater shopping season," Mr. Mayer explained, "and our employés deserve a holiday. Up until the last minute on Christmas eve, shoppers crowded the loop and throngs flowed down State street like two rivers on both sides of the street. Service men, who had little opportunity to do their buying before, took advantage of the late shopping hours. The crowds were as great as they were three or four days before Christmas."

The volume of business done this holiday season was at least 15 per cent above Chicago's former peak year in 1929, Mr. Mayer said. Purchases of quality merchandise surpassed those of pre-depression years.

"This has been a sensible shopping season," he said. "Chicagoans anticipated needs of the future and bought practical, warm articles of excellent quality. They knew they may not be able to get them later. With the expectation of a cold winter and cold homes, a great volume of business was done in clothing.

Money Well Spent.

"Overcoats and fur coats, quilted robes and garments of all kinds, warm woolens, and articles of mixed wool and cotton fabrics were popular purchases. A great amount of money was spent this holiday season but it went for merchandise that will stand up under war conditions."

WOMEN IN WAR DEPARTMENT.

As of June 30, 1942, approximately 275,000 women were working for the war department, 40,000 of them in Washington, the rest outside. More than 55,000 were working for the navy, 14,000 in Washington, the rest outside.

CHICAGO CANDY STORES SELL OUT AND CLOSE EARLY

A box of candy, the standby gift of last minute shoppers, became nearly as difficult to procure as a new tire or a C card yesterday when stores of three of Chicago's largest candy firms, sold out and closed until Monday morning. One chain of 18 stores was to stay open until midnight last night.

The head of another firm said closing of its 16 store broke a precedent of 34 years in business. The official said six of the firm's stores had sold out early in the afternoon and doormen in its loop stores were admitting five customers at a time. The official said the biggest demand in years, which found the candy makers on a 70 per cent sugar ration, was caused by persons substituting candy for desserts as well as sending it to men at war. The firm returned more than 5,000 checks for out-of-town orders.

Fifteen of the 38 stores of another company closed before midafternoon. The president of a fourth large firm said its 50 Chicago and suburban stores were closing rapidly in the afternoon because they had sold all of their supplies.

AP'S CHIEF CALLS REPORTING IN THIS WAR BEST EVER

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—"Never before has a war been so thoroly, so truthfully, and so colorfully reported," Associated Press war correspondents were told today by Kent Cooper, general manager.

In a short wave Christmas broadcast to men he said were sharing the risks of the fighters, Cooper said:

"Dispatches from the battle front are doing many things that you may not realize.

"Your stories are breaking down the fearful suspense of waiting mothers. They have put iron into the veins of a fighting people. You have broken down the great bugaboo of those who stay at home—no news."

Cooper called the correspondents' jobs the toughest and most dangerous in AP, and added:

"I certainly do wish you all the best and happiest Christmas that is possible under the circumstances in which you find yourselves."

Turn Leftover Turkey Into Tasty Dishes

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

War Butter.

[In popular use in 1917-'18.]

1 pound butter, creamed
1 pint rich milk
1 tablespoon gelatin
1 tablespoon salt [or to taste]

Soften gelatin in a little of the cold milk, and heat rest of milk to boiling point. Pour over gelatin and stir to dissolve. Cool to lukewarm and pour slowly over the butter, which has been creamed as for cake. Add salt. Beat with an egg beater until blended, smooth and thick. Store in refrigerator.

SEND IN YOUR FAVORITE RECIPE.

Address: Recipe Contest, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Leftover turkey is one food that tastes as good as new, and sometimes better, the second time it makes an appearance. And it always offers opportunity for preparing some inviting dish, whether it be a piping hot casserole concoction or a jellied salad combination.

Try one of these recipes tomorrow if the family hasn't picked the rich meated bird to the bone.

Turkey Terrapin.

[Serves four to six.]

3 tablespoons butter
3 hard cooked eggs
5 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups top milk or cream and stock mixed
1½ cups diced turkey
1 pimiento, cut in strips
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
4 ripe olives, cut in strips
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt fat in pan; add mashed egg yolks, flour, and seasonings. Stir to blend thoroly. Add liquid and cook until thickened thruout. Add chopped egg whites and remaining ingredients except the lemon juice. Heat very thoroly over hot water. Taste and season more if desired. Add lemon juice just before serving. Serve in patty shells, reheated in the oven, or on hot toast.

Turkey Au Gratin.

[Serves six to eight.]

2 cups diced, cooked turkey
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 tablespoons salad oil
4 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups stock or milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup grated cheese
1 cup soft bread crumbs

Marinate the turkey overnight in dressing made by mixing the salt, pepper, lemon juice, and salad oil. Drain and place in greased casserole. Cover with sauce made by blending fat and flour, stock, and Worcestershire over low heat, cooking until slightly thick. Spread cheese and crumbs, which have been mixed together, over the surface and bake uncovered until the surface is browned and the cheese is melted, about 25 minutes, at moderate temperature.

Turkey Turnovers.

[Serves six to eight.]

2 cups chopped, cooked turkey
3 tabelspoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup rich milk
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Celery salt
⅛ teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons minced onion
Plain pastry [made with 2 cups flour]

Prepare a sauce of the butter, flour, and seasonings. Then mix with the turkey meat. Add more seasoning if desired. Mixture should not be dry, or too thick. Cool. Meanwhile, roll out pastry ⅛ inch thick. Cut circles or squares of dough, place rounding tablespoon of turkey mixture over one half. Bring the other half over the filling, pressing dough, then sealing the edges. Or, two pieces of dough may be handled, as for filled cookies. Place on baking sheet and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, until nicely browned, about 20 to 30 minutes.

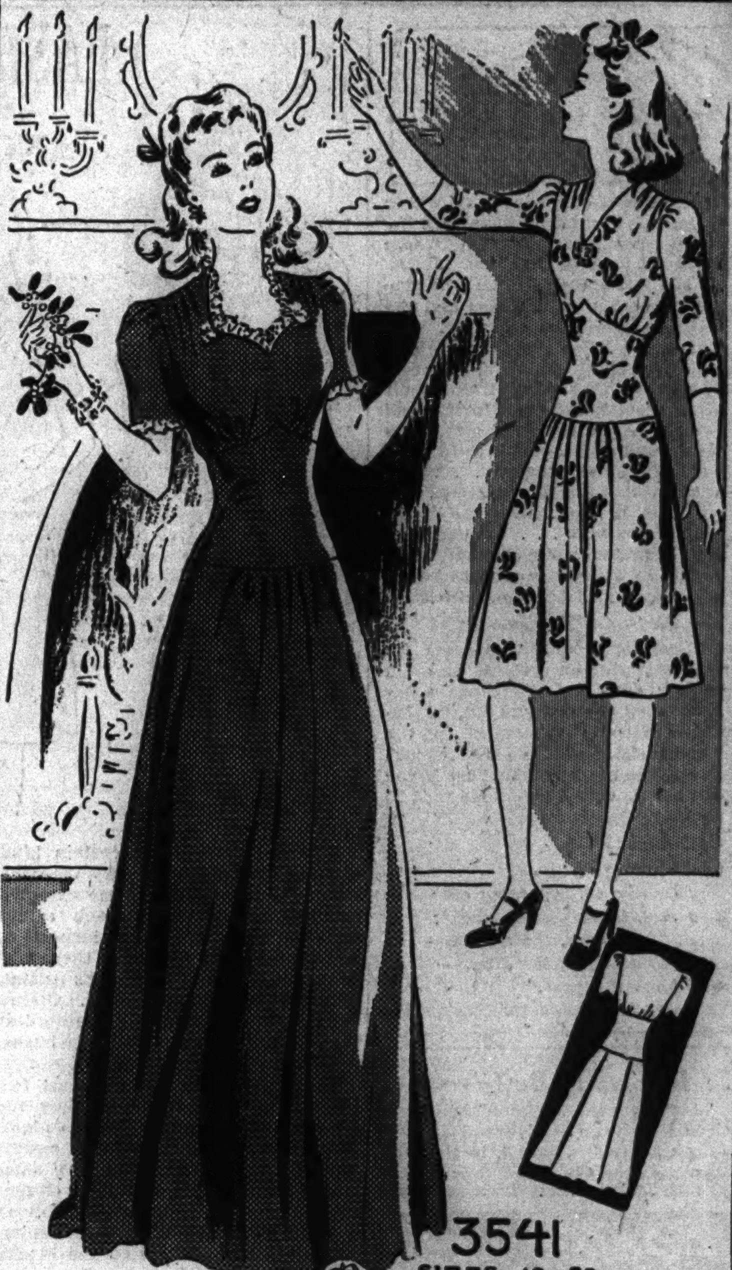
Jellied Turkey Loaf.

[Serves six to eight.]

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon paprika
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups ground, cooked turkey
½ cup mayonnaise
2 egg whites

Melt butter, add flour, and blend well. Add milk to slightly beaten egg yolks and add to flour slowly, stirring constantly. Place over hot water and cook about 20 minutes, without stirring. Remove, add gelatin which has been softened in cold water, and stir until dissolved. Add all seasonings, blend well, and add chopped or ground turkey. Fold in mayonnaise and stiffly beaten egg whites last. Taste and add more seasoning if desired. Rinse loaf pan with cold water. Pour in turkey mixture and chill until firm, about four hours. Green pepper rings or thinly sliced sweet pickles may be arranged in the bottom before the turkey mixture is poured into the pan if desired.

Frocks in Holiday Mood



MISS' "DRESSY" FROCK.

Merry Christmas! And while you're in the holiday mood, you'll think well of this new frock, with its V or sweetheart neckline, its soft bodice, its slim waist and hip sector, and its moderately full skirt. It's a gala frock and the pattern is easy to use.

Style No. 3541 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with 2 yards of lace for evening dress with short sleeves; for daytime version with three-quarter sleeves, 3¼ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

If there is such a thing as justifiable homicide at the bridge table the West player in today's hand was a perfect corpus delicti. He was guilty of the most heinous of bridge crimes, ruining a carefully planned trap of his partner's.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 clubs	2 diamonds [!]
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Lest readers conclude that the two diamond bid recorded above is a typographical error, I hasten to state that East made precisely that bid and that, under the circumstances, it was a beautiful trap. Seldom does a player have such an opportunity. Obviously East's idea was to bid a suit that the opponents were likely to have well stopped. Thus they would be lured into a false sense of security and contract for enough no trumps to ruin them.

South's bidding was, of course, somewhat open to censure since he had no spade stopper. But, in all fairness, I have seen many worse rebids than South made. He could have doubled two diamonds, but the opponents were not vulnerable and he was. He had a splendid fit with partner's club bid and it was not unnatural that he found no great menace in the spade situation.

East was figuratively rubbing his hands, waiting for the opening diamond lead when, to his horror, his partner, who had gone into a long huddle, apparently decided that he would make a "surprise attack." "Reasoning" that declarer had diamonds well stopped, West led the heart queen! East almost had apoplexy as declarer won with the ace and immediately returned a heart toward the K-10, finessing against the jack. Six club tricks then were run off, while East discarded four of his lovely spades.

I cannot report what East said to West!

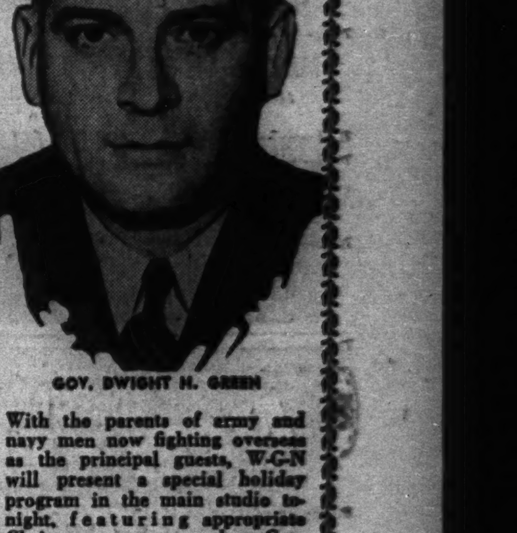
WENDELL HALL

Here it is, fans—your Christmas afternoon package of entertainment filled with many of your W-G-N favorites in a full half hour of seasonable music, songs and Christmas greetings. You'll hear Frank Kettering's band, featuring Johnny Duffy at the Hammond organ; you'll hear Hugh Carson, Wendell Hall and Bret Morrison in a wide variety of vocal selections and, as an introductory climax, a stirring Christmas message from Dr. Preston Bradley, Chicago's own author, lecturer and philosopher. Remember, this afternoon on W-G-N from 3:30 to 4:00 o'clock.

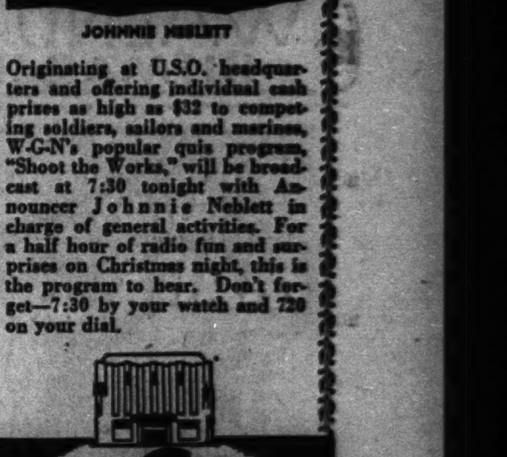
SPECIAL CHRISTMAS PROGRAM
9:00 TONIGHT



GOV. DWIGHT H. GREEN

With the parents of army and navy men now fighting overseas as the principal guests, W-G-N will present a special holiday program in the main studio tonight, featuring appropriate Christmas messages by Gov. Dwight H. Green, Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, and Dr. Charles L. Shulman. Further augmenting the broadcast will be a drama of Christmas night in a London air raid shelter and a program of carols by soprano star Marion Claire and Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor. Fully expressing the spirit of the season, here is a broadcast replete with interest and entertainment for every member of the family. W-G-N at 9 P. M.

SHOOT THE WORKS
7:30 TONIGHT



JOHNNIE NEBLETT

Originating at U.S.O. headquarters and offering individual cash prizes as high as $32 to competing soldiers, sailors and marines, W-G-N's popular quiz program, "Shoot the Works," will be broadcast at 7:30 tonight with Announcer Johnnie Neblett in charge of general activities. For a half hour of radio fun and surprises on Christmas night, this is the program to hear. Don't forget—7:30 by your watch and 720 on your dial.

SYNOPSIS.

Tessa Devlin, reared by medical missionaries in India, did not learn of her identity until Dr. Shaw, her foster father, died. He left her a diary telling how her own mother died when Tessa was born and how her father, Tom Devlin, a prospector in British Columbia, failed to return for her. Shaw advised Tessa to go to Tom now, who was a rich man in New York. Tessa takes his advice but is unhappy living with her newly found father, her stepmother, Alice, and Uncle Billy Boomer, who lives with the Devlins but is no blood relation. Against their wishes, she goes to a New York hospital to complete her nursing course began in Bombay. There she falls in love with Dr. Bart Carson, son of Phoebe Carson, who runs a fashionable dressmaking establishment with Kate McLaughlin. Uncle Billy has sold Phoebe a cottage near the Devlin home and next door to the home of Mrs. Carol Kimbark, who is trying to marry Jayson Plaice, partner of Tom Devlin. Tessa thinks Bart returns her love but suddenly one day she receives a letter from him saying he is going to work in a Denver hospital and dismisses their romance as a passing fancy. Heartbroken, she gives up nursing and decides to marry Jayson Plaice. Phoebe, who makes most of Alice's clothes, refuses to make Tessa's wedding gown and goes to her own cottage alone. She tries repeatedly to get in touch with Tom Devlin and then Tessa, but Plaice has taken the wedding party on a yachting trip and returns just a few hours before the wedding is scheduled. Tessa puts on her wedding dress and suddenly dashes out of the house and does not show up for the wedding. She is picked up at Mrs. Kimbark's door with a blood stain on her dress. She says she went to Phoebe's cottage and found Phoebe dead with her head bashed in. Police learn that Phoebe bribed the messenger to deliver Tessa's wedding dress to her first and that she sewed a pocket in the sleeve in which she inserted a message. They find part of a note she started to Tessa in which she asked Tessa to come to the cottage and bring the "di . . ." They also find an old note Jayson wrote Phoebe telling her of the death of her husband, Frederick Carson, a prospector in British Columbia. Jayson admits writing the note. Carson, he claims, was prospecting there with himself and Tom Devlin. Plaice says he was with Mrs. Kimbark at the time of Phoebe's murder. But before police can question Mrs. Kimbark she kills herself. Bart arrives the day of the murder. Phoebe had wired him to come. His wire in answer to his mother's was sent to the Devlin home first by mistake. Tessa is awakened by some one in her room. Beatrice, the maid, reports to police that she suspicions Plaice and gives them Tessa's diamond engagement ring she found under a chair. Police think the "di . . ." in Phoebe's letter means diamond and think Plaice is really Frederick Carson. When they tell him this he denies it but seems upset. When they leave he phones Tom. Tom, driving thru a hurricane to meet Jayson, is injured by a falling tree. Bart, called in on the case, starts to give Tom a blood transfusion, discovers that Tessa's blood is the wrong type, and that he will have to give his own blood.

INSTALMENT XXXV.

RENEWED ROMANCE.

Bart looked a little white and he put out a hand to anticipate the chair Tessa placed beside the bed for him. He spoke briefly, hoarding strength.

Her hands worked quickly, drawing an arm from beneath the bedclothes, swabbing with alcohol, drawing tight a rubber tourniquet to throw a blue vein into sharp outline, leaving to the doctor only the delicate task of inserting the tiny tube connected with the glass bottle of blood. Her hands were steady, sure. His seemed to tremble slightly. But the level of the blood in the bottle began slowly to lower.

He adjusted a stethoscope, leaned over the patient, listened, watched the slow surge of blood from the bottle thru the rubber tubing into the vein. Occasionally, he retarded the flow, again he accelerated it.

And then there were sterile swabs on the spot where the tubing had been inserted, and a small compress held in place with adhesive, and she was clearing away the apparatus and he was still bent over the patient, listening, waiting.

Waiting . . . with time ticking on . . . while the wind howled and crashed. . . .

Steelman looked at his watch. Three o'clock. His eyes played a triangle. The unconscious man there in the bed, the doctor opposite, the nurse at the foot.

She stood there like some efficient, impersonal machine. It was the doctor who held his attention chiefly. He was intent on the patient, and yet there was a certain preoccupation about him, as if his mind were struggling with something.

His tenseness seemed a blind for some inner conflict. It showed in the slight tremble of his hands, in a certain nervous shifting of his eyes. Or was that only a part of weakness from blood lost? Steelman didn't know. He felt baffled, stymied.

He looked at his watch again. Three thirty, and then 4 o'clock. He rose and walked to the window and looked out. In the east there was a faint grayness and the wind was not blowing so fiercely. As he turned back toward the room, Carson rose from the bedside.

"He'll make it now," he said, and the taut cord of tension slackened a little. He turned to the nurse, and his voice was suddenly different.

"I must speak to you."

"Yes, doctor."

"Where can we——" His eyes caught a door leading from the room. It was slightly ajar. His hand grasped her arm, pulled her with him. Steelman started to protest, but he was cut off by the closing door.

They were in another bedroom. His hand fell from her arm and they faced each other. Dawn filtered in, lending a grayish light to the furniture, but leaving the corners still heavy with night shadows.

"Yes, doctor?"

"No," he said. "No. Forget that. I've got something I must say." His voice was unsteady.

"But there is nothing that you and I can have to say——" She broke off. The hard, impersonal mask of profession slipping from her, the words he had flung at her two days before choking in her throat.

She started to back away, but he grasped her arms with both his hands. "Listen. Don't ask questions, now. Tell me the truth. The truth, you understand." His hands on her arms tightened as if he would shake it from her. "Everything depends on it. Our whole lives."

Our whole lives! He had said "our" as if——

She could feel the strength draining from her. She could feel the trembling of her limbs. He had said "our" and he was looking at her and something in his eyes blazed thru all the anguish and despair and tragedy, something springing to life like a fire, dampened down, beaten out, deliberately smothered and yet suddenly bursting anew into living flame.

"Bart, what——"

"Tessa . . . Tessa . . ."

He had kissed her once before in the soft night lights of a great hospital, and her heart had burst with its singing. Now he kissed her again, and for a long moment the death and tragedy and horror that had intervened, receded, ebbed, leaving them alone on some high rock.

But only for a moment. It washed back like a malign tide, striving to engulf them. She trembled in his arms.

"Tessa, listen and tell me quickly. My mother wrote you a note?"

"Yes."

"I thought so. She must have made several false starts. One of them blew out the window and I found it the day after——. Was it about the diary, that one you used to tell me about so often?"

"Yes."

"What did she say? Why did you go to the cottage?"

Her hands fumbled with the fastening of her dress. She drew forth something, thrust it into his hands. It was a note on thin tissue, creased into a tiny square. He unfolded it and the handwriting of his mother smote him like a blow. But a blow from which he had no time to reel or stagger. His eyes took it in swiftly, quickly.

Tessa Devlin—Come to me as soon as you receive this note. Don't let anything delay you. Come before you do a thing that may ruin all our lives. Bring with you the diary of your foster-father. There is something I must find out. If you value your own happiness and the happiness of my son, Bart Carson, don't let anything stand in your way. Under no circumstances tell any one about this note, but come immediately to the little white cottage on Old Lane road.—Phoebe Carson.

"Does any one know about this?"

"No. I've kept it with me all the time here in my dress."

"And the diary?"

"It, too. I've worn dresses with full fronts so it wouldn't show. I didn't dare leave it."

As she spoke she drew out a small red leather notebook, thin but containing many pages of fine paper covered by tiny faded writing.

"Has any one seen this?"

"No, never. They've all tried, tho."

"Who?"

"Uncle Billy, Jay, my—Mr. Devlin. Even Alice."

"I'll take it now. You keep the note. But don't say anything to anybody. I've got to find out the—the thing my mother was trying to find out."

His hand tightened on hers, but now there was no fierceness in his grip. "We've got to go back." He nodded toward the door. "We've got to be just doctor and nurse again—for a while."

Steelman was standing by the bed watching the slow, regular breathing of Devlin as they came into the room.

Carson spoke first. "Inspector, I've asked Miss Devlin to call in the regular family physician and I'll hand the case to him. I was acting only in an emergency. Mr. Devlin's condition is still serious, but not critical."

He turned to the girl, gave professional orders in a crisp professional voice. "And you'd better get a relief nurse as soon as you can," he finished off.

"Yes, doctor. And do you want the dressings loosened now?"

"No. Wait until your doctor sees the patient."

"Yes, doctor."

"Well——" He paused and surveyed the room like one making sure that his job is finished. His eyes came to rest on Steelman. He held out his hand. "Well, good-by, inspector."

Steelman came around the end of the bed slowly.

"Not yet, doctor, if you don't mind."

"But there's nothing more I can do here now. Mr. Devlin will be——"

"I know. I'd just like to have a little talk with you."

"O—O, yes. But aren't we all pretty done in now? Can't it wait?"

"I'd rather not, if you don't mind."

"Very well."

"Let's go downstairs. We can be more private in one of the rooms down there. The library."

The inspector took his flashlight from the makeshift standard on the night table, and led the way down the dark halls of the Devlin house to the library below.

He took a chair, indicated one for Carson.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

It's the Little Things.

It's the little things about Christmas that cling to the mind like crystal snow to the branches of the tree — small, unrecorded addenda which add up, one way or another, to the sum total of Christmas:

The funny Santa Claus figures in the window of a Scotch store, looking precisely as tho they were dancing the Highland fling. . . . The amusing but delightful contradiction presented by the ultra-smart salesgirl with an old-fashioned cerise shawl knotted around her shoulders as she stood at a counter near a too breezy doorway, appearing so demure in this modern year of 1942. . . . The crowds at the railroad station and the breathtaking words "home for Christmas." . . . The beautiful model of a cathedral with music pouring from it, built by a Ukrainian who took six months to make it for a large loop restaurant. . . . The six foot rubber tree of E. V. Anderson, decorated as a Christmas tree and every one "O-ing" and "ah-ing."

The soldiers and sailors crowding around the photograph counters calling for their pictures. . . . The impressive Christmas greeting with the gold military insignia from Lt. Gretchen Kroch whose cards, heretofore, have been so whimsical and feminine — ample evidence of a changing world. . . . The unearthed "Souvenir from France" — 1917 and the reminder that the first Christmas card appeared in England just 100 years ago. . . .

The officer at the perfume counter sniffing cologne on the salesgirl's wrist [with an audible sigh]. . . . The grandfather trying out a kid's slate in the toy department. . . . The incredible patience of all whose tasks, this Christmas, have been immeasurably increased, but whose spirit of service has not lagged. . . . The loneliness of those who cannot be with their families and the solemn awareness of what war means. . . . The bravely decorated little tree shining from the window of a flat so near to my train that I often see the family at meals and wonder about the first star, then the second and now the third service star in the window. . . . The secrecy, the hidden packages, the whispers accompanying the wrapping of presents. . . . The enduring childlikeness of the human heart which, in a desolate world at war, still hopes, still believes, still loves.

For Christmas Afternoon.

"Secretaries only" suggests for that long ride on a street car—and equally good for Christmas afternoon—this one to figure out. "From CHESTY only one word in the English language can be formed. Rearrange the letters and see if you can get it. One figure-outer took 15 seconds. Can you beat that?"

Christmas Wish.

God bless thy year—
Thy coming in, thy going out:
Thy rest, thy traveling about;
The rough, the smooth—
The bright, the drear—
God bless thy year."

FASHIONS
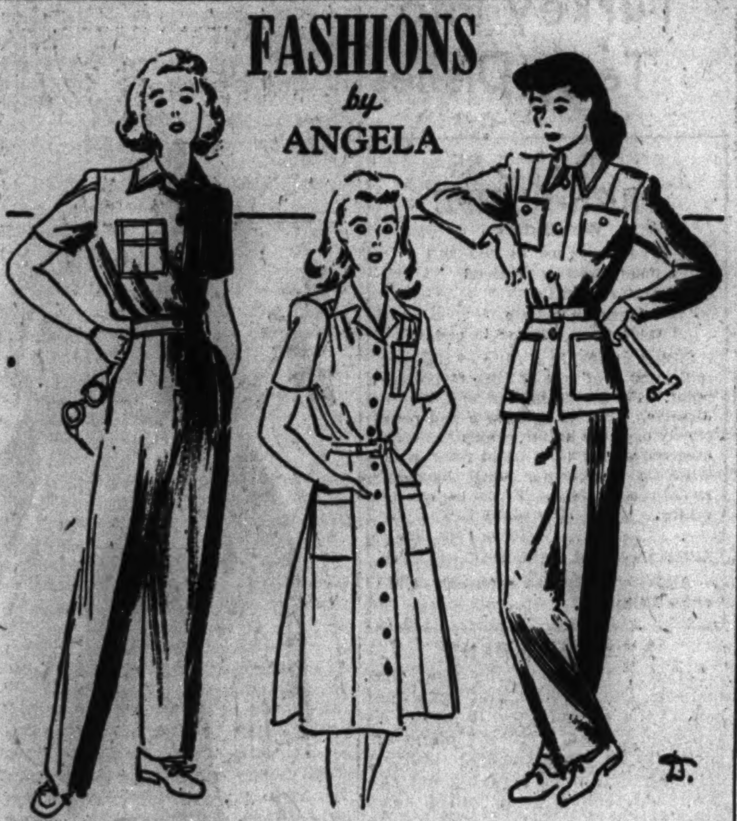
ANGELA



Defense jobs mean a certain kind of work clothes. They vary with the nature of the work to some extent—welders requiring different safety features than ordnance inspectors. Some need short sleeves so there will be no possibility of loose cuffs getting caught in moving machinery. Others need long sleeves, and flameproof at that, to protect the skin from burns.

The first coverall has several features that make it a good buy for a woman working in a defense plant. It is a one piece garment that cannot separate at the waist and give shirt tail trouble. It is buttoned closely enough so that it will not gap. It is made of heavy dark blue denim. There are two pockets on the blouse and a hip pocket in back. The short sleeves are a necessary feature for certain kinds of machine work. Under $4.

Lots of factory jobs or shop work don't require the overalls or slacks. The denim work dress, or shop coat as it is sometimes called, [sketched second] is the costume preferred by many. It is a finer quality of denim, than in the slacks, and a lighter blue. There are deep patch pockets on the gored skirt, a pencil pocket on the blouse; also a fullness in the back across the shoulders to allow comfortable action.

Denim slacks with a separate denim jacket is a third style. It is the same dark blue denim that is used in men's work clothes and overalls. Four pockets on the jacket provide ample storage space.

Hamilton Park Red Cross Workers to Meet Tuesday

The Red Cross unit of the Hamilton Park Woman's club will make surgical dressings from 10 o'clock to 4:30 next Tuesday in the field house, 72d and Normal boulevard. The Hamilton Park unit was established during the last war and now boasts a membership of 180 workers, many of whom are more than 70 years old. To meet the requests of many of the younger people who are busy during the day, an evening group will be started early next year.

Christmas Rites Held Dear by All

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If your Christmases are at all like ours, anything you want to read that day will probably have to be picked up late in the evening, when there's quiet and you want to spend a few moments to savor the day, to think about another Christmas come and gone.

If you do sit a little while to read and compose yourself, this column may be one of the things your eye will fall upon. And if it does, let's think together about this red letter day that is slipping along to its close.

It was some weeks before Christmas this year, when I was preparing my articles, that a couple of young people were around, of about 20 or so. And I noticed that, like a match to tinder, the word Christmas set off for them a veritable train of memories. And scarcely ever, I noticed, did they mention any gift they had received, tho they had reveled in their presents, of course. If they did refer to such things it was to mention "the little homemade chamois bag of new pennies I always got," or, "the new little velveteen jackets for my furry animals," or "the little muff made especially for my doll," or some other intimate thing like the tiny real sandwiches I'd find in my stocking when I emptied it early Christmas morning."

It was more apt to be little family customs and ceremonies that were recalled, but thru all the memories you could sense the atmosphere of veritable magic that, for them, surrounded past Christmases. These were some of the things I heard:

"We always marched down to Christmas breakfast to music, and singing one of the jollier of the carols."

"My uncle was witty and we always sat in a circle while he gave out the presents and cracked jokes."

"My grandfather always made the place cards and every one's had a funny little verse on it, made to fit the person."

"Late Christmas afternoon or early evening before a light supper we always gathered around the fire, and my father, who had a wonderful baritone voice, read Dicken's Christmas Carol to us." This was before Lionel Barrymore did it each year on the radio!

"On Christmas eve before our supper mother always used to read 'The Night Before Christmas' to us."

"We always had a red dinner cloth [an old one mother picked up in an antique shop] on the table for Christmas dinner, and holly and a silver bell, and little white reindeer and candles. And every evening during the holidays the table was arranged like that. I remember how careful we were not to get a spot on that red cloth so it would last."

"Some one in our family was always playing carols on the piano or singing them off and on during December."

"We always played funny games in the evening"; "We always had charades after dinner"; "We kids always gave a play."

So it went: "We always did this in our family at Christmas time," or "we always did that."

Family customs, traditions, or ceremonies are really good to keep up from year to year. Often they happen spontaneously the first time, then are repeated every year. This appeals to children; they love the familiar when it's a happy familiar.

As you sit and think over this Christmas day, be glad you have made it a happy one for your children. But recognize, as you do so, that they not only have loved this day today. They will also love it in retrospect.

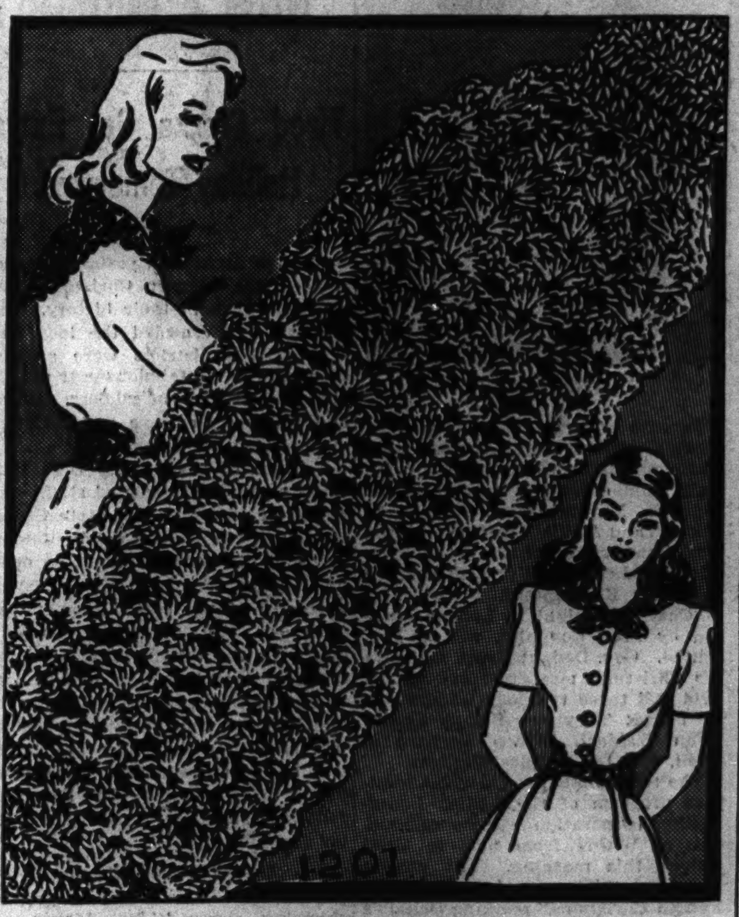
Crocheted Scarf and Belt



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted scarf and belt set, created in soft wool or fine mercerized cotton, is an attractive accessory group which will give a touch of smartness to a dress feeling just a little sorry for itself after a long winter. The shell stitch belt is quickly created and the scarf requires a minimum of time.

For instructions in crocheting the belt and scarf set, No. 1201, send 10 cents in stamps or coin plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 24.—Here's the same old wish to all of you! I'm dreaming of a light Christmas, just like the ones we used to know [with apologies to Irving Berlin]. And since memories are one of the blessings removed from rationing, we can live over again some of the parties of bygone and gayer holidays, many of which were held at Pickfair. It was Mary who originated the idea of festooning the growing trees in Beverly with bright lights—all strung together like jewels. It was a sight people came miles to see. And the last few years prizes were given for the most beautiful. Now, of course, all that is dimmed out for the duration. . . . The Harold Lloyds used to have enormous parties at their Benedict canyon home, and everybody turned up.

Highlights.

I've spent many Christmas eves at the home of Adrian, whose presents were so artistically wrapped you hated to open them. He always went to great pains decorating the house. One year, in the dining room where the walls are Irish green and one side is entirely mirrored, he arranged graduated trees that had been sprayed with silver. In the center of the table he outlined the New York skyline in crystal paperweights, all sizes and shapes. He happened to spy them in a shop and bought out the entire collection. Another year, when the Yale puppeteers were playing here, after dinner when the presents had been "O'd" and "A'd" over—the room was cleared and put on a whole show. Now, of course, his day is centered around Janet and son Robin. Last year, his present to Robin was a Great Dane dog—who's nursemaid as well as companion. And the new dresses he creates for Janet, with jewelry to match, have made many a star go green with envy.

Paid For with Laughs.

I remember a party Gracie Allen and George Burns threw a few years back for 200. That gave the ambitious hostesses something to shoot at. A giant canvas covered the whole back garden, with salamanders everywhere to keep you warm—just in case we might have a touch of unusual weather. The swimming pool was covered with a portable dance floor, and Gracie swept the last guest out at 9 a. m.

This Was Different.

Cecil De Mille's most vivid memory of Christmas was when he was directing "King of Kings." He was just about to call it a day—there were 500 people on the set, all tired and hungry. They'd just finished the crucifixion scene, and before saying goodnight he reminded them that the scene in which they were standing was a duplicate of that which took place 2,000 years before. Cecil said, "Let's take five minutes out to pause and think. Think about anything you like. If you're not religious, please wait five minutes." At least a third of the company dropped to their knees at the foot of the vacant cross. Others, thinking of what they had to do at home, disapproved of the whole thing. Then, somewhere from the back of the set, the organ swelled into a hymn, and those left standing dropped to their knees. Immediately, that big Hollywood sound stage became a cathedral. In talking about it with Cecil recently he said, "I can't think of that scene today without getting a lump in my throat."

Carry Over.

At Christmas time the Tyrone Powers kept open house with gifts for every one, including strangers who might wander in. Bells were hung everywhere—a throwback to Annabella's childhood in France. Last Christmas Annabella gave Tyrone a lovely old mission bell, which is rung on Christmas day and Tyrone's birthday. . . . Last year, as a joke, some one suggested that Laird Cregar would make a good float and pushed him into the swimming pool. And not until then did Laird find out that he could swim.

This Year Giving, Not Getting.

This year will be a Christmas the like of which Hollywood has never known before—one of giving instead of getting. The young starlets from all over town will be at the Hollywood canteen, the U. S. O., or nearby camps and hospitals—so will the name bands—so will the stars, because they're not thinking of themselves this year. Their one thought is—"What can we do for the men who are doing so much for us? They're giving their lives, and the least we can do is to try and give them some pleasure." Sure, the children won't be neglected, but the grown-ups of our town—if they never know another lush Christmas, which heaven forbid—can live on the memory of the bounty bestowed upon them thru the years. And now that we've reminisced, let's plan and pray for future Christmases when the lights come on again all over the world and the sons, fathers, and sweethearts are home again—not only in this country but all over the world.

It's Christmas: Day of Rest for Weary Shopper

BY REA SEEGER.

Merry Christmas! It's all over but the counting of bruises or the postmortem of impressions gathered thru a hectic two weeks of the year's best shopping binges. Fashion sleuths have rather confused memories of swarms of shoppers, jammed trains out of town, and more bundles than could be counted hung to every patriotic shopper trying to save delivery services. Also the shining memory of the town's biggest and most famous tree reverting to precedent by being trimmed in the old fashioned manner, a definite relief after last year's schizophrenic effort, over which even the youngsters bitterly complained, to say nothing of the sentimental old guard wailing over the too modern display.

This year's smallest but most telling holiday success was the glad welcome accorded the festive Scotch tape. Reels of this super-adhesive came out in hollyberry red with appropriate designs and wording printed at close intervals all thru the yardage. Only the wrappers with long experience struggling with stickers that didn't stick no matter how you clamped and pounded really appreciated the instantaneous performance of this wonder tape.

It was a different kind of Christmas. Supplies vanished over night. If you didn't grab while the grabbing was good it was just too bad. Hesitating shoppers had the shock of their lives, for if they returned for some particular item after a night's mulling over the pros and cons, the darn stuff had vanished. Some other shopper had decided in record time.

Living up to tradition the crowds suddenly mellowed along about the last three days of the shopping expeditions. Harassed persons with lists still in hand no longer frowned or complained. Icy dowagers, snooty shoppers of all sizes, shapes and personalities, melted and the chimes and Christmas music provided the soothing catalyzer for all . . . especially those who for the first time in years looked at Christmas with many familiar faces far away!

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

Closings, like openings, often seem to come in bunches in the Chicago legitimate theaters. Saturday, Jan. 16, now looms as a great day of closings, inasmuch as four out of seven theaters now operating will divest themselves of their tenants on that evening.

"Porgy and Bess," at the Studebaker, is the latest addition to the list. On Jan. 16 the Gershwin opera will have completed 12 weeks in Chicago, and will depart thereafter for St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, a return engagement in the east, and further commitments in eastern cities.

Already announced to leave on Jan. 16 are "Junior Miss" at the Harris, "The Merry Widow," which opens Sunday at the Selwyn, and "This Is the Army," which comes into the Civic theater for two weeks beginning Jan. 4. The Harris will relight with "The Eve of St. Mark" on Jan. 18, and the Civic Opera house with "Lady in the Dark" the following night. No bookings are announced for the Studebaker or the Selwyn, altho there is gossip that a return engagement of "Watch on the Rhine" may take over the latter house.

One of the hits of "This Is the Army" is Sergt. Alan Manson's impersonation of Jane Cowl in the famous Stage Door Canteen scene. This bit of mimicry is a remarkable tour de force, for when he was called upon to imitate the famous actress Sergt. Manson had never seen her in his life. "All I had to go by," he confesses, "were some photographs, some coaching by Peggy Wood, and instinct."

His success in "This Is the Army" should stand Sergt. Manson in good stead when the war is over. Before he was drafted he was one of the hundreds of young actors who bat their heads against Broadway's stone wall without getting themselves very far by the process. He had done some radio work and had obtained a small part in the Theater guild production of Maxwell Anderson's "Journey to Jerusalem." But his real break came at Camp Dix, when Sergt. Ezra Stone, director of "This Is the Army," singled him out for special opportunities.

Last summer in New York Miss Cowl came backstage with Irving Berlin to meet her counterfeit self. "Miss Cowl," said Berlin, "I want you to meet Alan Manson, the boy you've been impersonating all your life."

Age Old 'Merry Christmas' Will Ring Out Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

MERRY CHRISTMAS! That age old greeting will ring out on every side today. Over wassail bowls, eggnog, or Tom and Jerry, friends will drink to an early peace, and to loved ones absent at army and navy posts. Many a Christmas table will seem smaller than usual with the head of the household or sons and brothers in the service.

Christmas greetings to the Dallas B. Phemister family will include good wishes to Dr. and Mrs. Phemister's daughter, Mary, whose engagement to Dr. John M. Beal, son of Prof. and Mrs. John M. Beal of the University of Chicago is being announced today. Dr. Beal is not here to receive congratulations, as he is an assistant resident at the New York hospital, having been graduated from the University of Chicago and from its medical school.

Miss Phemister attended Connecticut college for two years and was graduated from Lake Erie college in 1941. She taught at Wykeham Rise in Washington, D. C., last year.

Barbara Brown's Troth Announced in Missouri.

At a tea yesterday in their present home in Webster Groves, Mo., Lt. Col. and Mrs. Kenneth Cotton Brown, formerly of Evanston, announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Gilbert Stayton Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Blake of St. Louis. The announcement is one of particular interest to the friends of both families, for Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Brown were childhood friends, and their mothers, Alice C. D. Riley, grandmother of Miss Brown, and Jessie L. Gaynor, grandmother of Mr. Blake, wrote "The Slumber Boat" together many years ago, as well as many books of children's songs and operettas.

Miss Brown and her fiancé did not meet until last fall, when Mr. Blake became a naval aviation cadet at Lambert field, near St. Louis. He now is completing his training at Pensacola, Fla. Miss Brown attends Washington university, where she is taking a pre-medical course. Mr. Blake attended Vanderbilt.

The family Christmas party of the Sylvanus George Lee family in Winnetka will have a special meaning, for today the Lees are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Ruth to Stanford L. Optner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Saul B. Optner of Chicago. Miss Lee is a junior at Northwestern university, having attended Leland Stanford university last year. Mr. Optner was graduated from Harvard last June and now is at Tucson, Ariz.

H. Foster Straws Giving Eggnog Party Today.

Lt. Comm. and Mrs. H. Foster Straw's 18th annual Christmas eggnog party from 12:30 to 2:30 o'clock today at their Lake Forest home may be their last because of the scarcity of the ingredients. Eggnog today is apt to be a little thin, with no whipping cream on the market, but the gatherings will be no less gay.

The Charles Daniel Freys are having their usual Christmas party from 11 to 3 o'clock today, but only Miss Barbara Frey is at home to receive with her parents. Ensign Charles Frey Jr. is on sea duty, and Mrs. Gail Borden is with Maj. Borden of the air corps in Texas.

The Ayres Boals of Winnetka will be at home as usual after 5 this afternoon, and the Ernest S. Ballards of the same suburb will receive from 4 until 11 tonight so that friends, young and old, of all the family may drop in at their leisure to see all seven Ballard children who are here for a Christmas reunion.

Several of the younger members of the Washburne family will be absent from the clan Christmas dinner at the Hempstead Washburnes' in Lake Forest. Two of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Washburne's sons are away. Lt. John P. Washburne is a navigator on an army troop transport, and Richards is an advanced army air cadet.

Edwin W. Simses Having a Family Buffet Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims, who traditionally are at home to their friends on Christmas night in their East Bellevue place home, are cutting their party down to a family buffet supper this year. The party will be a gay one, however, for some of the Simses' children and grandchildren in the army and navy are here for the holidays—Lt. and Mrs. Frank W. Sims and their two sons from Detroit, Mich.; Army Air Cadet Peter Krupp Jr. from Indianapolis, Ind.; Naval Air Cadet Edwin Krupp from Iowa City, Ia., and Lt. and Mrs. Donald Fork from Washington, D. C.

The Benjamin B. Bryan Jr. family will be greatly diminished this Christmas, for Mr. Bryan left last week for the east after enlisting in the coast guard as a second class boatswain's mate. Sergt. Grant M. Bryan is at Camp Hood, with no

Judy Anne Niewold and all other good little boys and girls will rush for their Christmas stockings early this morning. Judy is the Harold Niewold's young daughter and attends the Faulkner school, where Santa played a pre-Christmas visit the other morning. The toys the children brought to the school Christmas tree are being distributed at Fellowship House today.

Merry Christmas!

DON'T S-SH! Be sure to tell EVERY one that vaudeville's back again! And gee, doesn't it seem GOOD . . .!

"For Me and My Gal" is dedicated to it. To . . . "the man with the baggy pants, the clown, the disappearing rabbit . . ." The story opens some time before the first World war and carries its characters thru the armistice.

The phrase "human document" has been greatly overworked but that's just what "For Me and My Gal" is. It digs right down into the hearts of folks and shows 'em up for what they really are, the while giving you one thrilling vaudeville show after another, loads of beloved old songs, picturesque costumes of days not long gone by, and as touching a love story as has ever been staged or screened.

Judy Garland and George Murphy are a small time singing and dancing team as the action opens. . . . Then George loses Judy to Gene Kelly, a handsome ham, smart enough to recognize the fact that clever little Jo Hayden is what he needs to help him along.

You spend about three-fourths of the picture hating young Mr. Kelly and longing to push in the leering empty face of the egotistical opportunist Harry Palmer, who, however, thru Kelly's shrewd acting, shows flashes of real feeling that awaken a reluctantly responsive chord in you. . . . The last reels witness, by benefit of war, the translation of a heel into a hero and the finalé proves again that the heart, after all, usually speaks the truth. [Not that I wouldn't have liked to see Mr. Murphy win Miss Garland. But I'll take things as they are—for if he HAD, he'd have been the heel and—me no like.]

Judy Garland has gone a long way since she was just a little girl singing. She has developed into an emotional actress of scope and power. But there's something about it all that bothered me. She's too thin, too finely drawn. Slow down, Judy!

George Murphy you like better and better as time goes on. He is the perfect friend as well as dancer in this number. . . . Other intuitive characterizations are those of Marta Eggert and Ben Blue.

Situations are unexpected and full of punch. Final scenes will carry you back to the days when Elsie Janis and her gang entertained and made happy the boys overseas.

"For Me and My Gal" is a right gorgeous Christmas present from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to us, for which let us return thanks.

See you tomorrow.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Doris E. Epperson, Roma Ann Scott, and Natalie G. Reebel (left to right) are among the 12 WAACs in the 6th service command to receive Christmas promotions, the first given in the corps since its organization last May.

Twelve WAAC officers in the 6th service command yesterday became the first members of the corps to receive promotions since the army auxiliary was authorized by congress on May 14. Announcement of the Christmas promotions was made by Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand of the 6th service command. Col. John S. Sullivan pinned the new insigniae on the girls.

Doris E. Epperson, WAAC service command director, was advanced to first officer, equivalent to the army rank of captain. Six other officers attached to the Chicago office were promoted to second officers, equivalent to the army rank of first lieutenant. They are Natalie G. Reebel, assistant WAAC director; Roma Ann Scott, public relations officer; Mary W. Stephenson and Ruth T. Woodworth, Chicago recruiting officers, and Mary Anita Bordeaux and Gertrude J. Peebles, Negro recruiting officers.

At the same time, five other officers in the 6th service command, assigned outside of Chicago, received similar promotions. They are Marguerite B. Dennis and Margaret R. Stewart, assigned to Milwaukee; Arline M. Hall and Eleanor Mae Morrison, Detroit, and Evelyn Rundeles, Peoria.

We were going to give a rousing salute today to the women in war work who were spending Christmas on the job, but all we can find are the volunteers! For instance, the women crane operators at the American Bridge works in Gary have laid aside their overalls and equipment until tomorrow, and are putting in their 8 hours at home today with their families. It's much the same in other industries where women are working. Plants are adhering to WPB Director Donald Nelson's suggestion that Christmas be a holiday wherever possible. Thus, in most factories and mills only the continuous operation jobs are being manned, and few of these are held by women.

Classes in war training at the Illinois Institute of Technology have taken a one day holiday. The Coast Guard auxiliary [SPARs] has called a Christmas day recess. So have the WAACs and WAVES. Any one seeking information at either of these stations concerning enrollment will find some one around to pass out a booklet. Neither is expecting many customers, however.

The women war workers today are the volunteers. Women from hundreds of clubs and organizations in the Chicago area are providing food, entertainment, and gifts for service men at the service men's and U. S. O. centers and also in their homes.

The educational requirements for enlistment in the WAVES and SPARs, naval and coast guard auxiliaries, respectively, has been lowered, the navy has announced. Girls with two years of high school will be accepted now. Previous regulations called for a high school diploma.

Rear Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, said that high school graduation has been considered unnecessarily rigid for certain types of work to be done in both units. He estimated that 5,000 WAVES will be on active duty or in training by Jan. 1.

Another change provides that all volunteers must attend "boot" camps for preliminary training. There they will be chosen in aptitude tests for specialist schools. The classification of probationary officers also has been eliminated. All future officers hereafter will enter training as apprentice seamen.

Two Chicago WAVES, Miss Annabell Dean and Miss Janice G. Letts of Chicago, are members of the committee supervising holiday activities for WAVES at the Naval Training School for the women's reserve at Oklahoma A. & M. college, Stillwater, Okla. Three days of liberty from classwork and drill is the navy's Christmas gift to the 650 WAVES in training as apprentice seamen at Stillwater.

Kansas Housewife Wins Metropolitan Contract

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Marie Wilkins, Lawrence, Kas., housewife, who sang a leading rôle at the Metropolitan opera three weeks ago because Lily Pons had a cold, has been named a permanent member of the world famous musical organization. As usual, Metropolitan officials did not specify the terms of the lyric coloratura's contract, nor the rôles she will sing.

Courtney Reid to Be Wed to Ensign Today

"Something old" in the wedding ensemble of Miss Courtney Ann Reid when she becomes the bride of Ensign James H. Ingersoll this afternoon will be an antique amethyst pin set in pearls, which belonged to her great-great-grandmother, Elizabeth Mesam of London, England. The 4:30 o'clock ceremony in St. Paul's Episcopal church will be preceded by a program of Christmas music by Fred Cronheimer. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Reid, will give a reception in their Ellis avenue home.

Mrs. Robert S. Ingersoll will be her sister's matron of honor, and her little daughter, Lynn, is to be flower girl. Serving as bridesmaids will be Ensign Ingersoll's sisters, Mrs. John Coffin and Miss Barbara Ingersoll; Mrs. Max Freeman, Miss Elizabeth Low, and Miss Marjorie Shay. Robert Ingersoll, another son of the Roy C. Ingersolls of Winnetka, is to be best man. Robert Reid, the bride's brother; Mr. Coffin, Mr. Freeman, Dexter Richards, and Ensign Jerry Melum will usher. Among the guests will be the bride's grandmother, Mrs. John Reid, and her aunt, Mrs. Harvey M. Arndt of Detroit, Mich., and Ensign Ingersoll's grandmothers, Mrs. Stephen Ingersoll and Mrs. Edward Hinchliff of Galesburg, Ill. Ensign Ingersoll and his bride will have a 10 day wedding trip before he reports for duty.

Miss Joan Ketcham and Ensign Richard Carlson will be married at 4:30 o'clock today in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Ketcham of Kenilworth. Miss Jerry Ketcham will be her sister's maid of honor. Sally Vinnedge is to be flower girl and Niki Anderson ring bearer. The bridegroom will have Allen Gardiner as best man. Ensign Carlson, son of Mrs. Frederick Henkel of Winnetka and of Wallace Carlson of Chicago, will take his bride on a two-week trip before reporting for duty in Miami, Fla.

The Rev. Richard Lee of Hinsdale will officiate at 5 o'clock today at the marriage of his cousin, Earle Adare Channer Jr., and Miss Isabelle Johnson. The small ceremony will take place in the Kenilworth home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Homer H. Johnson. The bride will wear the wedding gown and veil of her oldest sister, Mrs. Gardiner B. Van Ness Jr., and another sister, Miss Caroline Johnson, will be her only attendant. Their brother, Horton, will give the bride away. Mr. Channer will be attended by his father. He and his bride will live on the north shore until he is called by the army air corps.

Sally Thanks Her Countless Friendly Aids

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Thruout the year, this department is devoted to calling upon our readers for help of various kinds—and we feel it is only fitting that on this day we take time to thank those who unfailingly exhibit a genuine feeling of "good will to men."

To the hundreds of readers who are always willing to give of their own possessions to supply some one in need, thru whom we have provided warm clothing, furniture, reading matter, and countless other items, we are deeply grateful.

We will always remember that one day last winter, when this column carried a request for blood donors for a young invalid undergoing his fifth operation, almost 100 persons in all walks of life responded instantly to our plea, ready to travel to the hospital, altho it was one of the most bitterly cold days of the year.

Our bulging "thank you" file is a constant encouragement in work which at times can be disheartening and depressing. It contains letters from children—painfully scrawled expressions of appreciation for good times at Tribune parties, notes in the shaky handwriting of the elderly or very ill, messages from service men who have received small gifts from readers in all parts of the country, and pleasant appreciations from donors who have found joy in giving.

To all of these, we pass on a message we recently received from a man who received help from the department several years ago—in all its simplicity and sincerity—"I wish you all the joys of the season, and may God bless you always."

Drive to Be Started Tomorrow to Round Up Inactive Nurses

Beginning tomorrow a drive will be started to locate inactive nurses and qualify them for either military or civilian duty as soon as possible. This announcement was made by Miss June A. Ramsey, special agent named by the United States public health department to conduct a survey of the state's nursing power.

Approximately 30,000 registered nurses in Illinois will receive questionnaires between tomorrow and Jan. 7. In addition to these, according to Miss Ramsey, there are scattered thruout the state many women who have been registered in other states and who are urged to respond to the need for nurses as soon as possible. Married as well as unmarried nurses are being sought.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

Letter to a Boy in a Tank.

It must have been Christmas last night where you are now, but it surely was neither white nor cold, unless the whiteness was that of the sands of the desert and the cold was that of the stars, but we wonder whether you heard then in the quiet we hope engulfed you the invisible voices of all of us here whose carols into that night were all for you. For they were for you. They were for you as they have always been for you, for mankind.

You may from time to time hear those who speak harshly of us here at home. They may tell you we had our Christmas trees again this year, and we did. We had Christmas trees, and we wore sprigs of Christmas holly, and we sent Christmas greetings to those far from us and dear to us, and we had Christmas bells, and last night they sang out thru the air, here so cold and clear, the same golden chants of all men of all time that have rung out every Christmas eve since you were born.

There doubtless were a few among us who did not hear them, but no matter how delicately attuned their ears or how strong the decibel of the chimes, they could never hear them, either in time of peace or time of war, for they were never really of us, as you know. They were those who thought this a Christmas as usual, a time ordained for them alone in their tight, smug little worlds. But you know them well. You have always known them. They deal in 30 pieces of silver and 30 times 30 pieces of souls. We mention them only to let you know that now, as ever, they are a tiny minority, and we did not ring our bells for them.

But we rang our bells. We rang them with fervor and hope. We rang them for you, and for those who are with you, and for those who have left you. We rang them in full knowledge of our omissions and commissions, of our transgressions and very human frailties.

We rang them for you. We rang them for the Man, little more than a boy, who died in Galilee. We rang them for the boy who fell in the Crusades. We rang them for the boy who fell at Saratoga, for the boy who fell in the battle of the Wilderness, for the boy who lies unknown and honored at Arlington, for the boy who fell in the jungle at Bataan and the boy who fell across the threshold guarding the tunnel thru the rock of Corregidor, for the boy who fell a comet of fire into the Pacific and the boy who sank beneath the flaming oil of the Atlantic.

We did not ring them in gayety. But have we ever? Have we not always rung them in exultation and in praise and in hope? We rang them that way again this year, as you would have wished us to, but with, too, a sorrow as deep as the deepest bass note of the bells.

We rang them because you are letting us ring them. We rang them because of the countries, those encased in blood and steel, where there are no bells left to ring, no exultation with which to ring them, no hope, no shreds of faith. And we will continue to ring them until you and peace are with us again.

A merry Christmas? Of course not. How could it be without you? But it was Christmas.

Thru the Looking Glass

We hope you all got scads of Christmas loot, just the kind you wanted. We hope too that you'll treasure your beauty possessions as they should be. Don't let today's abundance make you wasteful. The infinitesimal savings of money and materials that each of us should be responsible for can mount up to an imposing total for the whole nation. And what's more, a lot of the things we have so plentifully this year we won't have a year from now.

Be especially careful of your cologne sand perfumes. Use them sparingly and artfully, governed by the realization that imported oils, rare essences and even our own alcohol may not be so readily come by in the future. Keep your bottles well stoppered, and if you can possibly manage it, tuck them when not in use in some spot away from the light. If you have an atomizer with the kind of cap that foils evaporation by all means transfer your best perfume to it immediately.

This year, keep and use the little protective case in which your metal vanity may have arrived. Remember how you threw it away in other years? Now you should make it serve its real purpose. Shield your metal compacts from scratching and battering; no more of them are being made. The same goes for metal rouge cases and lipstick containers. From now on out they will probably be made of sturdy paper.

Your fine soaps should be treated tenderly. We'll have soap and lots of it, but the beautiful rich imported oils will be lacking. Unwrap your soaps, store them in a cool place and use them economically. Don't let them waste away in the water; make every smidge count.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Museum Closed Today.

As announced by Orr Goodson, acting director, the Field Museum of Natural History will be closed all day Christmas and New Year's day.

Sunday Evening Club Will Hear Educator Speak

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison.

The New Year's message to the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall will be delivered Sunday night by Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson college, Washington, Pa. Dr. Hutchison, a World war flying ace, was an educator in Turkey and Iran prior to his call to Washington and Jefferson. Louisa Hoe Moller of Washington, D. C., soloist for Monday night's Apollo club "Messiah," will sing selections from the oratoria before the club. Dr. Hutchison, who will be introduced by Clifford W. Barnes, has developed a unique student church on his campus, with its own student board of deacons and representation in the Presbyterian general assembly.

Fourth Presbyterian church is changing its traditional watchnight service on New Year's eve to a prayer and praise service at 4 o'clock New Year's day, when ministers from various invaded countries will assist in devotions. New Year's eve will be devoted to fellowship and refreshments, beginning at 10:30 p. m.

Cenacle convent, 513 Fullerton parkway, will observe New Year's day with a special retreat for women. Retreatants will convene Thursday night and observe a holy hour at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Raymond P. Hillinger of the archdiocesan mission band will be retreat master.

Twenty-five of the most popular Christmas carols will be woven into a carol fantasia, "Carols of Christmas," to be sung Sunday night by the choirs of Mount Zion Lutheran church, 61st and May streets. Walter C. Bludorn directs the choirs.

"The Negro in American Democracy" will be the subject presented to the monthly union ministers' meeting, 19 South La Salle street, Monday morning, by A. Philip Randolph of New York. Mr. Randolph is the president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car porters.

Dr. Ralph H. Long, executive director of the National Lutheran council, has announced that there are 440 Lutheran pastors serving as chaplains in the various services.

The Service Men's club of Coppin African Methodist Episcopal church, 5633 South Michigan avenue, announces a special observance of the 80th anniversary of the signing of the emancipation proclamation, Sunday afternoon, Jan. 3.

Francis B. Sayre, former high commissioner to the Philippines, will be principal speaker at a conference on "The Christian Church and the Coming Peace" Tuesday afternoon and night at Presbyterian Theological seminary, 2330 North Halsted street.

In accordance with President Roosevelt's proclamation of New Year's day as a day of prayer, all except two of the Christian Science churches of Chicago will hold special services New Year's morning. The two churches not holding services are the Sixteenth and the Twenty-first.

The Rev. Otto H. Theiss, executive secretary of the International Walther league, will be the vespers preacher Sunday afternoon in Kimball hall. Invitations have been extended to 400 Luthern service men of the area.

Churches in War Work

[The Chicago Tribune would be glad to hear of unique war activities of clergymen, members of religious communities, and congregations. Address the Rev. John Evans, Religion Editor, Chicago Tribune.]

The Rev. Harper McCune, Disciples church, Hartford City, Ind., has been given charge of all civilian defense activities in Blackford county. Men in uniform attending services at Grand Avenue Methodist church, Kansas City, Mo., are photographed in a group with each given a copy to send back home. Phonograph records of services in churches of Durham, Conn., are being prepared for dispatch to service men. Each recording has a spoken message of greeting from the service man's family. Recordings have been sent to points between Australia and Ireland.

In Monroe, N. C., the beer parlor cannot compete with proxy mothers for Camp Sutton soldiers. The Lutheran pastor of the community is credited with organizing mothers of all faiths into mothers by proxy. Cards with the words "Mother by Proxy" hung in windows of homes assures a cheery reception.

Christ Church cathedral, St. Louis, Mo., is no longer closed on Sunday nights. Its spacious parish center is turned over to the young folk for entertaining service men. Not goody-goody games like charades, anagrams, and ring around the rosy. They dance. Songs are led by a popular orchestra vocalist. A committee of service men handles the discipline.

St. Chrysostom's Episcopal, 1424 North Dearborn parkway, and Edgewater Presbyterian, 1020 Bryn Mawr avenue, are among Chicago churches with well developed programs for service men. Under the Rev. Edwin W. Todd, assistant minister, First Congregational church, Union Square, is organizing Sunday nights for service men of the near west side schools.

Hostesses of Grace Episcopal church, Standish, Mich., recently stepped in to relieve a headache shared by local army authorities and relatives and friends of soldiers to be. Arenac county inductees, reporting at Standish at 10 p. m., had to wait several hours for the train to take them to camp. Bored by the long wait, many selectees attempted to drink up the visible supply of alcoholic beverages. None succeeded, but results of attempts set the Rev. Eric J. Whiting to thinking.

He converted the basement of his church into a temporary home. Cards, songs, and refreshments served by women who have relatives in service, whiled the time pleasantly away. At train time, the selectees are given cigarets, a cigar, and a choice of magazines.

Thirty members of the General Ministerial association of Buffalo, N. Y., each spend an afternoon once a month in the army induction and recruiting center to counsel with soldiers to be. Mrs. Smiley Williams of the Presbyterian church of Hattiesburg, Miss., four miles from Camp Shelby, is in charge of an organization which obtains rooms, jobs, companionship for soldiers' wives and sweethearts who come to visit or remain. Cots are put into Sunday school rooms and parish houses. Two hundred fifty service men, on the average, sleep in 14 Baltimore, Md., churches each night thru a coöperatively developed program.

prospects of returning for a holiday visit, but Mrs. Bryan and young David, who is at home from Hotchkiss, hoped that Sergt. Benjamin B. Bryan III. would be able to come from Camp Livingston for Christmas.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Having Family Dinner.

There will be 15 around the dinner table today in Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's Astor street house. Mr. and Mrs. John De Koven Bowen and their three children have come from their model farm in Charlottesville, Va., to spend Christmas with the family group, which also will include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., Mrs. Louise De Koven Phelps and her son, Peter; Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward M. Blair and her baby; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mrs. George R. Dean. Young Mrs. Blair is staying with her husband's family until he returns from a mission to Africa with the navy. His brothers also are serving their country, Lt. [j.g.] Bowen Blair on a destroyer and Pvt. William McCormick Blair Jr. with the army in San Antonio, Tex.

Mrs. Frode Jensen has brought her two little daughters, Alexandra and Karen, from Syracuse, N. Y., to stay with her father, John R. Leonard, while Capt. Jensen is serving overseas with the base hospital unit of Syracuse university. The little Jensen girls will share their Christmas with their four young cousins, the William Turpins' two sons and the son and daughter of the Daniel Leonards, who all will be gathered in Mr. Leonard's Winnetka home.

George Farnham Family Here to Spend Holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Farnham and their two little daughters arrived on Sunday from New Haven, Conn., to spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Farnham's parents, the James B. Forgans, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Farnham's sister, Mrs. Robert B. Upham Jr., and her husband will miss the family reunion, however, as he just has been accepted for officers training at Lamp Lee, where they will celebrate the holiday.

The junior Fred W. Fairmans, who have come from Washington, D. C., for Christmas with his parents in Winnetka, will go to the J. Morse Elys for Christmas dinner today. Mr. Ely's and Mrs. Fairman's mother, Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, and Mr. Grannis will have a family party around the tree this morning.

Another large family which will be celebrating Christmas together is that of the Homer Dixons, whose son-in-law and daughter, the Alexander C. Fletchers, and their two children, have come from Minneapolis, Minn. Also gathered around the family tree will be Mrs. Wallace Wakem [Lucia Dixon] and her baby daughter; Mrs. Dixon Agar and her son, Woody, and Miss Joan Dixon.

Supper-Dance Will Be Given for Debutantes.

The day will have a pleasant climax for the debutantes and their beaux, as there is to be a supper-dance tonight at the Racquet club. The hostess will be Mrs. Robert Joseph Folonie; the debutante, her daughter, Miss Roberta Josephine, known to her friends as "Bobbie." The party will start at 11.

Miss Folonie is at home for the holidays from the Brownmoor school at Santa Fe, N. M., to which she will return on Jan. 6. Previously she attended the Girls' Latin school and the Fermata school at Aiken, S. C.

Tonight brings the University Colony club's annual Christmas ball, the 10th such one, at the Shoreland hotel. Former members, young marrieds, the club's older group, and its college age members all are invited to the party.

★ Your Stars Today ★

By WYNN

Friday, Dec. 25.

May you have a happy, thoughtful Christmas! Today's morning favors the typical ceremonies of the day. Afternoon and evening call for serious contemplation, solution of problems; avoid decisions based on negative emotions or tension.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today your birthday hazards career progress thru impractical impulses; watch reputation. Partners, other folks bring benefit. Added working responsibilities. Danger: Jan. 9-31; May 25-June 1.

Tomorrow.

Tendency to be too free with feelings and assets; conserve both.

Arden Shore Boys to Be Guests at Great Lakes

The high spot of the Christmas holidays for the boys at the Arden Shore winter camp will be Christmas day dinner at the naval training station at Great Lakes. Rear Adm. John Downes will be the official host, but as in other years it will be a generous and hospitable group of enlisted men who will welcome the boys, dine with them, and take them on a tour of the premises. The annual meeting of the Arden Shore association board will be held on Jan. 25 at the Chicago Athletic association. Mrs. Robert B. Gregory is honorary chairman of the board, Mrs. Proehl H. Jaklon of Lake Forest is president.

Outings Scheduled for Jan. 2 and 3 by 3 Hiking Clubs

In coöperation with the OCD physical fitness division, three Chicago clubs have scheduled hikes for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 2 and 3. It has been announced that all hikes will be held regardless of the weather.

The Prairie club will hike from Lincolnwood to Edgebrook, four miles, on Saturday, Jan. 2. The group will leave Northwestern station at 1:26 o'clock that afternoon. Part of the walk is long the north branch of the Chicago river.

On Sunday, Jan. 3, the members of the North Shore Hiking club will go on an eight mile hike along the lake shore between Winnetka and Highland Park. They will leave from the Winnetka Village hall at 9:40 o'clock in the morning.

On that same day, hikers from the Outing club will walk eight miles on the Des Plaines river trail thru the forest preserves north of Des Plaines. They will leave at Milwaukee and Lawrence avenues by bus at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Engagements

At a tea Wednesday in their home in Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. O. Waldemar Martin announced the engagement of their daughter, Muriel Ann, to Midshipman Edgar King Collison Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Collison, also of Evanston. Miss Martin attended Northwestern university. Her fiancé, a graduate of DePauw university, is at the naval reserve training school at the University of Notre Dame.

The engagement of Miss Elsie Jane von der Lippen to Army Air Corps Cadet John Richard Sawyer, son of Mrs. Frederick von der Lippen of Wilmette. Miss von der Lippen attended Carleton college at Northfield, Minn. Cadet Sawyer, who expects to be commissioned in February, is at present in advanced flight training at Waco, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Matt of South Wabash avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Lois, to Corp. Donald W. Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dean Edgar of South Harvard avenue.

EXCERPT FROM A LETTER:

It's from one of our boys but it's been written before—said before, and in the minds of thousands

The men in the Army want to think that despite the war, Christmas is continuing in their homes. Warm homes and gay homes festive despite their absence - with all the trimmings that can be scraped together in a wartime world.

We leave you with that. What more could you add, except to wish them well wherever they are and this day make a solemn pledge that of our petty troubles and privations they shall never hear. And that we will be as unselfish as they have shown themselves to be and prove it by giving all we can and more of everything and anything to help, not only to win, but win faster

HAWKS PLAY CANADIENS TODAY IN MONTREAL

PICTURES SHOW LAX OFFICIATING IN 'ROUGH' GAME

U.S.C.-Irish Referee Behind Play.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

On this day of peace and good will it may be incongruous to discuss the football game between Southern California and Notre Dame which the public has been led to believe was the most bitter battle of the 1942 intercollegiate season. Indeed, as we peruse again the clippings of the stories of our Pacific coast contemporaries, we understand why many Chicagoans think the Trojans and the Irish staged the best riot of modern football.

The statistics support the theory for five players, three from Notre Dame and two from Southern California, were ejected from the game; Trojan substitutes rushed to the field on one occasion, 17 penalties were inflicted, and members of both teams engaged in what was reported as a "free for all" after the final whistle.

Relationship to Continue.

The athletic relationships between Notre Dame and Southern California are too firmly founded and directed by men who are thoro sportsmen to be riven by these events. It is not necessary to repeat the subsequent explanations and expressions of friendliness. These do not change the fact that the participants have been charged in the public mind with slugging nor the fact that the indictment has been reiterated by Los Angeles sports writers.

We saw photographs of the mêlée at the conclusion of the game. Since then we have been curious to see the complete film of this contest. Our wishes were granted last night when the University of Notre Dame forwarded the film. It was exhibited before other members of THE TRIBUNE sports department and two prominent officials of the Western conference.

'Twas Just Mildly Rough.

The film was a keen disappointment. We had expected to see fistic encounters worthy of Golden Gloves billing, but the only approach was a wild hook by a Southern California man that had no target apparently and a few instances of illegal stiff arming on the defensive charges. The game was hard fought and well played, but it was second grade stuff to what we have seen in the midwest. Michigan and Notre Dame and Michigan and Ohio State, for instance, staged slam bang scraps with more vicious tackling and blocking in any one period than the entire 60 minutes of this Southern California-Notre Dame game.

We saw last night the head on block by Bob McBride, Notre Dame guard, that bowled over Bill Seixas, Trojan guard, for which McBride and Seixas were sent from the game. We also saw the block by a Notre Dame lineman on a Trojan backer up which occurred in front of the Southern California players' bench and was occasion for the Trojan reserves rushing to the field. But these blocks were legal. They were midwestern football at its best. Rough? Certainly, for football is rough, but there wasn't a punch in a reel of this action.

Unnecessary Roughness Explained.

"When a player is put out of the game," one of our Western conference officials commented at this stage, "the crowd always believes it is for dirty play. Even unnecessary roughness, unless it involves slugging or dirty tactics, is no excuse for ejection from the game. Unnecessary roughness carries a penalty of loss of 15 yards. The picture does not show violations warranting disqualification."

Our commentator assured us that George Tobin, Notre Dame right guard, was sent from the game in the last period by Referee Louis Conlan for talking back to an official.

"That's poor officiating," the other of the Western conference men said. "If I sent players to the sidelines for every criticism delivered during the heat of a game I would be a mighty poor official. The referee not only is impartial; he must be cool headed. He must not become irritated even when conduct warrants a penalty. The supreme penalty is expulsion, and it must be deserved by odious conduct.

The Answer: Poor Officiating.

"Technically, I would say the Southern California-Notre Dame game was not well officiated. The picture shows that the referee is always coming up from behind after he has terminated play. He should, at least some of the time, be parallel to the action."

Well, as we said before, this picture is a flop; that is, if you wanted to understand why five players were sent out of the game. We're mighty glad Southern California and Notre Dame will keep on playing football, but if our Pacific coast confreres have further comment we do wish they would see the pictures; or, better yet, observe more midwestern football games, where an honest head on block is applauded and never booed.

It Wouldn't Be Christmas Without Sonja

Chicago has learned to expect TWO visitors each Christmas—Santa Claus and this little lady, who, as every one knows, is Sonja Henie, queen of the figure skaters. Miss Henie is shown rehearsing for the Chicago opening of her Hollywood Revue in the Stadium tonight. The cast numbers 100.

CONSIDER DORAIS FOR 1943 COACH OF DETROIT PROS

Charles E. [Gus] Dorais, athletic director and football coach of the University of Detroit, is being considered, among others, for the post as football coach of the Detroit Lions of the National Football league, Owner Fred L. Mandel Jr., of the Lions said last night in Chicago, following a report from Detroit that Dorais had been offered a long term contract with the Lions.

Mandel, however, denied that the report had been authorized or that a deal had been made, while admitting he had discussed the proposition with Dorais not only recently, but as far back as two years ago.

Rumor Long Term Contract.

Dorais, former Notre Dame teammate of the late Knute Rockne and a city councilman in Detroit, was reported to be giving serious consideration to a proposed five year contract said to call for $12,000 a year if the league operates and $7,500 if it doesn't.

The report also intimated that should Dorais give up his university post, his place would be taken by his back field coach, Lloyd Brazil, a Detroit alumnus.

He'd Like to Have Gus.

Mandel, who is in Chicago for the holidays, declared he would be very happy if Dorais should decide to join the Lions and expressed himself as sorry he couldn't confirm the story, adding:

"It would be a great thing for Detroit and the National Football league if we were able to obtain Mr. Dorais."

The Lions, in the doldrums for the last few seasons, lost all 11 of their league games this season. Their present coach is John Karcis, who succeeded William M. Edwards in mid-season.

Charles, Bivins Matched for Cleveland Bout Jan. 7

Cleveland, O., Dec. 24 (AP).—Matchmaker Larry Atkins announced tonight the signing of Ezzard Charles, 20 year old Cincinnati slugger, and Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins for a Jan. 7 bout.

It's Christmas, Which Means, of Course, Sonja Henie's Show

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The big moment has just about arrived for those thousands of Chicago ice fans who dote on Sonja Henie and the clever folk who compose her "Hollywood Ice Revue." Tonight the little lady, amusement pet of our merry city these many holiday seasons, and her huge supporting cast will glide out on the Chicago Stadium rink in a brand new show. Many adjectives are applicable, but perhaps the entire forecast can be covered by the showman's cliche, "This year's production is bigger and better than ever."

After all, there isn't much need of telling Chicago skating enthusiasts what Sonja and her associates are going to do to entertain them. It's a constant devotion that Miss Henie enjoys personally and she is always supported by splendid performers, an ensemble which each year presents just the right proportion of newcomers and old favorites. For days box offices have been swamped with ticket purchasers and not one has asked the title of the new production numbers.

Sonja On for 50 Minutes.

This season's revue, as usual, is divided into two acts. Each act has a dozen numbers, and the star is featured in three of them in each division of the program. In the two and a half hour program Miss Henie is on the ice about 50 minutes.

Following the overture by Jack Pfeiffer and his Hollywood orchestra, the company gets things under way with a beautiful arrangement which is entitled "Winter Revelry." First of the featured performers to appear will be two sisters from Toronto, Dorothy and Hazel Caley, who are hailed as the "world's best precision duo," however that distinction is determined.

Entire Cast in Patriotic Number.

Following the Caley girls' number will be "Ostrich Capers" by a fixture in the Henie troupes, Fritz Dietl. Fritz, you'll recall, is the tall fellow who makes himself a great deal taller by skating on stilts.

And then it will be time for the audience to get their first look of the evening at Miss Henie. Assisted by James Hawley, Geary Steffan, and the entire company of 100, she will make her evening's bow in a patriotic spectacle listed as "To the Colors."

Miss Henie Returns.

Next the customers will see "Trio of Grace," the performers under this billing being Iris Gordon, Jean Sturgeon, and Elizabeth Kennedy. And after that, "Fleet's In," with James Kelly and John Van Doren impersonating gobs. Seventh on the program will be "Flamingo Flare," after which Dietl will come back for another stilt exhibition.

"Hula Fantasy," in which Miss Henie makes her second appearance of the evening, is in the nature of a perennial encore. It's been wowing 'em for several seasons. The fans all know Freddy Trenkler, who follows "Hula Fantasy" with his familiar "Bouncing Ball of the Ice." The first act closes with "Minstrel Memories," in which Miss Henie is cast as the Belle of New Orleans.

"The Swan" Is Perennial.

After "Sophisticated Swing" and "Double Date" in the second act Miss Henie presents another of her well known show stoppers, "The Swan." The "Garden of Jive" is a big and sprightly number and is followed by a novelty, "A Gay Blade."

John Flanagan, one of the newer comics, does a specialty called "The Autograph Seeker," then comes a number familiar to ice show addicts, tho something of a novelty in a Henie show, "Speed and Leaps." Leo Freisinger of Chicago, James Caesar, Charles Hadlett and George Caveny put on this thrill interlude. Then there's "Latin Rhythm" by the boys and girls of the ensemble, "The Tango," in which Miss Henie this year skates with Steffan. "Army Antics" is the final comedy number and the show winds up elegantly with "Season's Greetings."

WILLIAMS MAKES MORE NEWS; HE'S RBI KING FOR '42

Ted Drives In 137 Runs; Joe Di Maggio 2d.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox's batting prize, proved last season that it isn't so much how many you hit but when you hit 'em. At least, he made it work out that way on a run production basis. With his pace setting .356 average he whacked 137 runs across the plate, 17 more than his bat accounted for with a .406 average in 1941.

The American league's official slugging figures, announced yesterday by the statisticians, showed that Williams had room to spare while lifting the RBI crown from the head of Yankee Joe DiMaggio. A year ago, Yankee Joe was tops with 125, but last season he slid back to 114, which still was enough for a second place finish. The other Yanks were talented in this respect, Charley Keller driving in 108 for third place and Joe Gordon climbing to 103 from 87 in 1941.

Hurlers Are Kind to Ted.

Williams also was the pitchers' best customer in the base on balls department. They rationed him 145 walks, but they could hardly be blamed for taking the easy way out occasionally, especially when there were men on the bases. Only three others exceeded the 100 gratuity mark. Keller, being a dangerous man, walked 114 times. Les Fleming, the Indians' first baseman, totaled 106, as did Harlond Clift of the Browns. The latter club apparently developed the pass technique to a high degree. As a group, they walked 609 times, 18 more than either the Yankees and Red Sox, who however, were better run producers.

The Yankees figured in the miscellaneous batting in other ways. Gordon fanned 95 times and grounded into 22 double plays, both being tops. On the other hand, Keller hit into only five twin killings, equalling the league record for 150 or more games. Frank Crosetti, who for six straight seasons was hit the most by enemy pitchers but was beaten out for this honor by Dom DiMaggio in 1941, won back his title, getting himself into the path of pitched balls nine times.

Yanks Have Runs to Burn.

The Yankees, as a team, were sort of handy about driving in runs. They accounted for 744 but neglected to hold any of these in storage for world series combat. The Red Sox picked off a little glory by hitting into only 94 double plays, tying the league record. In the other direction, the Athletics hit into five double plays in one game, which the statisticians believe, set a record.

The team records, which, of course, reflect the work of the individuals, make it evident that James Dykes, the White Sox manager, didn't have to wear out his eyesight last summer watching his men cross the plate. The Sox drove in 487 runs for last honors, a far cry from the 744 fashioned by the Yankees and the 699 by Boston. Don Kolloway was high among the Chicagoans with 60, followed by Luke Appling, who drove in 53.

SO. CALIFORNIA CENTER IS FAIR AFTER OPERATION

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 24 (AP).—Alex Hannum, 19 years old, freshman center on the University of Southern California basketball team, was reported in fair condition tonight at Sisters hospital after undergoing an operation for acute appendicitis. Dr. Charles J. Grenauer, who performed the operation, said Hannum was stricken during the day. U. S. C. will play Canisius college here Saturday night.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE conductor of the Wake in extending a Merry Christmas to friends of this department is devoting the column this morning to contributions dealing with a day sacred to Christians everywhere.

A Hymn of Peace.

He came on earth to bring men peace,
To wipe the tears from sorrow's cheek;
He came that hate and war might cease
And that the troubled world might seek
To live in happy amity
Thru justice, truth, and charity.

He came for peace, and lo, the earth
Is drenched in human gore!
As if to ridicule His birth
And all His sufferings ignore;
As if His life were lived in vain
Since man is by his brother slain.

O, let us beg of Him today
To stir us by His living word,
That we may put our hates away
And sheathe the sanguinary sword;
That harmony may be unfurled
And peace may conquer all the world.
—T. E. B.

Christmas Carol.

Moonlight on the hills
Flocks of sheep at ease
Angels in the sky
Serenading Peace.
Mary's new born Son
Lying in the hay;
God's great gift of love
This merry Christmas day.

May we see His Star
Melting into day
And the shades of night
Forever pass away;
Shepherds from the hills,
Wise men from afar
Follow in the gleam
Of the Bethlehem Star.

May the songs of praise
Angels do impart
And the "Kindly Light"
Come into our heart,
Hatred, envy, strife,
May forever cease
And the world again
Adore the Prince of Peace.
—W. J. Griffith.

This

Christmas tree shall be my house, and every limb
of family shall be here to see that lights of love don't dim. I'll ask them for their presence and the

Wherever You Are.

Wherever you are, wherever you go,
We who love you would have you know
No land is ever too distant or far
To know the light of Bethlehem's star.

Its radiant glow will gleam thru space
Beyond all bounds of time or place,
Its steadfast promise of peace on earth
Will soon again know glad re-birth.

O, Holy Star, on this silent night,
Bathe those we love in your gentle light,
Lead them victors o'er land and foam
Down the long, sweet trail that leads to home!
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

No Rationing, Please.

O, let us not ration Christmas
Let's make it merry and gay,
Because it's the nicest season
That ever has come our way.

O, let us not ration Christmas
In a world that's mad with war,
Let's have the music—the candles—
We never needed them more.

O, let us not ration Christmas
The boys would not have it so
Let's do our best to be happy
In every way that we know.

Altho our homes may be lonely—
And hearts be desolate, too,
O, let us not ration Christmas—
Whatever else we must do.
—Hilda Butler Farr.

The Christmas Story.

O, there are tongues that ridicule
Those things I name of greater worth,
Such as the worship of our King
And all the glory of His birth.
I know that I am out of tune
With doctrines that have brought dismay
For I believe and still enjoy
The story told of Christmas day.

I cannot ring the curtain down
Forever on this scene of old,
For faith has stayed and held my hand
With words I treasure more than gold.
"For unto you is born this day,
A Savior, which is Christ the King."
And with these words I am content,
No matter what the scoffers bring.

So once again we join in praise
To Him who was so lowly born
But whose eternal love has saved
And freed our hearts from doubt and scorn.
No story told of mortal king
Can guide our feet when they would stray,
As this we hear from Christian tongues
Upon our Savior's natal day.
—G. Gordon Carter.

A Farmer's Plight.

We're staying home having meatless days
While we feed the world with the crop we raise
We shiver while hearing a fireside chat
But it's a Merry Christmas in spite of that.
—R. F. D.

Merry Christmas to Our Soldiers.

Young pilots piercing heaven in their sweep
Of great and swift-as-lightning air machines,
Strong seamen daring death to plow the deep
With floating fortresses and submarines,
And men who march afoot or crawl in tanks
Across the reeling, mine infested land,
Brave soldiers all whatever be your ranks
A Merry Christmas, O victorious band!
Nor should we once forget the loyal souls,
Less honored but as grand and glorious,
Who toil at home where ammunition rolls
From factories to make victorious
Their comrades at the front. To all, good cheer
And Christmas joy thruout this war torn year.
—Nicholas Lloyd Ingraham.

CHICAGOANS SEE CHANCE TO GAIN IN LEAGUE RACE

Next Stop Is Detroit Sunday Night.

Games Today

Chicago at Montreal.
New York at Detroit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 24.—The Chicago Blackhawks, who recently have toppled from first to fourth place in the National Hockey league, but still are rated one of the class teams of the circuit because of four victories in five matches with the startling Toronto Maple Leafs, will arrive here tomorrow morning and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon will be engaged in a hockey match with Montreal Canadiens. The Canadiens, highly rated before the season opened, have been bobbing in and out of the league cellar, alternating the dubious honor with the New York Rangers.

It has been a long time since the Hawks have consented to an afternoon game. It is said they became prejudiced against afternoon play several years ago when they performed in their own stadium on a New Year's afternoon. On that occasion some fan, suspected of having a holiday hangover, showered the rink with herring. None of the players was injured but an especially briny fish caught a Chicago sports writer squarely in the face as he looked up to determine the source of the piscatorial shower, according to reports circulated here.

They Don't Like Matinées.

Fortunately, it was observed, the reporter's paper wasn't publishing on the holiday and he was able to get back in shape before having to write. But the Hawks never have liked the matinée idea since and consented to tomorrow afternoon's affair only because the game is to be played far from Chicago in a city where there is a rumored shortage of herring.

The Canadiens are in fifth place, outside the Stanley Cup circle unless they rise. They are not in fifth place because of the Hawks, however. They have lost 12 games while winning five and tying three. They beat the Hawks, 5 to 2, at the time for the Chicagoans' lone earlier visit here this season. In Chicago they spotted the Hawks three goals, then tied them, 3 to 3. The last time the Canadiens were in the Windy City the Hawks won, 5 to 2.

No Danger of a Tumble.

The Hawks, despite their presence in fourth place, are not in danger of being overtaken tomorrow by the fifth placers. The Hawks are three and a half games ahead of the fellows from here.

According to the scorecard man, the Hawks are coming to town without two of their players, Bob Carse and Reg Bentley, oldest of the three Hawk Bentley brothers. Cully Dahlstrom was put in a practice competition with Bob and Reg in the last two days of Chicago rehearsals and Cully was chosen as the lad to make the trip. It has been indicated that Bill Thoms, who had been filling in on defense before Art Wiebe rejoined the Hawks, would be back on the line with Doug and Max Bentley.

Chicago Leads in Scoring.

Altho Dick Irvin's team has played two more games than the visitors, the latter are ahead in both the goals for and against columns. Chicago has scored 66 goals in 18 games, to 58 for the Canadiens in 20, and has been scored on 63 times against 87 for the Montreal club.

Two Hawk players, Doug and Max Bentley, top the leading Canadien, Buddy O'Connor, in points. The Bentleys are tied for fifth place with Gaye Stewart of Toronto and Buzz Boll of Boston with 25 points apiece. O'Connor is 10th with 21.

Syl Apps Has 29.

The Hawks' high scorers are topped by Syl Apps of Toronto with 29 points; Bill Cowley of Boston with 28; and Billy Taylor and Lorne Carr, both of Toronto, with 27 and 26, respectively. Red Hamill of Chicago is tied with Gordy Drillon of Montreal, one of the greatest scorers of all time until a recent slump set in. Each has accounted for 19 points, but the Chicago forward leads his Montreal opponent in actual goals, 15 to 11.

A victory for the Hawks would enable them to creep up on the leaders, Boston and Toronto, who are now three and a half and two and a half games, respectively, ahead. The Hawks will leave for Detroit after the game, to play the Red Wings Sunday. Lineup:

CHICAGO.		MONTREAL.
Gardiner	G	Bibeault
Seibert	R. D.	Lamoureaux
Tuten	L. D.	Portland
Thoms	R. W.	Benoit

GEORGIA TECH TO MAKE BOWL TRIP IN 3 SECTIONS

Squad Assembles Today for Journey to Dallas.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 24 (AP).—Georgia Tech's football players, all set to enjoy Christmas dinner at home, will begin assembling here tomorrow prior to departure for Dallas where they will face the University of Texas in the Cotton bowl.

Coaches, after a final check of the strategy they have cooked up for the Texans, also prepared for the jaunt in which the squad will travel in three separate contingents.

The first group will depart tomorrow afternoon, to be followed by a second group Saturday morning. Coach Bobby Dodd will bring up the rear with the final group Saturday afternoon. The first group will be in charge of Head Coach W. A. Alexander and is scheduled to work out in Memphis Saturday.

Dodd's contingent will drill in Memphis Sunday, while the second bunch will take a different route, going by way of New Orleans. Practice will be resumed in Dallas Monday.

Tho Backs Clint Castleberry, Ralph Plaster, and Pat McHugh are on the ailing list, they are being counted on to play New Year's day.

SUGAR BOWLERS TOIL.

Edgewater Park, Miss., Dec. 24 (AP).—Disregarding Christmas as a rest period, Tennessee and Tulsa football squads made plans to spend the day at practice tomorrow and plunged into the final week of hard work for the Sugar bowl game Jan. 1 in New Orleans.

Coach John Barnhill of Tennessee, who arrived with the Tennessee squad last night, put the Vols thru a skull drill during the evening and had the team out this morning for the beginning of the two-a-day practice routine lasting until New Year's eve.

Reports reached him Coach Henry Frnka already had Tulsa five days into a heavy training program at Bay St. Louis, Miss., only 25 miles westward along the Gulf of Mexico.

Coach Henry Frnka drove the golden hurricane thru a long workout of defensive tactics to be employed against the Vol attack. Frnka expressed concern today over the success enjoyed by reserves who impersonated the Tennessee offensive. A second viewing of the Tennessee game picture added to his worries.

Pete Annex, freshman tail back who impersonated Bob Cifers, completed a number of passes against the varsity and Buddy Burris, varsity freshman transferred to the schockers and James Berry, another freshman guard, sliced thru time after time to open a way in the Tulsa secondary.

HOME PRACTICE CLOSES.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 24 (AP).—Alabama closed home practice for the Orange bowl game in a light workout this morning before being dismissed until Saturday, when the squad leaves for Miami.

Players whose homes are near enough will be permitted to spend Christmas there. The Alabama party is scheduled to entrain at 7:35 a. m. Saturday for Montgomery, Ala., where it will attend the Blue-Gray game, depart from there Saturday night, and arrive in Miami at 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

INDIANA ALUMNI WILL HONOR NINE PLAYERS MONDAY

Indiana university alumni of Chicago will pay their respects to the nine members of the Hoosier varsity football squad from this area at a dinner meeting Monday evening, in the Crystal room of the Sherman hotel. Coach Alvin [Bo] McMillin will review the past season and describe the motion pictures to be shown of 1942 games.

Heading the list of Chicago area players to be honored is Lou Saban, quarter back, of La Grange, who is captain elect of the team and who was voted by his teammates as their most valuable player for the 1942 season. Saban will be presented a gift by the Chicago alumni.

Others who formerly starred on Chicago area elevens, but now playing under the direction of McMillin, and who will be guests of honor at the dinner are: Jim Dewar, Oak Park, half back; Chuck Jacoby, St. Ignatius, half back; Bob Zimmy, St. Rita, tackle; Ed Bell, Austin, tackle; Pete Pihos, Austin, end; Mike Saban, La Grange, guard; Lou Gambino, Morton, half back, and Bob White, Joliet, full back, and captain of the Fighting Hoosiers during the last season.

Alex Campbell of Fort Wayne, United States district attorney for northern Indiana; Judge Ora Wildermuth of Gary, president of the Indiana university board of trustees, and George Highway, Bloomington, Ind., national secretary of the university's alumni association, will attend.

ROSAR GLAD TO GET CHANCE AS INDIAN CATCHER

Cleveland, O., Dec. 24 (AP).—Warren [Buddy] Rosar, former Yankee catcher, tonight was quoted by the Plain Dealer as saying, "I'll really be glad of a chance to be a first string catcher with the Cleveland Indians."

"I hope that's what I'll be in Cleveland," he told the newspaper after being reached at Buffalo, N. Y. "I never was in New York, you know, altho I usually worked about three days a week."

When announcement was made of a deal that sent Roy Weatherly and Oscar Grimes to New York for Rosar and Roy Cullenbine, Rosar expressed surprise and said he did not know whether he would report to the Indians.

Rosar told the Plain Dealer, however, that his railroad job in Buffalo was keeping him in good condition, that he would not need much training, but "if they want me to train right in Cleveland that'll be all right with me, too."

Injury Slows Georgia Star

Frankie Sinkwich, University of Georgia star, watches Dr. C. W. Jones inspect the ankle injury which forced him out of practice for the Rose bowl clash with U. C. L. A. New Year's day. Frankie insists the injury will not keep him out of the bowl game. [Acme Telephoto.]

Georgia Squad Puts Emphasis on Air Attack

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 24 (AP).—Georgia emphasized forward passing in a brisk workout today while its star, Frankie Sinkwich, sat on the sidelines nursing two injured ankles—just eight days before the Rose bowl football clash with U. C. L. A. Injuries may keep Sinkwich on the sidelines until Monday but he should be ready for the kickoff New Year's day. There is doubt, however, that he will be able to give his best.

His left ankle was injured in the last scrimmage the Bulldogs held in Athens, Ga., before they left for Pasadena. The right ankle was pulled badly in the last play of a hard scrimmage yesterday.

Butts Is Optimistic.

Coach Wally Butts was optimistic. He said Sinkwich was durable and could take it but it was evident he was more than just displeased over the circumstances of the injury. He had ordered a halt to the workout when Sinkwich asked that one more play be called.

Butts said, however, "You can't keep a guy who played one whole season with a broken jaw, out of the Rose bowl game. He'll be in there if he has to use crutches."

U. C. L. A. Drills on Defense.

U. C. L. A. divided its time today between offense and defense. Coach Babe Horrell had been emphasizing pass defense since the Bruins resumed work after the victory over Southern California Dec. 12. The board of strategy, including Line Coach Ray Richards and Scout Cecil Hollingsworth, has worked out a plan of defense it hopes will check the air-minded Southeastern Conference champions.

There is no high hope in the Bruin camp, however, on any set defense against the Georgia aerial bombardment. The coaching staff figures that if the Bruins do their job, which is that of alternating their air and ground attack, they will be very much in the ball game and will have possession of the ball long enough at least to hold Georgia even.

U. C. L. A.'s passing game may not be as sensational as Georgia's but it was good enough to win the Pacific coast title for the Bruins. Bob Waterfield pitched 12 touchdown passes to 10 by Sinkwich but the Bruin quarterback played nearly all the time, whereas Frankie shared his job with Sophomore Charlie Trippi.

CHICAGO C.Y.O. TO FIGHT MONDAY IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 24 [Special].—An amateur team from the Catholic Youth organization of Chicago will arrive Sunday for a series of bouts with New Orleans boxers in Municipal auditorium Monday. The event, sponsored by the Midwinter Sports association, is being held in conjunction with the carnival week of sports, which will have as its climax the Sugar bowl football game New Year's afternoon between Tulsa and Tennessee. A basketball attraction will bring together Stanford, national champion, and Great Lakes Wednesday.

The C. Y. O. fighters, accompanied by Athletic Director Jack Elder and Trainer Dick Fitzpatrick, will include the following:

Jim Saranello, 112 pounds; Jerry McLachan and Jonias Flores, 126; Sheldon Lewis and Dan Hickey, 135; Jim Egan, 147; Mikes Sarno, 175, and Blaze Zorich, heavyweight.

FORMER ATHLETE AT MISSISSIPPI PLANE VICTIM

Pensacola, Fla., Dec. 24 (AP).—Aviation Cadet Homer L. Hazel, 24 years old, former Mississippi football star and son of Homer H. Hazel, an All-American at Rutgers, was killed in a plane collision near McKinnonville, Fla., yesterday, the Pensacola naval air station announced today. Hazel's plane collided with one flown by Cadet John F. Mayer, who landed safely.

Hazel won nine letters at Mississippi, starring in football, baseball, and basketball. He captained the football team in 1941 and was named to a guard post on the All-Southeastern conference team the same year.

U. S. Reaches Compromise with Iowa on Tax Liens

Davenport, Ia., Dec. 24 [Special].—Five liens held by the government against the board of control of the University of Iowa, totaling $36,220.89 and arising out of taxes on admissions to athletic events from 1936 to 1939, have been discharged on a compromise, according to a notice filed in federal district court here today. The compromise figures were not given in the notice.

EAST AND WEST SQUADS SEEK TO POLISH OFFENSES

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 24 (AP).—Eastern football stars, running thru practice sessions at Santa Clara university, devoted today's preparation for their New Year's charity game with the west almost exclusively to passes.

As was the case yesterday, Paul Governali, Columbia half back, was the key figure in the aerial phase of the workouts. Co-Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and George Hauser of Minnesota, while building their attack around Governali, also gave attention to two alternates, Bill Daley of Minnesota and Steve Filipowicz of Fordham.

Kielbasa Back in Action.

Max Kielbasa of Duquesne returned to action after nursing a sprained leg muscle for several days. Kielbasa is slated for right half back duties.

The western squad, practicing at Stanford university, worked out in morning and afternoon session in which equal attention was given to running and pass plays.

Experiment on Back Fields.

Co-Coaches Don Faurot of Missouri and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State college continued back field experiments, with Jim Jurkovich of California and Bob Kennedy of Washington State alternating at calling the plays. They will divide tail back duties. Each is a triple threater.

The Jurkovich combination included Don Reece, Missouri at quarter back; Bob Steuber, Missouri, wing back and Tony Compagno, St. Mary's, full back. Operating with Kennedy were Willie Zapalac, Texas A. & M., at quarter back; Frank Porto, California, wing back, and Tom Roblin, Oregon, full back. The two squads will hold single workouts beginning tomorrow. Christmas parties will be held in the two training camps tomorrow night.

CENTRALIA FIVE WILL BE HOST TO FLORA TONIGHT

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—Christmas will mean a brief break in training rules for nearly all Illinois high school basketball players, but there will be competition in Centralia tomorrow night when Flora invades the home court of the 1942 state champions.

Flora and West Frankfort defeated Centralia by identical scores of 26 to 24 early this season, and Coach Arthur L. Trout's Orphans plan a warm yuletide reception for the Wolves from the North Egypt conference. Since losing to Flora Nov. 27, Centralia has beaten Sandoval, East St. Louis, Carbondale, Vandalia, Urbana, and Decatur and is being ranked high for next week's Mount Vernon tournament.

Along with some 800 other prep quintets in the state, the 1942 runners-up from Paris are idle over Christmas, after stretching their perfect record to nine in a row with a 56 to 18 romp over Hutsonville.

Another in the handful of prep games this week-end will be Taylorville's intersectional engagement at Moline Saturday night.

TICKETS AWAIT SERVICE MEN AT SUGAR BOWL

New Orleans, La., Dec. 24 (AP).—A Sugar bowl representative to whom Tulsa fans have entrusted the funds they raised to buy service men's tickets for the Tulsa-Tennessee football game tonight said so far there were tickets available for all askers. The sum of $1,100 was received from Tulsa to purchase 1,000 of the $1.10 tickets, and every soldier, sailor or marine whose letter requesting tickets was received up to noon today can be taken care of. Every officer asking for tickets for service men in groups and whose letter was in hand at noon today will be accommodated.

A booth will be set up later here to distribute the tickets to soldiers on proper identification.

The Tulsa movement was launched by Sam Avey and Tulsa and Oklahoma fans who want to send service men to the game to root for them by proxy since they are prevented by transportation regulations from attending.

Cleveland Lends Rookie Defense Man to New Haven

Cleveland, O., Dec. 24 (AP).—Fred Ferens, rookie defense man for the Cleveland Barons hockey team, has been lent to the New Haven Eagles, the Barons announced tonight. Ferens, who has seen little action this season, will join the Eagles for their game at Hershey, Pa., Saturday night.

ZIVIC'S GATES GOOD.

Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight boxing champion, has drawn gross gates of nearly $500,000 in nine appearances at Madison Square Garden.

LIST PROBABLE STARTERS FOR BLUE-GRAY GAME

Fresh Teams to Enter the Contest in 2d Period.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 24 (AP).—Preliminary training over, coaches of the Blue and Gray football squads selected probable starting lineups today for the North-South game Saturday.

With only two choices for each post, starting selections meant merely the elimination of one senior college all-star from each position. Each squad has 22 players, and there is no scouting by agreement.

The teams wil send in fresh elevens at the opening of the second quarter and during the second half outstanding players of the first half will see action, altho substitutions are expected to be frequent.

Start Doloway at Quarter.

Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, head coach for the Blues, said he was somewhat undecided about his starting team, but indicated it would be something like this:

The back field will include Earl Doloway, Indiana's kicking artist, at quarter or blocking back, and probably sharing the punting with Chester Mutryn of Xavier. Johnny Bezemes of Holy Cross will play left half back, and John Grigas, his teammate, right half back, with John Barrett of Georgetown at full back.

Two Tulane Backs May Start.

In the back field Monk McDonald of Tulane will be in the blocking post. If the Grays receive Monk Gafford of Auburn will play left half and safety, but if the Grays kick Lou Thomas of Tulane will replace him at left half.

Joe Muha of V. M. I. will play right half back, and the full back slot will be filled by Mississippi State's Blondy Black.

TROPICAL PARK ATTENDANCE HITS NEW LOW—2,110

Miami, Fla., Dec. 24 (AP).—The smallest crowd of the new Florida racing season—2,110 paid and a number of service men on Christmas leave—watched Apprentice Dave Gorman score his second double in two days at Tropical Park today.

Both of his victories came aboard 2 year olds in six furlong dashes—and in each case he was astride an even money favorite. Gorman got Fire Kabo home a half length to the good in the second in 1:12 1-5, then triumphed by a length and a half with Tindell in the fifth in 1:11 4-5.

The parimutuel play of $125,538—low for the meeting which began Monday—was about as expected since Christmas eve was Tropical's worst day in 1941, when 4,553 spectators bet $176,393.

Today's feature, the mile and a sixteenth Christmas Eve handicap, was taken by Happy Family by half a length over the favored In Question.

BLUEJACKETS ARE PROUD OF 1942 SPORTS SHOWING

Top Service Rivals in Four Departments.

In the first year of World War II. athletes representing Great Lakes set the pace for the nation's service teams just as they did in 1918.

They were acclaimed as champions in basketball, baseball, and football. Roy Cochran, former Indiana university track star, carried the Great Lakes colors to victory in New York's Madison Square Garden and later accounted for a new world record in the 440 yard low hurdles at the Drake relays.

Champions in two other sports went thru boot camp at Great Lakes en route to foreign duty. They were Tony Zale, world middleweight boxing champion, and Joe Platak, seven times National A. A. U. handball champion.

Basketball Team Wins 31.

Last season's basketball squad opened the station's wartime athletic program with 31 victories in 36 games against the best collegiate competition available. Eleven members of that group have been transferred to widely separated duties in both the Atlantic and Pacific. Another is undergoing flight training.

Bob Calihan, former University of Detroit star, led the 1941-1942 team in scoring with 308 points. Frank Baumholtz, Ohio university, was second with 297. Others included Ernie Andres, Indiana; Jim Currie, Northwestern; George Rung and Jim Orsdel, Miami university; John Lobsiger, Missouri; John Adams, Arkansas; Les Bruckner, Michigan State; Bob White, Dartmouth, and Lee Huber, Kentucky.

Baseball Club Does Well.

Under Lt. Gordon S. [Mickey] Cochrane, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, Great Lakes won 63 baseball games and lost only 14. Victories were scored over the Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia Phils, and an all-star team picked from the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs.

The Bluejackets won all 13 games against Army and Navy teams and provided nine members of the Service All-Star squad which met the pick of the American league in Cleveland last summer.

Included on the squad were six former major league players: John Rigney, Chicago White Sox; Joe Grace and Johnny Lucadello, St. Louis Browns; Don Padgett, St. Louis Cardinals; Frank Pytlak, Boston Red Sox; Benny McCoy, Philadelphia Athletics. Other regulars included Baumholtz, until his transfer to the fleet; Earl Bolyard, Chattanooga; Andres, Louisville Colonels; Chet Hajduk, White Sox farm hand; Russ Meers, Milwaukee Brewers; Sam Harshany, Toledo Mudhens, and Fred Shaffer, Louisville Colonels.

Football Completes Calendar.

In football Great Lakes completed the cycle, being picked by the nation's sport's writers as the No. 1 service team. The Bluejackets won eight, lost three and tied Notre Dame in its final game of the season. Great Lakes ranked as the best defensive team in the middlewest, holding opponents to an average of 3.7 points per game while scoring an average of 18.5. Bruce Smith, former Minnesota star, led the team in running, passing, scoring, and returning kicks. He was followed by Bob Sweiger, also from Minnesota; Steve Belichick, Western Reserve, and John Popov, Cincinnati.

Among the outstanding linemen were Howard Hickey, Arkansas; Fred Preston, Nebraska; Urban Odson, Minnesota; Jim Barber, San Francisco; Gust Zarnas, Ohio State; Bill Radovich, Southern California, Basil Petry, Purdue, and Bob Nelson, Baylor. Thirty-seven men were on the regular traveling squad.

13 MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS DECIDE TO TRAIN NEAR HOME

Tigers Last to Give Up Base in Florida.

Twelve major league clubs, exclusive of Connie Mack, who took his Athletics from Anaheim, Cal., to Savannah, Ga., before that state as well as Texas and Florida were banned as spring training camp grounds by Joseph B. Eastman, director of ODT, now have joined the move to condition close to home in the interest of travel curtailment.

The latest to abandon the sunny south under the pressure from Washington was the Detroit Tigers, whose owner, Walter O. Briggs, announced yesterday the club would not return to Lakeland, Fla. Search for a new camp is under way.

The only clubs that have not yet committed themselves to conservation of rail miles are the Cleveland Indians, Philadelphia Phils, and Washington. However, they are scouting for landing places.

Pirates, Browns in Hot Springs.

Meanwhile, it became doubly apparent that the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Browns would take over Hot Springs, Ark., leaving the White Sox and Cubs to continue their quest for a nearby resort. A few days ago indications pointed to the four clubs, all originally booked for California camps, sharing the Arkansas spa, but Blake Harper, emissary for the Browns, advised yesterday that the invasion be participated in only by two squads. The city has four ball parks, but only two of them are properly equipped, according to Harper's report.

James Gallagher, the Cubs' general manager, and Harry Grabiner, White Sox vice president, said during the day that they hadn't made any noticeable progress in their search. However, because of their desire to camp close together for exhibition purposes, they are leaning toward the southern Indiana resorts, with Dawson Springs, Ky., an alternate.

May Precipitate Meeting.

French Lick Springs, the Indiana resort referred to, may not be available as it is understood the army may move in there. Thomas Taggart, operator of French Lick, admits that the army is considering taking over the site but as yet has reached no decision. Were it to be taken over it might be used for hospital purposes.

The speed with which the clubs are abandoning their planned migrations to Florida, California, etc., may precipitate a special meeting of the majors in the immediate future. Camps close to home involve a weather hazard which some of the owners already have proposed be lessened by a late training start and a later opening of the season.

The schedule as recently adopted provides for an April 13 start of the championship race, but this date was named prior to positive indication that sooner or later the long distance spring journeys would be officially taboo. The magnates may vote on the advisability of lopping anywhere from ten days to two weeks from the present chart, thus improving the possibilities for finishing training at home, if that should be necessary.

De Paul Gets Prepared for Toledo Clash

It will be a light Christmas for De Paul's Blue Demons—that is, if they heed the menu-restricting dictum issued by Trainer Frank Stevens yesterday following the completion of practice for their game tomorrow with the University of Toledo.

By his edict, Stevens all but banned the traditional Christmas dinner for the Blue Demons, who are undefeated in six games this season. And his popularity with the Demons suffered extremely. Stevens, in the opinion of the De Paul athletes, is a calloused gent, and holds a place in their esteem, comparable to that of Scrooge or Uriah Heep.

"If you have any idea of being in shape to beat those Toledo lads," ran the text of Stevens' proclamation, "you'll avoid most of the heavy, starchy foods that make up the Christmas dinner. It's going to be tough, but you won't be able to win if you absorb all the liquids and fats on the table."

Severest Test for De Paul.

The game, which was scheduled several months ago, is believed to be the first time the Blue Demons have been forced to play on the day after Christmas. It will give De Paul the severest test it has yet encountered, altho it has victories over Purdue and Southern California, among others. According to Coach Ray Meyer, Toledo is experienced—to a very high degree—and on an average is taller than the Blue Demons.

Tomorrow's match, an annual affair for De Paul, will be the first of a three game road trip that will bring the Demons against Duquesne and Marquette before they resume their local activities.

Toledo Has Problems, Too.

"It is rather difficult for the boys to observe training rules," Coach Ray Meyer said yesterday following Stevens' declaration, "but they are part of the means we have of winning this ball game. At least, it is reassuring to know that the same problems are confronting the Toledo lads."

The De Paul team will leave tomorrow morning at 9:15 from the La Salle street station and will arrive in Toledo at 2:50, in time for a brief workout. Meyer indicated yesterday he would take a squad of ten men, that would include four forwards, two centers, and four guards. The Rev. Joseph G. Phoenix, C.M., member of the De Paul athletic board, also will accompany the team.

The traveling squad follows:

Forwards—Jimmy Cominsky, Dick Triptow, Mel Frailey and John Jorgensen. Centers—George Mikan and Frank Wiscons. Guards—Raw Crowley, Cliff Lind, Dick Starzyk, and Capt. Tony Kelly.

Christmas Comes Early at the Cookes

Lt. (j. g.) and Mrs. Elwood Cooke, the former Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, received their bouncing Christmas present a day early. She was a 7 pound daughter born at the Pensacola, Fla., naval air station, where Cooke is stationed at present. The former tennis stars are just referring to their addition to the family as Suzy until they can get around to selecting a name.

OCD SCHEDULES THREE HIKES FOR WEEK OF JAN. 2-8

Three hikes have been scheduled for the week of Jan. 2-8 by outing clubs coöperating with the OCD physical fitness division. All hikes will be held as scheduled regardless of weather conditions. The schedule:

SATURDAY, JAN. 2.

Lincolnwood to Edgebrook [Prarie club].

SUNDAY, JAN. 3.

North Shore [North Shore Hiking clubs].

Dam No. 2 [Outing club].

IRISH RECORD GOOD.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 24 [Special].—Notre Dame basketball teams under George Keogan have won 315 games and lost 95 for a .768 average in the last 19 years.

ATHLETIC FUNDS CUT, BUT TEAMS PLAN TO CARRY ON

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 24 (AP).—The state board of control let it be known today that existing contracts of athletic teams of West Virginia colleges should be honored despite Auditor Edgar B. Sims' order cutting off funds for interstate travel.

President Robert F. Roth of the board which supervises state operated colleges and institutions said: "The board is willing to go along with any measures designed to further the war, provided that legal contracts are fulfilled."

At Morgantown, Roy M. Hawley, athletic director of West Virginia university, said no official notice of Sims' actilon had yet been received.

Stagg Basket Tourney Off for Duration

The A. A. Stagg high school tourney at the University of Chicago will not be held this year because there will be no letup in the training of navy signalmen in the Midway fieldhouse. The tournament, established by Stagg during the first World war, in 1917, never has been interrupted, but it was felt that the seven days of play would cut too large a slice from the training time of the sailors stationed on the Midway.

"We regret very much that we can't hold the tournament," Acting Director of Athletics J. Kyle Anderson said. "It's been a grand thing for the high school players, and we hated to see it go."

Du Sable Holds Title.

Du Sable High school, the first team to win two championships since the tourney was limited to city public high schools in 1935, thus will remain defending champion for the duration of the war.

The tournament was in large measure responsible for the development of high school basketball. For 14 years it was a nation-wide affair. In its first year, the meet uncovered Chuck Carney, who led the Evanston academy to the title. Carney later achieved collegiate fame at Illinois, where he set a Western conference scoring record. Wingate, Ind., high school won the second championship, followed by Lexington, Ky., and Kansas City, Mo. Fritz Crisler, now football coach at Michigan, had been given charge of the tourney by Mr. Stagg by 1925, when Jackson, Mich., high won the title.

Reduced to Chicago Teams.

In 1931 the tournament was cut to include only high schools in the Chicago area. Morton took the first championship under the new arrangement, and Downer's Grove won the following year. Lane Tech was the winner in both 1933 and 1934, and in 1935 the meet was further cut to include only city public schools. Farragut won the 1935 title. Calumet won in 1936, Parker in 1937, Crane in 1938, and Austin in 1939 before Du Sable began its two year dominance in 1940 and 1941.

In addition to Carney other players achieved fame with college fives, including "Moon" Baker, who played for Rockford in 1923 before going to Northwestern; "Bus" Hogan, who starred for Osage, Ia., and later for Iowa; Bennie Oosterbaan, who played for Muskegon before going to Ann Arbor, and Bill Haarlow, who played for Bowen before entering Chicago, where he established a conference scoring mark.

BOWLING SWEEP AT EVERGREEN TO DRAW 96 TEAMS

Ninety-six teams, representing most of the nation's tenpin territory, will compete in Ray Schalk's annual holiday sweepstakes, scheduled Jan. 2 and 3 at Evergreen Towers bowling center, 95th street west of Western avenue. With the American Bowling congress tournament postponed for a year, the sweep will be the outstanding team event of the season.

Fifty Chicago teams, including the Chicago Recreation five of the South End Traveling league, defending champion, will compete. All of the Classic league teams and most of those from the Randolph league also are scheduled in the sweep, which is a four game test across eight alleys. Milwaukee is to send 11 teams, Detroit, St. Louis, and Indianapolis six each, and Cleveland, three, according to Tournament Secretary Clarence Labbe.

Squads of 24 teams will go on the alleys at 8 and 11 o'clock Saturday night, Jan. 2, and at 2 and 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. They will shoot for a prize list of $4,800, including a top prize of $1,000. Sixteen prizes are to be awarded; 15 for high sweep scores and one of $50 for the team rolling the highest single game and otherwise out of the money.

Picard Quits Golf in Favor of Raising Hogs

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 24 (AP).—Henry Picard, who has won every major tournament except the National Open at least once in the last 20 years, has given up the game in favor of raising hogs on his South Carolina farm, he announced today. He made the announcement in submitting his resignation after nearly two years as pro at the Twin Hills Golf and Country club here. He achieved his greatest fame in 1939 when he topped the country's pros with $14,000 in prize money and defeated Byron Nelson 1 up over 37 holes to capture the National P. G. A. tournament.

The Prince of Peace.

I wonder what the Prince of Peace
would do
Were He to walk this war torn earth again
And see the hate and greed which seethe and brew
Within the minds and hearts of Godless men.

I wonder what the Prince of Peace
would say
Were He to witness battles being fought
By half crazed men He once had taught to pray,
But who forgot the lessons He had taught.

Would He not bow his head in grief and shame
And utter fervently these words anew:
"Forgive them, Father, in Thy Holy Name—
Forgive them, for they know not what they do."

—Em Aitch Dee.

A Christmas Thought.

Each year, in spite of war or strife,
There's joy for us whose way of life
Has set aside a day each year
For reverence and for Christmas cheer.
We meet our friends and wave a hand—
I guess they did in every land
Until the world got all upset
And made the most of us forget
To place our faith in Him once more.
He's watching us from shore to shore
And knows we're fighting for the right
To have such things as Christmas night.
So let's all pray that forty-three
Will bring a world-wide Christmas tree,
With young and old from every land
Around the tree joined hand in hand.

—C. E. E.

O, King of Peace.

Bring your peace this Christmas day
To those at home, those far away,
To our hearts, our homes, and then
Peace on earth good will to men.

Soothe those racked on beds of pain,
Those bowed with grief, O, once again,
The peace which only You can bring,
A lasting one, O Christ, O King!

—Mary A. Ganey.

Well, It's Christmas.

The gifts have all been purchased,
The shopping is complete,
But to stop here on his beat.

We've rum for Tom and Jerry,
And brandy, yes, of course—
I know on Christmas morning
Old friends will come in force.

We've Sharon and we've Sheila,
We're happy and we're well,
And we'll be glad to see old friends
And "A Merry Christmas" tell.

—Robert Blackadder.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Chicago Bears, champions of the professional football league, were held to a 6 to 6 tie by Portsmouth in an exhibition game in Cincinnati. . . . The Chicago Blackhawks dropped a 4 to 0 decision to Detroit. . . . Bun Cook's two third-period goals gave the New York Rangers a 2 to 0 victory over the Montreal Maroons.

SEASON'S DUCK KILL IN ILLINOIS PLACED AT 85,000

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—Approximately 85,000 ducks were killed in Illinois in the season which ended yesterday, the state department of conservation estimated today, indicating that there was no noticeable decrease from 1941.

Sportsmen now are limited to rabbits, Director Livingston E. Osborne pointed out. The rabbit season ends Jan. 15 and the daily limit is 15.

Small fur bearing animals such as raccoons, minks, muskrats, skunks and opossums may be taken until Jan. 15 in the southern and central zones of the state and until Jan. 31 in the northern zone, without daily limits. Muskrats may be taken only with traps.

Foxes may be hunted or trapped until Jan. 15 in the southern and central zones, with no daily limit.

Former Kenosha Star Regular on Cornell Five

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 24 [Special].—Bertil Peterson, leading scorer on Kenosha High school's basketball team in 1938, is regular center on the Cornell university quintet which opens the Eastern Intercollegiate league competition in Ithaca, Jan. 6, with Columbia. A cousin of Gene Englund, former Wisconsin center now on the Oshkosh pro team, Peterson studied three years at Deep Springs, Cal., in preparation for a technical course at Cornell.

Studebakers, Sheboygan Vie for First Place

Sheboygan, Wis., Dec. 24 [Special].—The Studebaker Champions arrived in Sheboygan today to meet the Redskins in a holiday game destined to break the first place tie existing between the two professional baketball teams.

Each has won four of six starts and a victory tomorow night will enable one to boast a 2 to 1 advantage over the other. In the National league opener in Sheboygan, the Redskins triumphed 53 to 45, but were defeated by the Chicagoans in the Armory last Sunday, 43 to 41.

Saturday the Studebakers will visit Oshkosh, where they will engage the defending champions that night and on Sunday, they will play an exhibition contest in Hammond, Ind., against the Fort Wayne Zollners.

Expect Full House.

A capacity crowd is expected in the Municipal auditorium tomorrow night when Coach Carl Roth sends his Redskins against the infant of the pro circuit. The Sheboygan coach indicated that he will use the same starting lineup against the Studebakers that has proved so effective in the last two meetings.

Mainstay of the local five is 6 foot, 7 inch Ed Dancker. The Sheboygan center has registered 30 points against Chicago. Rube Lautenschlager, who has been with the outfit since it was organized in 1937-'38, is back at forward to pair with Kenny Buehler, the former high scorer of the Milwaukee State Teachers.

Price Is Chicago Threat.

Bernie Price, second only to Fort Wayne's Bobby McDermott in league scoring, is expected to pace the Chicago offensive in an effort to boost his total of 63 points in six games. The lineups:

SHEBOYGAN.		CHICAGO.
Lautenschlager	F	Price
Buehler	F	Cumberland
Dancker	C	Novak

Wolverines Win 66, Lose 43 in 1942

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 24 [Special].—With Northwestern, Chicago, and Michigan State as their best year around cousins, Michigan's Wolverines are ready to close the book on a successful year which has produced 66 victories, 43 defeats, and four ties in nine sports.

Michigan teams have gone thru 1942 at a .606 pace, marking up winning records in all but two sports. Only one more contest remains to be played this year, a basketball game here Dec. 30 with Selfridge Field.

In gaining their record for the year the Wolverines won Western conference championships outright in swimming and golf and tied for the crown in baseball. It was the 12th successive year in which Michigan won at least three Big Ten titles, a record not even closely approached by any other conference member.

Beat Wildcats, 7-0.

The best record on the team-by-team chart was compiled at the expense of Northwestern for the Wolverines won all seven of their contests with the Wildcats in 1942. They also scored a slam in the rivalry with Chicago, winning five out of five, while against Michigan State the Wolverines won eight, dropped three and tied one.

Among other teams faced most often in all sports Michigan held an edge varying from one to three decisions over Notre Dame, Purdue, Iowa, and Ohio State. The count was all even with Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, while Minnesota edged the Wolverines, 5 to 3, thanks principally to three hockey victories.

Won and lost percentages of better than .500 were compiled in dual competition in all sports except hockey and basketball. The hockey record for 1943 was two victories, 13 defeats, and two ties. The basketball record includes eight triumphs and 11 defeats, three of the victories being those scored already this season.

Four Teams Lose 1 Each.

Four teams—swimming, wrestling, tennis, and track—lost only one decision apiece. At the same time, the swimmers scored eight triumphs, the wrestlers five, the tennis team ten, and the track team four. In baseball the Wolverines won 17 and lost nine. They won five and dropped three in golf, and the 1942 football team won seven out of 10 in the hardest Michigan schedule ever played.

B Gas Cards Save Illinois Prep Sports

When State OPA Director Carter Jenkins issued his recent ruling allowing athletic directors, coaches, and officials to obtain B gasoline rationing books he rescued Illinois interscholastic athletics, Albert Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois High School association, declared yesteday.

The ruling, first to be handed down, altho several other states have advocated it, reads in part:

"A salaried coach or athletic director whose duties require him to be present at interscholastic athletic contests may obtain a B book for use with his passenger car to permit him to travel to the athletic fields or buildings where these contests will be held, if he can show no other adequate means of transportation are available.

"Persons who will officiate at athletic contests likewise are eligible to obtain B books to permit them to reach the athletic fields or buildings where the athletic contests will be held, if they can show no other means of transportation are available."

May Haul Players.

"There is nothing in this ruling," Mr. Willis points out "to prevent the coaches, directors, or officials from hauling their players with them on necessary trips. By sharing the cars, a team can play almost a normal schedule, for in basketball the problem of transporting the average squad of 10 players entails the use of only two cars."

However, Mr. Willis, is quick to emphasize that long trips are out for the duration. "This may be just as well tho," he says, "for it will give a lot of schools a chance to get acquainted with their neighboring schools and will do a lot to increase the competition in individual conferences."

Prior to this ruling, at least half a dozen games had been canceled due to the transportation problems, but since this came into effect not a single school has had to postpone a contest, according to Mr. Willis.

Tournament Prospects Bright.

State tournament plans are progressing on schedule. The association recently sent out entry cards to get a line on team personnel for the tournament and Mr. Willis reports the replies show basketball is progressing on a plane almost equal to that of a year ago. "A few small schools have been forced to pass it up this year due to the inability to secure coaches, but other than that the field looks practically the same as it has in the past," he states. At present there are about 950 member schools in the association and all are playing basketball.

Just what the future holds for the spring sports will be determined Monday in Springfield when the board of directors will meet.

"However, I would say the outlook for state sports is very bright," Mr. Willis continued. "Athletics are vital to the morale of the high school youngster. I think you will find any school with a well roundéd athletic program is a progressive and modern institution.

Have Unifying Effect.

"One of the big factors of state athletic functions is the social benefit to be derived. Physcial fitness is fine, especially in our critical wartime of present, but so is the matter of unification. Thousands of people gather to watch high school sports because of a mutual interest and anything that unifies the public right now must be considered vital.

"We hear recommendations from some sources to quit our athletic programs now," Mr. Willis says, "but this is not the time to quit. Our boys have not been taught to quit when the going gets tough. That's the time we should scrap the hardest!"

Proof the public needs and wants high school sports can be found in the large crowds attending the interscholastic programs thruout the state. "People are making more money now and are staying closer to home," the executive secretary concludes, "so it is only logical they should attend these contests in equal if not larger numbers than in normal times."

SEED SCHROEDER NO. 1 IN SUGAR BOWL TOURNEY

New Orleans, La., Dec. 24 (AP).—Ted Schroeder, Stanford's national tennis champion and No. 1 player in the nation, today was seeded No. 1 in the Sugar bowl tennis tournament singles starting Saturday. Francisco Segura, William Talbert, and Jack Kramer were seeded two, three, and four.

Segura, native of Ecuador, is No. 3 player in the nation; Talbert, of Cincinnati, is No. 5, and Kramer, of California, was No. 1 doubles player in 1940-'41 but did not compete last year because of an operation.

The singles draw, completed today, follows:

LOWER BRACKET—Segura vs. Glen Gardner, No. 1 southern doubles champion; George Pryor of Florida vs. Charles Mattman, No. 12 ranking player; Kramer vs. Roy Bartlett of Tulane; Jack Cushingham, United States navy, Pensacola, vs. Richard Hainline, Rock Island, Ill.

BANTAM CHAMP IN AFRICA.

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—Midget Smith, former bantamweight champion who served in the first World war, is now with the United States forces in Africa.

PRO ALL-STARS MAY DROP 'T' IN REDSKIN BATTLE

Coach to Keep Whatever Formation Works.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 24 (AP).—Coach Hunk Anderson may throw the "T" formation out the window when his National Football League All-Stars battle the Washington Redskins in the professional bowl game in Shibe park Sunday.

Eager to gain some revenge for the beating the Redskins administered his Chicago Bears in Washington two weeks ago, Anderson made it clear he would not depend on the "T" setup exclusively.

Has Great Wing Backs.

In his back field he has some of the greatest single and double wing backs in Bill Dudley of Pittsburgh, Merlyn Condit of Brooklyn, Dante Magnani of Cleveland, Bosh Pritchard of the Eagles, and Cecil Isbell of Green Bay.

"We'll probably alternate with the "T" and other formations," Anderson said. "If we get hot with one we'll keep it, otherwise there'll be lots of changes. That goes for the players too. When a man's hot he's going to stay in there. When he's cold, out he comes."

Dudley and Condit were the leading ball carriers in the league, averaging nearly 5 yards on every try.

Meantime the Redskins worked out in Shibe park for several hours. Coach Ray Flaherty said only one change has been made in his lineup since the title game at Washington. Dick Shugart has replaced the injured Steve Slivinski at guard.

Simington Suffers Heart Attack.

Milt Simington, Pittsburgh guard, who was scheduled to start for the All-Stars, was taken to University hospital after a mild heart attack. Simington, who lives at Dierks, Ark., said his heart started to bother him a couple of days ago. Dr. Harrison Flippen, team physician, examined him this afternoon and ordered him to the hospital.

"I'm feeling fine here," Milton declared. "I'll be up and around tomorrow."

Anderson indicated that Enio Conti of the Philadelphia Eagles would start at guard in place of Simington.

Meantime favorable weather has been reflected in a big jump in the sale of tickets. All proceeds of the game will go to the benefit of the merchant marine. Many celebrities are scheduled to participate in pregame ceremonies. To date, officials said, the advance sale totals approximately $22,000.

JANITOR TURNS COACH; MOPS UP ON OPPOSITION

Chambersburg, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—When the 16 boys in this hamlet's high school went out for basketball this season they had to go clear down to the furnace room to get a coach. But under the tutelage of their janitor, Doc Hobbs, they have:

1. Won their first eight games, bringing their streak to 38 consecutive victories, before losing recently to the neighboring town of Bluffs.
2. Averaged almost 65 points a game in their first seven contests.
3. Breezed thru three other opponents to win a holiday tournament at Milton.

Chambersburg, situated in Pike county near the Illinois river, has a population of only 120, and you won't even find it on some state maps. There are only 28 students in high school, but the village is a hotbed for basketball and has been for 15 years.

When the current school year opened the entire faculty roster was three women. So the boys put their coaching problem up to their janitor, Dean Hampton Hobbs, 34, who played on one of Chambersburg's best teams back in 1928. Hobbs was a long shot artist himself and figured he could handle the assignment.

He could. Some of the squad's victories were 107 to 13 over Versailles, 72 to 18 over Chapin, 75 to 47 over Mount Sterling, and 67 to 9 over Baylis.

Earlier in the fall Chambersburg also won the Pike county basketball conference championship. The coach? Doc Hobbs.

ROUTINE TAKING FALL OUT OF IOWA NAVY MAT COACH

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 24 [Special].—Lt. Dave Bartelma, plagued all season by the inexperience of the performers on the Iowa Navy pre-flight school wrestling team, now faces another problem.

A change in the sports routine at the base had made it necessary for the matmen to take their daily practices in three groups, each at a different time. The result is that Lt. Bartelma never gets his men all together at the same time for a drill.

In order to overcome this handicap, Lt. Bartelma plans to hold a special workout one night weekly in addition to his regular drills during the day.

The squad now is preparing for its second meet of the season, Jan. 2, against Wheaton college in Wheaton, Ill.

'PEACE' ISSUES LEAD SLIGHT RISE IN STOCK MARKET

Average Records First Gain in Week.

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Selected "peace" stocks edged higher in today's pre-Christmas market altho many leaders in other categories lacked recovery inspiration as prices moved slightly higher.

Bullish war news, said brokers, remained the principal reason for switching from less favorably situated issues to those that stand to benefit by the ending of the war. Tax selling, especially in low priced stocks that turned over in blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares, aided volume but restricted rising tendencies. Commitments were trimmed here and there for tomorrow's holiday.

Slightly mixed trends predominated at the start, and while gains of fractions to a point or so were retained by selected oils, rubbers, farm implements, air transports, gold mines and industrial specialties, closing declines were plentiful.

Equals 14 Month High.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.1 to 41.3. This equaled its top since October, 1941, and was the first advance since last Thursday.

An assortment of stocks reaching new highs for the year included Standard Oil [N. J.], Texas company, Goodyear, United States Rubber, General Tire, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Owens-Illinois, Dome Mines, Chrysler and American Airlines.

American Telephone gained a point at 126 in the face of another dividend cut by a subsidiary, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania.

Great Northern, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific were up a shade as the interstate commerce commission ordered a boost in Texas intrastate fares and freight rates to the interstate level.

CHICAGO LEADERS GAIN.

Fractional advances were recorded by most active issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Middle West, Commonwealth Edison, and Indianapolis Power and Light closed ⅛ point above their final prices of Wednesday. Trading totaled 27,000 shares.

RAILROAD BONDS RISE.

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Low priced railroad issues made gains in today's bond market but other groups idled in a narrow range without much pep.

Principal interest in government loans was the closing of subscription books on the record breaking treasury offering. Not a single transaction in listed government loans was made on the stock exchange, and business in outside markets was near a standstill.

WAR MONOPOLY CHARGES OF U. S. DENIED BY ALCOA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The Aluminum Company of America today called "unfounded and unwarranted" a justice department statement that "the war emergency is operating to entrench Alcoa more deeply than ever in its monopolistic position."

A company brief filed with the Supreme court urged the tribunal to dismiss litigation involving justice department charges that Alcoa possessed a monopoly in production and sale of aluminum.

The justice department previously opposed a motion to dismiss the case because the court lacks the legal quorum of six justices agreeing to pass on the controversy. The department said there was "a prospect" that legislation would be enacted to reduce the number of justices required for a quorum.

"When the government has sought the aid of Alcoa in constructing and operating aluminum producing plants owned by the government," the brief today said, "it is hard to tolerate an assertion by the department of justice that thereby Alcoa is entrenching its alleged monopolistic position. . . ."

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—Cotton textile trading was very quiet today with the holiday spirit dominating. Even high priority business received little attention.

Business in woolens also was restricted with little activity in men's wear materials.

The rayon section continued dull, with expectation of a pick-up next week.

Commodities

Cotton futures advanced 40 to 65 cents a bale in a brief trading session yesterday. Wool tops futures closed unchanged to 0.5 cent higher.

900 OPA RULES COSTLY ENIGMA FOR MERCHANTS

Expenses of Chicago Stores Up Millions.

Joseph T. Meek.

Chicago merchants have been forced to spend at the rate of at least 5 million dollars a year to comply with 900 or more rules issued by the office of price administration to control their prices, Joseph T. Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, asserted yesterday.

"That is a conservative estimate," Meek said. "There are 7,500 wholesale and 45,000 retail establishments in Chicago. A total annual expenditure of 5 million dollars for the job of obtaining, studying, and applying the multiplicity of OPA price orders would average less than $100 for each store. Actually, the cost is considerably higher, but there are no accurate figures available."

Legal Safeguard Is Costly.

Meek said one large Chicago department store has had to hire a lawyer specializing in price control regulations at a high retainer. He is assisted by a staff of 20 or more trained clerks and bookkeepers. Meek said the cost of maintaining such a special force could easily run to $20,000 a year.

"If a large department store wants to keep its name and good will safeguarded against any attack by OPA attorneys, it is forced to hire a costly staff to assure proper compliance," Meek said.

"There are 900 rules, 11 million words, and 15,000 pages of OPA regulations, rules, and interpretations affecting merchants under the general maximum price regulation and its offspring of amendments," the trade official said. "No business is safe from possible litigation unless it has studied all these rules and has adjusted its prices or selling practices to comply with requirements."

May Be Guilty Anyway.

Meek said any merchant may be guilty of technical violations of price ceiling orders because of the "complexity and confusion" of rulings. Omissions and errors can occur in stores where the management has taken extreme care to comply with OPA rules, he added.

Noting that Hecht & Co., large Washington, D. C., department store, had been charged recently by OPA with violating the price law, Meek said the store is one of the best managed in the country and apparently had spared no cost in maintaining a competent staff to cope with OPA regulations.

"Merchants are rightfully apprehensive that OPA will crack down on them despite their best efforts to play the game according to the rules," Meek asserted. "A store's reputation and good will are its most important assets and they can be damaged seriously by an OPA suit."

Simple Guide of 36 Pages.

Sidney M. Libit, executive director of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of Chicago, said the association published and distributed 61,000 copies of a 36 page simple guide to price ceiling regulations among retail grocers in an effort to help them cope with the bewildering array of OPA requirements.

"The small merchant is buried under an avalanche of rulings, amendments, interpretations, forms, and paper work which he cannot hope to understand and handle and still conduct his business," Libit said. "It is impossible unless he hires specialists at prohibitive cost to assure himself that he has obeyed OPA rules."

Adds to Phone Bill.

The vice president of a large Chicago department store admitted that the management has had to hire an attorney skilled in OPA matters, establish a separate price staff, and pay expensive telephone and telegram charges to keep abreast of OPA regulations.

"A department store struggles with a tremendous volume of work to fix prices in compliance with price ceilings," he said. "We have had as many as 30 employés assigned to checking records, invoices, and other files in working out the bewildering formulas devised by OPA."

ICKES DEMANDS ACTION ON 6 DAY WEEK IN MINES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Fuels Coördinator Harold L. Ickes said today he had told both sides in the stalemate over extension of the five-day, 35-hour work week in bituminous coal mining that they had "better get together again and get busy."

Ickes told a press conference that his three month old request for speedy adoption of a six-day, 42-hour week to gain a production increase which he said was necessary to the war, appeared to be "getting nowhere fast."

He said he had no authority to "force" an agreement, but remarked that "there must be power somewhere in the government" to attain his object.

MARKET HOLIDAY.

Britain's Food Control Early War Measure

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Take a good look at your jam packed Christmas dinner plates tomorrow. They'll be skimpier next year, but not as skimpy as the British plates are now.

This is the fourth war Christmas for the British, the second for us, but glance down the road the British have traveled in handling their food problem, and you get a glimpse of some steps we may have to take.

British armament was pitiful when the Germans struck in 1939, but not the British plans for feeding the island kingdom's people. The British, caught short for food in the first World war, made sure they would not be unprepared when the second came. They laid their food control plans back in 1937. They put them into effect two years later when the war started.

Prices Rise 17 Per Cent.

Since that time, September, 1939, Great Britain's food prices have risen 17 per cent, according to the British information service. In the same period ours jumped 31 per cent.

The British had to plan ahead because so much of their food depended on imports, which would be—and were—the first to suffer.

Here is an outline of the British food manufacturing pattern from a survey by the American Institute of Food Distribution, Inc.:

Coördination of Britain's food industries into a wartime program was put into four general classifications: Concentration, standardization, restriction, and transportation.

In that way the ministry determined which manufacturers to switch into other war production, how to increase food production by standardization, which products to eliminate, and how to organize transportation in order to ease the burden of freight carriers.

Standardized Food Lines.

By standardizing — reducing the number of permitted lines of food—there has been a saving in packing materials, man power and transport.

For example, the food ministry prescribes the weight, shape and style of bread. It may not be sliced before purchase by the consumer. Wrapping at any but retail counters is forbidden.

Strong effort has been made to limit distribution in order to save freight space. Products generally are sold in territories adjoining factories.

Elimination of cross hauls in this country, to save freight space, already has been widely discussed, and may be necessary. If that happens you will not see for the duration many brands now shipped into your area or city from miles away, but will have to be content with the product of a factory close to you.

HOLIDAY BUYING AT PEAK; DOLLAR PURCHASES LESS

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Americans probably spent more money this holiday season than in any other similar time in the nation's history, preliminary mercantile reports to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., indicated today.

Paradoxically, the dollars bought less than they would have purchased a year ago, the agency said, because of price rises which more than accounted for the increase of dollar volume above that of 1941.

The record spending went for a variety of merchandise; retailers reported that while gift lines held the spotlight and, with foods, scored the widest gains above a year ago, interest in scarce goods attracted considerable buying into lines unusual as Christmas gifts.

Dun & Bradstreet's estimate that sales totals averaged 4 to 9 per cent above a year ago said the gain was held down by curtailment of fuel oil, gasoline and durable goods.

FISH CATCH RUNS LIGHT; MORE GOES TO MILITARY USE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Despite increasing need for more food, the bureau of fisheries reported today, the nation's fishing catch so far in 1942 was running 1,100,000 pounds below last year's catch of 4,900,000 pounds.

The 22 per cent drop was attributed principally to loss of man power in the draft and to war industry and to the taking over of many fishing boats for military purposes.

Because catches have run light on the Pacific coast, the WPB increased from 60 to 80 per cent the amount of California pilchard, Atlantic sea herring and mackerel reserved for military and lend-lease purposes.

Bliss & Laughlin Gives Christmas Bonus Checks

Officials of Bliss & Laughlin, Inc., Harvey, Ill., announced the distribution of Christmas bonus checks to all employés, the amounts varying according to length of service and earnings. The amount of the bonus distributed to employés on leave of absence for military service approximated $8,000.

FORECAST 10 PCT. GAIN IN PURCHASING POWER, 10 PCT. FEWER GOODS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—Government economists estimate that consumers will have about 10 per cent more money for goods, services, and savings in 1943 than this year, but that the volume of goods and services will be about 10 per cent smaller.

The volume of goods alone, the bureau of agricultural economics said today in releasing the estimates, probably will be about 15 per cent smaller.

Many consumer services, the bureau said, will be curtailed in 1943. It said, however, that aggregate expenditures for services may be even larger than in 1942.

The bureau said that altho "the upward pressure on the general price level will become progressively greater as the income of consumers arises, and the available supply of goods decreases," the government was exercising more authority over prices than ever before.

Quit Job Early, Row Over Pay at Shipyard

Kearney, N. J., Dec. 24 (AP).—More than 5,000 demonstrating employés of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company demanded immediate payment of their wages tonight after leaving their jobs more than four hours before normal quitting time.

Patrick Dolan, Hudson county police chief, said a number of doors and windows in the plant were broken during the demonstration at the paymaster's window. Police of Kearny and Hudson county rushed to the plant to aid company police in controling the crowd.

Company officials said they did not yet have the pay roll made up when the workers lined up to receive their pay envelopes at 8:10 p. m. instead of at 12:30 a. m., when the night shift usually stops work.

A holiday had been granted all workers on Christmas day and at the end of the shift the plant was to have closed down.

Police established order and pay envelopes were distributed in less than an hour.

Halt Pipe Line Work.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 24 (AP).—B. E. Hull, general manager of War Emergency Pipe Lines, Inc., announced today that a jurisdictional labor dispute had shut down work on Norris City, Ill., rail yard facilities of the Texas-Illinois pipe line.

Hull said construction of tank car loading yards was being done by Acme Railroad Construction company, which had a contract with the AFL Railway Maintenance of Way union.

"Yesterday," said Hull, "men from the AFL Hodcarriers' union at Carbondale, Ill., came over and told the workers they could not unload any more rails and equipment unless they belonged to the hodcarriers' union. These men had seen bloodshed in southern Illinois and were afraid to keep working."

Police Stand Guard.

Granite City, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—Police were on guard today at the American Steel Foundries company, where a strike of welders resulted in the injury of three men in a clash last night with members of a rival CIO union at the war production plant.

Reject Work Proposal.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 24 (AP).—Striking employés of the Pyne-Taylor colliery have rejected a proposal that they return to work pending adjustment of wage grievances. The walkout, affecting 1,200 miners, began Monday.

Brewster Has Slowdown.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The war labor board, reporting a slowdown at plants of the Brewster Aeronautical company, telegraphed company and CIO union officials today an appeal to maintain full production pending an orderly settlement of all disputes.

War Financing Drive Whirls Past New Goal

Millions of dollars of subscriptions to the various treasury issues in the record breaking December financing campaign still were pouring into the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago yesterday by mail from thruout the five state 7th reserve district, officials of the bank reported.

Books were closed at midnight Wednesday on three of the seven issues, but any subscriptions by mail that bear a postmark up to that hour will be accepted as having met the deadline, regardless of the day they are received. With mails slowed by the Christmas rush and war traffic difficulties, many subscriptions will be tardy, the bank said.

Whirls Past Higher Goal.

With similar conditions prevailing in the 11 other reserve districts, it appeared that the treasury drive was whirling headlong past the revised goal of 11 billion dollars. The original aim of the treasury was to borrow 9 billions in the month campaign.

Closing of the books on three issues still left tax savings notes and the three series of savings bonds, E, F, and G, still open for purchase, so the actual amount of money borrowed in December will not be known until after the end of the month. On Wednesday night Undersecretary of the Treasury Daniel W. Bell said subscriptions in the campaign already totaled more than 11 billion 200 million dollars.

Expect More Buying.

In the case of the F and G bonds, it was expected that large purchases will be made in the last few days of the month because under the interest provision, a purchaser can wait until the end of the month to buy and still collect the month's interest. A sizeable amount of buying also is expected from investors who still have not bought the maximum amounts allowed.

One purchaser may buy up to $100,000 [cost price] of F bonds or G bonds, or F and G bonds combined, in one calendar year, and for that reason their volume is large.

Like the F and G bonds, the tax savings notes pay interest from the first of the month in which they are purchased, and are expected to show a last minute upsurge in sales.

Bank Issues Oversubscribed.

Heavy oversubscription by the banks of the issues available to them was reported. The 2 billion dollar offering of ⅞ per cent certificates was oversubscribed 60 per cent. The 1¾ per cent bonds were oversubscribed by 15 per cent.

The Chicago mechanical engineering firm of Sargent & Lundy has used mainly series A tax savings notes to pay a bonus to its employés, Victory Fund committee officials disclosed.

"We felt that these notes would be of the greatest benefit—to our employés and to the country," the firm told the committee. "Those who are now subject to income tax for the first time have not had experience in providing payment therefor, and so may find their budget all out of balance and inadequate in spite of higher salaries and overtime wages. These notes should prove to be a real backlog."

JANUARY ONION PRICE CEILING IS RAISED 7 CENTS

Governors of the Chicago Mercantile exchange raised the trading price ceiling on January onion futures yesterday from $1.65 to $1.72 a 50 pound sack and adopted larger contracts for onions and potatoes. The new trading units are 40,000 pounds for onions and 45,000 pounds for potatoes, compared with the former 25,000 and 36,000 pounds per carlot.

Maximum prices on the larger carlot contracts will be $1.82 for the February onion future and $1.92 for March, effective Monday when trading in these deliveries opens. Trading in March potatoes also will begin Monday, with a ceiling of $3.22 per 100 pounds. The present January potato maximum is $3.07.

January potatoes broke 2 cents yesterday to their fourth consecutive new seasonal low of $2.91, then rallied to close with a net loss of 1 cent at $2.92. The new maximum trading price tended to keep January onions steady and unchanged at $1.52.

NEW 16 YEAR HIGH FOR WHOLESALE PRICES REACHED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The bureau of labor statistics wholesale price index advanced 0.2 per cent last week because of further sharp increases in prices for grains, cotton, certain fruits and vegetables, hay, hogs, and sheep.

The index, at 100.7 per cent of the 1926 average, is at a 16 year high.

Buyer 'Strike' Cuts Hog Prices

A buyer "strike" against high hog prices resulted in the most erratic market session of the winter in the stock yards yesterday. Soon after a rise of 10 cents a hundred pounds, which carried prices to new 24 year December peaks, the market fell rapidly as packers canceled buying orders. The finish was 5 to 10 cents below Wednesday's average and 25 to 30 cents below the opening.

Despite extremely small supplies thruout the country, it was estimated that about 2,000 hogs were left at the close of trading. The market will will be closed today.

Third Highest for December.

A few loads of prime heavy hogs soared to $14.95 at the start, setting the highest December price since 1918. It was $1.30 above two weeks ago and was well above the basis on which pork packers can work profitably under existing ceilings. Packer resistance increased to the extent that some announced they would suspend hog butchering until Monday in hope that farmers would send more stock into the market.

The 20 large markets received only 79,000 hogs, which was 43,000 fewer than one Thursday of last week. Low supplies of other meat animals also were reported. The pre-holiday arrivals of cattle at the 20 markets, at 17,000 head, compared with 31,000 a week ago.

Production Below Estimates.

Unexpected shrinkage of hog supplies this week caused an acute price situation for pork packers who had built up their butchering crews for an expected heavy volume. Even the drop in beef production ran larger than expected.

Top grades of lambs were bid up 15 cents more to $16, a new peak for the winter season and the highest December price since 1925.

Most steers and yearlings were weak to 25 cents lower, within a range of $14 to $15.75. Top loads reached $16.85.

2 BIG FURNITURE SHOWS WILL GO ON AS PLANNED

ODT 'Cancellation' Is Not an Order.

The January furniture shows in Chicago, which constitute the leading trade event of its kind in the nation, will be held as scheduled Jan. 4 to 16, inclusive, despite a short lived flurry of uncertainty created yesterday by an office of defense transportation statement, it was learned last night. The market events will be held at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart.

The ODT, in a telegram addressed to the nation's furniture marts, said it was "requesting" the cancellation of all furniture markets and shows "proposed or contemplated." It said "this advice is up to date, and reflects traffic developments of the last 30 days."

Contrary to Assurances

The request was viewed by furniture men as contrary to assurances given the Chicago markets and the Chicago Association of Commerce last fall by ODT and the war production board that essential trade events would not be curbed in the government's efforts to reduce travel to ease the war strain on transportation facilities.

Lawrence Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart and vice president of the commerce association, telephoned Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, after the telegram was sent. Whiting said that Eastman, after being told why the furniture industry regards the shows as a travel saver, asserted that the telegram was not an order, and that no order requiring abandonment of the events would be issued.

Whiting said he and Eastman agreed that everything possible should be done to minimize unnecessary travel, and to spread essential travel as much as possible to reduce peak transportation loads.

Regarded as Travel Savers.

Whiting told Eastman that the industry regards its markets as travel savers because they enable merchants to do all their buying for months ahead on one trip to a single center where hundreds of manufacturers' exhibits are concentrated. Chicago is the largest furniture market center in the United States, Whiting said.

He also advised Eastman that the calendar had been cleared of all other large gatherings for the period of the furniture shows, with several national conventions having been held earlier than usual this year in an effort to coöperate with ODT.

Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, said last night that his organization will proceed with its market event, which covers not only furniture, but the whole home furnishings field. He said that manufacturers must sell goods to stay in business, and that stores need the goods.

Called Vital to Distribution.

"These centralized markets are essential to the economic distribution of goods, and they reduce travel," Wilson said. "If it were not for such events, individual buyers would have to travel all over the country to the factories."

Wilson said registrations at the mart show that the home furnishings industry is coöperating to reduce travel. Many firms which formerly sent several buyers will send only one in January, he said. More stores will be represented than a year ago, he said, but fewer persons will attend.

Whiting said he had been informed that some of the other smaller furniture trade shows in other cities, including San Francisco, Grand Rapids, Mich., and New York, will be held as scheduled.

INLAND TO CARRY FIGHT OVER SHIP CREWS TO BOARD

Inland Steel company's fight against union selection of men to operate Great Lakes steamers, as recommended recently by a war labor board mediation panel, will be carried before a full meeting of the board in Washington, D. C., next Tuesday, the company announced yesterday. An immediate decision by the board is expected and may dictate government policy in disputes of this nature.

The company contends the panel's decision "deprives us of the right to select employés on merit" and that the order to grant the National Maritime union "not only union maintenance but the hiring hall" violates a Presidential pledge not to force the closed shop on industry.

Others to be heard by the full board are the Interstate Steamship, Bethlehem Transportation and International Harvester companies.

THREE BIG RAILS' EARNINGS CLIMB FROM LAST YEAR

New York Central railroad reported yesterday that November net income was $3,894,109, nearly three times as much as the $1,356,079 profit a year ago. Net income for the 11 months ended Nov. 30 was $42,797,495, compared with $24,335,174 in the corresponding 1941 period.

Rock Island railroad November net operating income was $3,743,431, compared with $585,011 in November, 1941. Net operating income for the 11 months amounted to $33,696,284, against $16,232,393.

Union Pacific railroad net income last month was $8,278,833, compared with $4,673,691 in November, 1941.

War Is Damper on Christmas Festivities of La Salle Street

War put a damper on the Christmas festivities in La Salle street this year. Usually one of the gayest spots in the city during the day or two before Christmas, the financial district this year largely confined its holiday celebations to small private "family parties" at which firm members and their employés gathered for a quiet bit of refreshment. Many of the younger men of the financial district are serving with the army, navy, or marine corps. Many of the older men in the street have sent their sons to war and much of the holiday activity was devoted to the sending of remembrances to the fighting men.

Board's Hi-Jinks Missing.

The Chicago Stock exchange served sandwiches and beer to its members and employés Wednesday and closed shop a half hour earlier than usual yesterday. At the Board of Trade a couple of Christmas trees gave a holiday touch, but the usual hi-jinks were lacking. "The Board of Trade Christmas was dull last year when the war started," commented a market veteran, "and this year it was twice as dull."

At the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Mark Brown, vice president, who has been spending much time in Washington, continued his usual Christmas custom of passing out personally bright red apples to his colleagues. The bank held a quiet tea for employés Tuesday at which war shortages restricted the usual plentiful supply of cookies.

Employés of the Northern Trust company ate lunch together as guests of the bank and a chorus of about 60 bank employés sang carols.

Small Department Parties.

At the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company Christmas trees and poinsettias gave a holiday touch. Some of the employés held small department parties, but there was no general holiday celebration.

The American National Bank and Trust company centered its holiday spirit on its war service center. The First National bank's celebration was largely centered on a party given by the bank's Red Cross unit.

Former Vice President Charles Gates Dawes was present at an open house given for employés Wednesday afternoon at the City National Bank and Trust company. Apple and mince pies and coffee were served. A male chorus sang Christmas songs. Department parties were held yesterday afternoon.

Many of the outlying banks held informal parties after bank hours on Tuesday and Wednesday. Most of the banks and a large number of business houses remembered their employés in the war with Christmas packages.

Texas Railroad Rate Rule Hint of I. C. C. Stand

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission today ordered intrastate railroad fares and freight rates in Texas increased to the interstate level. This was considered an indication that the commission would turn down requests made by government officials to eliminate interstate rate increases authorized earlier in the year.

The ICC asserted, in an opinion by Commissioner J. Haden Alldredge, that the present interstate rates, charges, and fares from points in the southwest to destinations in Texas, as increased by orders issued last February and March, "are just and reasonable."

Officials Fight Increase.

The commission has before it petitions from the director of economic stabilization, the price administrator, the secretary of agriculture, and various nongovernmental organizations to eliminate the interstate rate.

At the same time, the commission implied support of 6 per cent earnings on investment for the railroads. It said that based on the first five months' figures, the carriers would earn about 5.6 per cent and that by applying the increases to intrastate operations in Texas, as ordered today, the rate would be raised to about 6 per cent.

Effect of Rise Considered.

The commission stated abruptly that the possible effect upon inflation of higher rail rates had been considered before granting the increases ordered last February and March.

The commission stoutly affirmed its control over carrier charges, calling attention to the recently enacted amendments to the price control act and the executive regulations establishing a director of economic stabilization.

It asserted that it was merely required to notify the office of price administration of prospective changes in rates and charges and declared that "it has never been contended that those provisions modified the provisions of the interstate commerce act."

WIEBOLDT BUYS TWO WAREHOUSES FOR $300,000

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., yesterday bought the three and six story Peck & Hills warehouses, 1000 Ogden avenue, containing 280,000 square feet, for $300,000 from the Ogden Avenue Warehouse Building company, announced A. R. Findley, secretary-treasurer. Both warehouse units are of modern, fireproof construction, erected in 1926 at a reported cost of 1 million dollars. Arthur Rubloff & Co., and Louis B. Beardslee & Co., were brokers.

Indirectly the purchase was caused by war activities. When the government bought the new Sprague Warner & Co. warehouse at 505 North Sacramento boulevard, that company bought the six story Heywood-Wakefield building at Washtenaw avenue and Arthington and Taylor streets. Wieboldt, occupying 165,000 square feet there, must move by April.

The Firestone Tire & Rubber company will vacate its quarters by Feb. 1. Other tenants have 30 to 60 day cancellation clauses in their leases.

Wieboldt's paid $100,000 cash and the balance with a purchase money mortgage negotiated thru the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

OUTPUT OF ELECTRIC POWER SETS RECORD HIGH ON 13 PCT. BOOST

The nation's electric power production during the week ended Dec. 19, set a new record high of 3,975,873,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 13.8 per cent above the 1941 period, the Edison Electric institute announced yesterday. The preceding week's record output totaled 3,937,524,000 hours.

The Pacific coast led all other areas with an increase of 28.6 per cent above last year.

People and Events

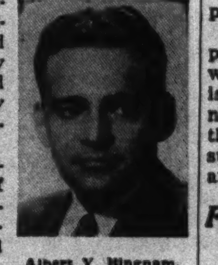
C. S. Clingman has been elected vice president of the Johns-Manville Sales corporation, L. R. Hoff, president, announced yesterday. He will continue general sales manager of the transportation division of the sales corporation, with headquarters in Chicago. Clingman is a member of a family which came to Chicago in 1832.

L. O. Ehrlich, former vice president of the Glaser Crandell company, has been appointed manager of the manufacturing department of the Sprague Warner division of the Sprague Warner-Kenny corporation, the company announced yesterday. Emil Kohut, who has been with the company for 20 years, was elevated to manager of the canned foods department.

Orrin J. Norris, commerce assistant of the New York Central railroad, will retire Jan. 1 because of ill health. Norris, who has spent more than 52 years in railroad work, began in 1890 as a telegrapher on the Pennsylvania railroad's Cincinnati division. He was transferred to Chicago in 1932 by New York Central.

Three members of the American Airlines' Chicago based personnel have received special appointments. Capt. G. J. Deater becomes chief training pilot of the company's training school; C. H. McIntosh has been made chief navigator for the system, and Capt. J. S. Anderson has been promoted to chief pilot.

2 NEW OFFICERS ARE SELECTED BY CHICAGO TITLE



Albert Y. Bingham.

Election of Albert Young Bingham as vice president and appointment of Glenn M. Trumbo as assistant treasurer of the Chicago Title and Trust company was announced yesterday by Holman D. Pettibone, president.

Until the recent death of Walter P. Murphy, Chicago philanthropist and railway equipment manufacturer whose gift of several million dollars to Northwestern university created the Northwestern Technological institute, Bingham had been engaged in the management of Mr. Murphy's securities since 1935.

Trumbo has been with the Chicago Title and Trust company since 1929, and since 1936 has been manager of the trading department.

U.S. PRODUCTION OUTLOOK GAINS, SAYS WPB CHIEF

Forecasts Virile '43 Home Front.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson said today that the nation can meet all the "must" programs for war goods in 1943 and still maintain a virile domestic economy.

Conceding that the production outlook in several lines looked "almost hopeless" a short time ago, Nelson told a press conference that the outlook has cleared and that definite programs have been set for next year.

"These programs will be difficult to meet, but not impossible," Nelson said. "All the production plans are being better meshed together than at any previous time. Next year will see the greatest coördinated production this country has ever had."

Civilians Face Sacrifices.

Five "must" programs named by Nelson are airplanes, high octane gasoline, merchant ships, naval vessels, and rubber.

"To meet goals in these lines," Nelson said, "we must make whatever curtailments are necessary in the civilian economy above the minimum needs for health and safety of the nation's citizens.

"We don't know just how much farther supplies for civilians will have to be cut. But we are not going to ask for any more sacrifices than are necessary. The people of this country will make sacrifices gladly if they think they are necessary."

Nelson said the production picture has improved sharply under the supervision of Charles E. Wilson, WPB vice chairman, who came to WPB in September from the presidency of the General Electric company.

Disputes Ironed Out.

Last month, following a dispute between Nelson and the army and navy over control of production, an agreement was reached whereby Wilson was given general supervision over scheduling war goods output, with particular emphasis on aircraft, naval vessels, and radio detection equipment. Scheduling had previously been in the hands of the army, navy, and other procurement agencies.

"Production is now going ahead with full coöperation of the army and navy," Nelson said.

Nelson declared that altho the country will never have a "comfortable" supply of critical materials during the war, it now appears that there will be enough steel, aluminum, and copper to meet war output goals.

"Altho the steel situation looked hopeless a few months ago," he added, "it is now apparent that steel will not be a limiting factor in meeting production schedules."

Synthetic Rubber Gains.

He also said the outlook for production of synthetic rubber is brighter. Early this month Rubber Administrator William Jeffers reported to Nelson that the rubber program faced "disaster" because critical materials needed for rubber plants were being diverted to other "must" programs.

Nelson attributed the change in outlook for steel, rubber, and other lines to a better coördination of the whole production program.

He said there are 34 "limiting components" common to many lines of war goods and that specific action is being taken to prevent a bottleneck in these items. He did not list the components but said they include such things as instruments, motors, and generators.

Fabricated Steel Orders Set 21 Year Low in Month

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—New orders for fabricated structural steel booked in November were the smallest in any month since 1921, reflecting government efforts to conserve steel for more critical war use, the American Institute of Steel Construction announced today. Bookings amounted to 45,972 tons, against 47,972 in October and 184,043 in November, 1941.

COUNCIL BLUFFS GAS FIRM BOUGHT BY JOHN NUVEEN

Voters Reject Municipal Ownership Plan.

John Nuveen Jr., Chicago investment banker on leave to the war production board, yesterday became the owner of the Council Bluffs [Ia.] Gas company, which the voters of that city turned down as a municipal ownership proposition. The securities and exchange commission approved the sale at a base price of $1,235,000.

Nuveen said he had no immediate plans in connection with the property, which the SEC had ordered sold as a step in revamping the Lone Star Gas corporation ,its former owner.

Property Ordered Sold.

Lone Star was directed to dispose of the Council Bluffs company in compliance with provisions of the public utility holding company act.

Voters of Council Bluffs early this month turned down a chance to buy the company for $1,560,000 and use its facilities for a municipal gas system. Nuveen previously had notified the SEC he was prepared to purchase the property, offered the Council Bluffs city council, in the event the vote was against municipal ownership.

Figured in Similar Deals.

Nuveen had figured in several similar transactions before, and for some time was the owner of the Scottsbluff, Neb., utility system. He indicated he would either retain the Council Bluffs gas system as a source of income, or dispose of the property if an advantageous opportunity arose.

Nuveen has been on leave of absence for six months as a partner of John Nuveen & Co., municipal bond firm, to serve as Chicago regional conservation director for the WPB.

BELL TELEPHONE OF PENNSYLVANIA LOWERS DIVIDEND

Directors of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, a reduction of 75 cents from the rate paid in September and June. Since 1936 the company paid $2 a share until last June. All common stock of the company is owned by American Telephone & Telegraph company.

"NEW MONEY."

The term "new money" has been used several times recently in connection with the sale of federal government obligations. What is the meaning of this term? Is new money actually printed and made available in some manner to those who purchase these government issues?—J. H. G.

Answer: The term "new money" is misleading, since no new currency is printed in connection with the sale of government issues. When, for example, 5 billion dollars of government obligations are sold, and 2½ billions of the proceeds is used for redeeming outstanding securities, the remaining 2½ billions would be "new money" to the treasury.

In other words, any part of the proceeds from the sale of government issues not used by the treasury for redeeming other obligations outstanding has been sometimes designated as "new money" by the treasury. Actually, such funds represent additional governmental indebtedness.

WARD SALES.

Do you have Montgomery Ward & Co. sales figures for November and the first 10 months of the company's fiscal year? Thanks.—J. G. D.

Answer: November sales totaled $68,395,894, up 7.9 per cent from the $63,344,711 figure for the 1941 month. Sales in the 10 months totaled $547,686,943, an increase of 0.1 per cent over $547,155,860 in the corresponding period of 1941.

TIME EXTENDED.

Is the Golden Cycle corporation included among mining operators granted war production board permission to continue operations for an extended period?—H. G. W.

Answer: The WPB has granted the company permission to mine and mill gold bearing ores for six months from Dec. 8, 1942, the effective date of the general gold mine closing order. Within this six month period the company expects to convert facilities to handle zinc ores.

CURRENT POSITION.

How much are current assets and liabilities of Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool company?—H. Y.

Answer: As of Sept. 30, current assets were $10,406,708, and current liabilities were $8,108,850.

GRAIN FUTURES PRCIES ADVANCE; VOLUME IS SMALL

Soy Beans All Unchanged in Nominal Market.

Grain futures prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were firm yesterday and closed with gains ranging to 1 cent a bushel. Volume was light in the shortened pre-holiday session, but short covering and broadened demand that followed reports of a larger than expected increase in flour ceilings kept prices higher.

Final wheat prices were up ⅛ to ⅝ cent. Corn advanced ⅝ to ¾ cent, the July and September deliveries earlier reaching new seasonal peaks. Rye gained ⅝ to 1 cent, and oats, ¼ to ⅝ cent. Soy beans were unchanged in a nominal market.

Some Buying by Mills.

Some of the buying of wheat futures was attributed to mills. There was relatively little selling pressure, with most of the sales profit taking and some apparently from outside interests.

The reports of the larger flour ceiling boost mentioned the possibility of an increase of 78 cents a barrel, or 20 cents more than the figure expected originally. It was also reported that the Commodity Credit corporation plan for subsidizing millers by releasing loan wheat at levels which would relieve them of the squeeze between rising grain prices and flour ceilings has been shelved and that the government agency has asked Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to attempt to obtain ceilings sufficiently high to give farmers parity price for their grain, less parity payments.

Appears Most Equitable.

Board of Trade sources said that the current proposal appears to be the most equitable to farmers, mills, and consumers alike.

Corn futures were active, with cash interests fair buyers. Prices were easier later on selling by elevators. Offerings of cash grain from the country were limited. Indications that demand for corn as a hog feed will be heavy also strengthened the market.

Rye opened unchanged to slightly lower, but rallied on buying by local operators. Brokers with eastern connections sold in moderate volume. Oats showed little change during the light trading but averaged higher in sympathy with other grains.

LABOR SEEKS 50% ILLINOIS TAX ON FARM PAYMENTS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—The Illinois State Federation of Labor announced today it would ask the legislature to enact a 50 per cent state tax on the federal farm benefit payments received by farmers under the soil conservation program. Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the federation, said the tax would "establish a better balance between the war contributions made by famers as compared to wage earners."

"Working people are loaning 10 per cent of their wages to the federal government for war purposes, and farmers are getting part of this money for not working their soil," Soderstrom said. "The farm section of society is not investing 10 per cent of its income in war bonds. If checks cannot be taxed, land producing those checks unquestionably can."

Soderstrom said the federation also would support legislation establishing a state employés pension system, and bills setting up state wages and hours and labor relations laws.

The company also proposed to sell 3,284 shares of no par value common stock to its parent, New England Public Service company, at $60 a share, and to sell 2½ millions of unsecured notes.

ON SUNDAY—

ART CALENDAR for 1943 In Full Color

Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune will bring you a beautiful page-size art calendar for 1943, illustrated in full color. It will show the American naval victory over the Japs in the Solomon Islands, as painted expressly for the Tribune by Artist James M. Sessions. Don't miss this outstanding feature in the Color Picture section of Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

AMERICA The Beautiful

A full page of natural color photos in Sunday's Color Graphic section will give new meaning, line by line, to the famous song, "America the Beautiful." Perhaps you have never realized how beautiful this country really is—these pictures will make you proud—see them Sunday in the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

New photos of Betty Hutton of the platinum hair, Marilyn Maxwell, Natalie Draper, Doris Merrick and Kay Williams—all top favorites as "pin-up" girls—will be presented in the Color Picture section of Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

FIRST ARMORED AUTO. Way back in 1898, an army colonel dreamed up a three wheel car mounting an automatic rifle. See the rare picture of this original armored car and read John Menaugh's interesting article about it on Sunday in the Color Graphic section.

HOLLYWOOD'S 1942. What did 1942 do to Hollywood? Hedda Hopper will review the big changes in the film capital in her illustrated article on Sunday in the Color Graphic section.

LOG OF A FIGHTER. What happened aboard one of the navy's heavy cruisers since Pearl Harbor will be told in an absorbing article on Sunday in the Color Graphic section. Fights, rescues, suspense, thrills—this true story moves faster than fiction—don't miss it!

More Brenda Starr Cutouts in Color

Six more outfits for Brenda Starr, as suggested by readers, will be shown in color in Sunday's big comic section. Get these new cutouts and keep your Brenda Starr collection complete.

PROGRAM SET UP FOR PRODUCTION OF NAVAL STORES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 (AP).—The department of agriculture announced today a combination government loan and purchase program designed to support prices and encourage production of gum naval stores products for war needs. Products affected are turpentine and rosin. Producers coöperating in the conservation program for naval stores were given the option either of pledging their products for loan or of selling them of the Commodity Credit corporation.

DEATHLESS DEER
By Neysa McMein and Alicia Patterson
TAKE THE SHORTEST WAY TO THE STREET OF THE BROKEN FINGER
YES, MASTER
WHILE BRUCE AND THE PROF ARE HUNTING FOR THE PRINCESS IN THE WOODS, DEER'S CAPTORS ARE SPEEDING ON THEIR WAY TO AN UNKNOWN DESTINATION---- SOMEONE IS FOLLOWING US, MASTER WHAT SHALL I DO?
FOOL! YOU'VE BEEN GOING TOO FAST IT IS TOO LATE TO DO ANYTHING --LET ME DO THE TALKING WOULD YOU LIKE TO TAKE SOME TICKETS FOR THE POLICEMEN'S BALL?
IT WOULD BE A PLEASURE
WE HAVE HAD A FORTUNATE ESCAPE DRIVE SLOWLY, FOOL. WE MUST TAKE NO MORE CHANCES
GET OUT AND PRESS THE SECRET BUTTON
YES, MASTER
ONCE WE ARE THRU THIS DOOR THE POLICE WILL NEVER FIND US
ABU AND ALI TAKE THEIR UNWILLING PASSENGER INTO THE CITY OF THIEVES, A HIDE-OUT OF CRIMINALS THAT HAD BAFFLED THE POLICE FOR YEARS.
HIDDEN IN A MAZE OF EVIL STREETS, CAMOUFLAGED BY ITS SHABBY EXTERIOR, STANDS ABU'S STRONGHOLD
IN THIS QUARTER QUESTIONS WERE NEVER ASKED
UNTIE HER HANDS, ALI. SHE CAN'T ESCAPE US NOW
YOU MUST FORGIVE ME, GRACIOUS LADY, FOR THE UNSEEMLY WAY I BROUGHT YOU HERE.
I AM DEER--DAUGHTER OF THE SUN HOW DARE YOU!
IT IS FOR YOUR OWN GOOD, EXALTED ONE
SEE THAT THE PRINCESS HAS EVERYTHING SHE NEEDS
WHERE CAN I BE? THIS ROOM IS LIKE A PALACE!
HOW KIND THIS WATER IS TO MY TIRED BODY
BRING ME SOME FOOD
WHAT A STRANGE PLACE! THIS SERVICE IS OF GOLD FIT FOR A KING
WHO IS YOUR MASTER?
WHY DON'T YOU ANSWER ME?
OH, MY POOR CREATURE! THEY HAVE CUT OUT YOUR TONGUE!
NEXT WEEK—IN PERIL
